WHITE SOX OWNER CONVINCED THAT SERIES WAS FIXED

Comiskey Tells of Conferences Held After His Team Lost the Opening Game.

HEYDLER LAUDS McGRAW

Says Giants' Manager Wrecked Pennant Chances by Releasing Suspected Players.

HEARS MONEY WAS PASSED

Grand Jury to Investigate Story of Mysterious Package—Kauff Said to Have Spurned $500 Bribe.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—A further contribution to the history of the world's series of 1919 was made today when Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, admitted that he was convinced after the first game last Fall against the Cincinnati Reds that some one had "fixed" some of his players. This admission on the part of Mr. Comiskey was verified and amplified by President John Heydler of the National League, who arrived in Chicago to testify before the Grand Jury on Tuesday.

Comiskey took the matter up with Heydler on the morning of the second game because he was not on speaking terms with President Johnson of the American League and Garry Herrmann, head of the National Commission, was also President of the Reds, the rival team. He also called Heydler into conference after the second game had been played, more thoroughly convinced then that certain players of the White Sox were trying to throw the games to Cincinnati.

This disclosure and a statement by Monte Tennes, prominent among big gamblers of Chicago, that he was ready and willing to go before the Grand Jury and tell anything he knows of betting on the 1919 series, were the important developments of the day in the airing of professional baseball. That startling evidence will be presented before the jurors when the investigation is resumed seems certain.

President Johnson of the American League, also returned to Chicago today from New York where he had a conference with Arnold Rothstein, race track man and gambler, who was connected with rumors of fixing the world's series. Johnson stated that he had been convinced that Rothstein wasn't in on the frame-up but that that the big gambler admitted he knew about it.

Heydler Discusses Case.

Heydler's account of the conferences with Comiskey during the playing of the series was given out by him tonight after being assured that the Sox owner had admitted it and in relating the facts, the National League boss referred to notes and papers which he has with him to present to the Grand Jury as evidence.

"It was the next morning after the first game of the series," he related, "that I was approached by Tip O'Neill, who was with Comiskey at the games in Cincinnati. Tip told me that Commy was all broken up and felt that something was wrong with his team in that first game and he wanted to talk to me about it.

"To me such a thing as crookedness in that game did not seem possible. I told Comiskey that I thought the White Sox were rather taken by surprise; that perhaps they had underestimated the strength of the Cincinnati team, and that the White Sox might have been caught rather unawares, while the Reds were all primed for the series.

"The matter was dropped for the time, and that day the Reds won again and we moved to Chicago for the third game. Comiskey called me on the telephone early that morning and asked me to come out and see him. Accompanied by John Bruce, Secretary of the National Commission, I went to his office at the ball park, and once more he stated he felt sure something was wrong. Still I couldn't believe it and asked him why he felt that way. Among other things he told of a Chicago fan who had gone to Cincinnati and wagered on the White Sox, but after getting some "inside" information from gambling friends had switched and wagered on Cincinnati.

A Matter for Johnson.

"Comiskey stated that his manager, Kid Gleason, felt convinced that some one had 'reached' the Sox players, and that they had talked the matter over and felt an investigation should be made. He said he wasn't able to go to President Johnson about it and had appealed to me. I still believed that he was mistaken, but I took the matter up with Johnson later, when we were sitting in a box watching the game. Johnson replied with a rather curt remark that made me refrain from further remarks. However, I felt that Johnson was the man to investigate matters and felt the affair was safe in his hands.

"After the series was all over an article appeared in one of the papers hinting that the series had been fixed, and I immediately went to Johnson and said the affair had better be taken right up and cleaned up. I was in favor of holding the players, if possible, hiring some

French Time Limit to Soviet Brings Reds' Quick Surrender

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The French threat that unless all French prisoners in Russia are repatriated by Oct. 1, the French Black Sea fleet will take action against Soviet Russia, has brought the reply from M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, "We bow to brute force," according to a wireless message from Moscow.

M. Tchitcherin protests against such action by the French, declaring that Russia has no guarantee that the Russians in France will be repatriated.

BERNE, Sept. 26.—The Swiss Government has decided not to open political or commercial relations with Soviet Russia. Lenin's emissary, named Bratmann, who recently arrived to open relations, will be asked to leave.

The fact that Swiss residents in Russia have been mistreated by Bolsheviki influenced the Swiss Government in its action.

HARDING WILL MEET COX AT UNVEILING

Both Will Speak at Exercises at Soldiers' Memorial Near Fremont, Ohio, on Oct. 4.

HARDING STARTS ON TOUR

Will Speak in Four Eastern and Border States in Course of Three-Day Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Unique in the history of Presidential campaigns, candidates of two great parties will take luncheon together and speak from the same platform on Oct. 4, when Governor Cox and Senator Harding are scheduled to appear at Spiegel Grove, near Fremont, Ohio, according to an announcement this afternoon from Harding headquarters. Plans for the candidates to appear together at the Ohio State Fair at Columbus last month fell through because of Senator Harding's refusal to attend. The Harding headquarters announcement read:

"Senator Harding and Governor Cox will speak from the same platform on the afternoon of Oct. 4 at Spiegel Grove, near Fremont, Ohio, at the unveiling of a memorial tablet in honor of the Sandusky County soldiers who lost their lives in the great war.

"The two Presidential candidates, accompanied by their wives, will be the guests of Colonel Webb C. Hayes, son of ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes, at his home.

"The date, Oct. 4, is the ninety-eighth anniversary of the birth of Rutherford B. Hayes. The ceremonies of the occasion will mark the unveiling of a bronze tablet in the Hayes Memorial Library in Spiegel Grove State Park. The tablet contains the names of seventy soldiers of Sandusky County who lost their lives in the war with Spain and the World War.

"The Spiegel Grove Park comprises largely the old Rutherford B. Hayes estate. One of its ornaments is the Hayes Memorial Building, in which the tablet is to be unveiled."

Won't Discuss Johnson Letter Charge.

Concerning Governor Cox's charges that Senator Harding has written a letter to Senator Hiram Johnson pledging himself to scrap the League of Nations, Senator Harding said this afternoon:

"I have nothing to say to anybody on the subject of foreign relations that I do not say in public utterances. It is only fair to Senator Johnson to say that he never asked me to do so."

Few pilgrimages to the front porch have given Senator and Mrs. Harding greater pleasure than the visit this afternoon of more than a score of former newsboys of the Harding paper, The Marion Daily Star. Some of them are among Marion's most prosperous business men. Others came here for today's meeting from New York, the Pacific Coast and the Southwest. All were veterans of the early days of The Star, when Mrs. Harding had them in charge.

Those were the days when Warren G. Harding, struggling to put his small country paper on its feet, was his own editor, reporter, advertising manager and at times makeup man and compositor.

Mrs. Harding, who had been disowned by her father, Amos Kling, then one of Marion's wealthiest men, for marrying a poor country publisher with apparently no other future, took charge of the circulation department of The Star. For fourteen years she worked in The Star office, laying out carrier routes and organizing squads of newsboys. She ruled the "newsies" with a firm hand, and looked after their morals as well. There were some here today who got their first start in life through Mrs. Harding's encouragement.

"How many of you boys have I ever spanked?" Mrs. Harding asked of the group of men on the front porch, some of them gray-haired. "Put your hands up."

Half a dozen raised their hands amid laughter from the rest. Among them was "Jimmy" Wood, whose punishment nearly caused an insurrection in The Star office. It developed that most of the chastisement had been administered to give moral encouragement to lazy newsboys who balked at delivering papers over dusty or muddy roads with no sidewalks on the outskirts of Marion.

Starts on Speaking Trip.

COX CALLS HARDING 'BREWER,' CHARGING TRICK 'DRY' QUERIES

Declares That Republican Nominee Is Apologizing for Holding Stock.

ASSAILS WHEELER METHODS

Governor Says He Was Asked of the Future and Harding of the Past.

HE DEMANDS EQUAL TESTS

Wheeler Holds Variation Was Justified—Cox Confers in Wyoming on Outlook.

Special to The New York Times.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 26.—The direct charge that Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, is a "mere chattel of Republican headquarters," and that he is attempting by unscrupulous means to help Senator Harding, was made here today by Governor James M. Cox.

Governor Cox also challenged Wheeler to print the records of both nominees on the prohibition issue and then "submit to us the same question, with the agreement to print the replies without deceitful comment."

The Democratic nominee made it evident in issuing his statement that he was prepared to answer any question which was submitted also to Senator Harding. He held that Wheeler did not, to his mind, represent truly the Prohibitionists and that he had no other course to follow, unless he was ready to stand discredited in the eyes of the American people.

In the same statement he declared Senator Harding "a brewer who is apologizing for his holdings" of stock.

"Trickery" Obvious, Cox Says.

The Governor's statement reads:

"My attention has been called to a dispatch from the East which quotes Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, as saying that he has submitted questions to both Harding and myself—and that I had not responded but Senator Harding had.

"Let me direct the notice of the public to this significant circumstances. I was asked whether I was for or against any proposal to change the Volstead law. Senator Harding was asked whether he stood by his record vote on the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. This sharp difference will be noted. The question to me was based upon future developments, the one to Senator Harding was not. I was asked what I would do in the future. Senator Harding was not.

"The habitual trickery of Wheeler, which we are used to in Ohio, by the way, is obvious in the face of his oft-repeated statement that the Anti-Saloon League was only interested now in what might be done with the Volstead act, and yet he made no attempt whatsoever to ascertain Senator Harding's stand on what he (Wheeler) himself says is the real issue. This would all seem to be a carefully devised partisan plan. In fact, one would have expected it from Will H. Hays, the Republican Chairman.

"That it was prepared as a protection to the Republican candidate rather than as an attempt to ascertain his views is perfectly clear. This idea would seem to be strengthened by the coincidence of events. On the day preceding Mr. Wheeler's statement, representatives of the Prohibition Party made public in Chicago a letter from George Christian, Jr., Senator Harding's secretary, in which two striking things appeared, first, that the Senator was interested in the brewery business, and, second, that if the Volstead act were changed by Congress, the Senator would not improperly impose his will on the lawmaking body.

Proposes Equal Tests.

"In the face of this disturbing revelation, first aid was needed from some source. If it had been given by Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee, it would have been unavailing, but Mr. Wheeler, true to his adherence in the past to the reactionary influences of the commercial wing now in charge of the Republican Party, came forward with a blundering and unscrupulous defense.

"It is inconceivable how any sensible person would attempt to foist such a thing on the public, and further how the conscientious members of the Anti-Saloon League can have any further doubts as to Wayne Wheeler being, what I have already charged, a mere chattel of Republican headquarters.

"If Mr. Wheeler is an honest man why does he not present the records of both Senator Harding and myself on the liquor question and then submit to us the same question with an agreement to print our replies thereto without deceitful comment? I would also like to ask Mr. Wheeler what change has come over the record of Senator Harding that has enabled Mr. Wheeler, as the spokesman for the Anti-Saloon League, to withdraw the condemnation uttered by the Anti-Saloon League against the Senator before his nomination.

"How can he explain to the conscientious members of his organization his support for the Presidency of the United States of a brewer who is apologizing for his holdings?"

Rohlfs Hurt in Trial Flight for Air Race; His Machine Turns Turtle on Etampes Field

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 26 (Associated Press).—Roland Rohlfs, one of the American entrants for the James Gordon Bennett International Aviation Cup, to be raced for here Tuesday, crashed to the ground while flying his Texas Wildcat airplane in practice this evening and was seriously injured.

Rohlfs had flown from the Villa Coublay airdrome, a distance of 60 miles, and was landing here at a speed of almost two miles a minute when the wheels struck a rough spot and collapsed. The machine turned turtle and the fusilage was broken off just behind the wings.

American army mechanicians pulled Rohlfs from under the mass of wreckage, and, making an examination in the absence of any doctor, discovered that his shoulder was probably broken. It is feared also that several of his ribs were fractured. He suffered many contusions and was hurried to the Etampes Hospital.

In consequence of the accident feverish efforts are being made tonight to bring over the other Curtiss plane, the "Cactus Kitten," by camion from Villacoublay in order that it may arrive by 7 o'clock Monday morning, the rules requiring that all planes must be on the field twenty-four hours in advance of the race.

Two Curtiss planes were entered by Mr. and Mrs. Cox of Texas, but the second machine was considered in reserve and had not been completely tuned up.

Clarence Coombs is also the reserve pilot for this entry.

A one-time holder of the American altitude record and credited with an unofficial climb of 34,200 feet, Roland Rohlfs, who was injured in France yesterday, is 28 years old and for four years has been a crack flier. During the war he was chief test pilot for the Curtiss Engineer Corporation, a post from which the Government refused to transfer him when he applied for duty in the Air Service. He is a son of Charles Rohlfs of Buffalo, a designer of furniture, and of Anna Katherine Green, author of "The Leavenworth Case" and other novels.

In July, 1919, Rohlfs, in an official flight at Roosevelt Field, L. I., drove a Curtiss plane up to 30,700 feet, breaking the best previous American record—that of 28,900 feet, held by Major Rudolph W. Schroeder, United States Air Service. The world's height record had been 33,136 feet, held by Adjutant Casale of the French Army. On Feb. 27, 1920, Major Schroeder broke all marks with a climb of 36,020 feet, at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Formal request that Etampes Field be made safe for landing 'planes in the Gordon Bennett race, to start tomorrow, is still under consideration by the Racing Committee abroad, the Aero Club of America which made the request announced here yesterday. A previous petition that the field be abandoned in favor of Morane Field has been denied, it was added.

SCHIFF MOURNED BY HOSTS HE AIDED

Deep Personal Note Marks Grief Expressed Over Philanthropist's Death.

HUNDREDS WEEP IN STREET

Crowds Gather on East Side—President Wilson Sends Tribute.

The highest marks of public respect were paid yesterday to the memory of Jacob H. Schiff, who died on Saturday, but the greatest tribute was the personal grief of tens of thousands who had received relief directly from his hands.

The telegrams and cablegrams received by the family yesterday numbered thousands. Leaders in American public life, including President Wilson, paid such honors to his memory as seldom mark the death of a man in private life. The telegram from President Wilson follows:

> The White House,
> Washington, Sept. 26, 1920.
> Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, New York.
>
> May I not extend you my heartiest sympathy on the death of your distinguished husband? By his death the nation has lost one of its most useful citizens. WOODROW WILSON.

Scores of societies and synagogues held hurried meetings during the day to pass resolutions of respect. Dozens of buildings on the east side were draped in mourning.

Crowds gathered on the east side in spontaneous public expressions of sorrow, hundreds weeping in the streets as if the death had been in their own families. The mourning among the Jews extended from the poorest to the richest and embraced all political factions and variations of religion. The sense of great public loss was not confined to the Jews. Appreciation of Mr. Schiff and of his works came from citizens of all classes and faiths.

All the Jewish shops on the east side will close tomorrow morning from 10 to 10:30, the time of the funeral.

Personal Note in Sorrow.

Those who personally had known the great philanthropist and financier over considerable periods of his life pointed out the reason why the personal note appeared so strongly in the general demonstration of sorrow and respect. This was that, notwithstanding his identification with scores of Jewish and other philanthropies and his large gifts for public uses, the great majority of his acts of charity were personal matters between him and the individual or family that came to him for help.

These acts extended over a period of fifty-five years, since he started life in this country, and marked nearly every day of his life. It is probable, according to close associates of Mr. Schiff, that his individual gifts to aid those who appealed to him personally were more numerous than those of any living man, if not than those of any man who ever lived.

"He insisted on handling personally all mail from persons in distress," said one of his partners yesterday. "He would not leave this to his secretary or any of his associates. This mail, you can imagine, was large, and he dealt with every case personally as he saw its merits. This had been his practice for more than twenty years to my knowledge, and I believe that it was always his practice."

Mr. Schiff's daily works of charity, extending over so many years, are thought to have brought the total of those who personally experienced his benevolence to many thousands, making his name revered in innumerable households. Few of the Jewish immigrants to this country in the last half century have not received directly or indirectly a helping hand from him.

Gifts Covered a Wide Field.

For many years, Mr. Schiff had spent a large proportion of his income for charitable or public purposes. Even putting aside his private gifts, the

ELIHU ROOT HOME; SILENT ON LEAGUE

Former Senator, Improved in Health, Refuses to Discuss the Political Campaign.

2,760 ON THE ROTTERDAM

Big Liner Held Up Forty-eight Hours at Harbor Entrance by Thick Weather.

After being detained forty-eight hours by fog off the entrance to the harbor, the Holland-America liner Rotterdam arrived yesterday at her pier in Hoboken with 2,760 passengers, including Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Root, their son, Edward W. Root, and his wife.

Many persons had been waiting round the pier off and on since noon on Saturday because no correct information could be obtained as to where the ship was. Persons who called up the Custom House to inquire were informed that no information could be given out concerning the movements of steamships, and this made relatives and friends somewhat anxious to know where the Rotterdam was.

Mr. Root, who had been abroad three months in England and Holland, appeared to have benefited by his voyage and admitted that his health was improved. He said that it had not been a vacation by any means because he had worked hard all the time he was in London and at The Hague helping to build the plan for a permanent international court of justice under the League of Nations. He declined to give an interview or to express his opinion upon any subject.

"The nature of my mission abroad," he continued, "prohibited me from making any speeches or giving any interviews in Europe, and that rule still applies."

"Are you going to take any active part in the Presidential campaign?" he was asked.

"Not sufficiently active to give an interview on politics just now," he replied.

"Would you like to read what President Wilson's Secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, said in comparing your speech on the question of the Panama Canal tolls with the recent utterances of Senator Harding?"

"I do not wish to read any articles concerning political events in the United States or abroad," said Mr. Root, "because they would lead to questions, and the result would be an interview, which I wish to avoid."

He declined to comment on the League of Nations or on the work he had been engaged upon in Europe.

"Have you any plans?" Mr. Root was asked.

"None for the present," he replied.

When asked where the ship had been for two days while hundreds of persons were anxiously awaiting its arrival at Hoboken, Mr. Root smiled and replied: "We were caught off Fire Island in the outskirts of a political situation," which was his way of expressing to the reporters that the Rotterdam had been befogged since Saturday morning.

Mr. Root and his family waited until the rush was over at the pier and all their baggage had been collected, and after it had been examined by the customs inspectors he went to his home, 998 Fifth Avenue, where he said he would remain a few days before leaving for Washington. Friends who were on the Rotterdam said that Mr. Root expressed the opinion to them that Europe was suffering from neurasthenia.

Paul M. Warburg, the New York banker, returned on the Rotterdam, accompanied by his wife and daughter, from his annual Summer visit to Europe. He said that on account of the death of Jacob H. Schiff, father-in-law of his brother Felix, he did not wish to discuss financial conditions in the countries he had visited. Felix Warburg informed him by wireless of Mr. Schiff's death on Saturday night and met him with a launch at Quarantine, where Mr. Warburg left the Rotterdam and landed at Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn.

William Gould Brokaw, who returned from a business and pleasure trip abroad; Countess C. A. Wachtmeister, formerly of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Schwartz of New York were passengers.

Passengers who had visited Carlsbad, now in Czechoslovakia, said it was the most cheerful place in Europe and was filled with war profiteers from Germany and Austria, who were scattering their money in all directions.

There were 141 Americans among the 1,676 third-class passengers, who said they preferred to travel that way rather than wait in Europe for weeks until there were accommodations in the first or second cabin. The remainder of the third-class were Jews from Poland, Czechoslovaks and Rumanians.

$3,000,000 BLAZE SWEEPS SIX ACRES OF ASPHALT PLANT

Flaming Tar Hurled Hundreds of Yards When Great Tanks Burst.

BARBER WORKS DESTROYED

New York and Four Other Towns Send Aid to Firefighters in Maurer, N. J.

OTHER FACTORIES MENACED

Smoke Pall Extends for Miles—Firemen Forced to Use Searchlights at Midday.

Making a futile fight amid the acrid fumes of burning tar and the gloom of heavy smoke to stay a disastrous $3,000,000 fire that laid waste the six-acre plant of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company at Maurer, N. J., yesterday, the Perth Amboy officials finally had to call apparatus from this city and four other New Jersey towns to save other factories that stretched for acres around the fire centre.

As one of nine huge tar tanks burst with a resounding roar, masses of flaming tar were hurled hundreds of feet into the yards of other factories, and the smoke became so heavy that the firemen had to use searchlights in midday to penetrate the heavy gloom that shut out the sunlight. Clouds of smoke swept for miles over the central part of New Jersey and Staten Island, and the pungent fumes of the burning tar were observed in Newark and Elizabeth.

The fire started shortly after midnight Saturday, and it was late yesterday afternoon before the devastating blaze had virtually burned itself out inside the Barber plant, where tar is put through the various stages in the making of asphalt and other products. The fireboat William J. Gaynor and the Standard Oil fireboat Socony stood by in the Staten Island Sound all day, pouring their streams into the black smoke in the hope of saving adjoining plants from destruction.

Until the heat and smoke became unbearable and the darkness so complete within the vast series of structures, scores of Barber employes labored in trying to salvage some of the valuable stocks of asphalt and out of the gloom within the plant donkey engines pulled out long trains of heavily laden cars. The explosions of the tar tanks virtually ended this work, because no man dared venture into the cauldron within the plant.

Loss May Be $3,000,000.

Officials would make no estimate of the damage, but the firemen declared it would be in excess of $2,000,000, probably $3,000,000. Until an investigation is finished no statement as to the origin of the fire will be made, officials said.

Early in the morning the Perth Amboy firemen called for assistance, and detachments of fire fighters were rushed from Woodbridge, Rahway, Elizabeth and Fords, while the fireboat Gaynor went from this city with the assurance that additional boats would be sent if the need became more urgent. Newark also stood ready to send some of its equipment.

Adjoining the asphalt plant on the north was that of the Henry Maurer & Sons Brick Works. The stable in this area caught fire and was destroyed, but the firemen saved the other buildings. The American Smelting and Refining Company, south of the asphalt plant, also was in danger, and near the smelting plant is the works of the United Lead Company. The fireboat Gaynor and the Socony kept streams playing on the piers of the asphalt company and prevented these and the few railroad cars there from catching fire. Locomotives were sent to the Maurer plant to haul the freight cars of the Central Railroad of New Jersey out of the danger zone.

Reports had been current that several firemen had been injured, but it was officially announced last night that the only fireman injured was James Kelly of Perth Amboy. He fell from a ladder and was badly bruised. He was taken to the Perth Amboy Hospital.

Exodus from Tenement District.

The fire caused an exodus from a tenement district near the plant and thousands of workers loaded their families on trolley cars and hurried them away from the heat and choking smoke. Warned by the Perth Amboy police that there was grave danger that the fire would spread over the vast acreage of factories and tenements, hundreds of the tenement dwellers carried their furniture and belongings to the street and tried to get vehicles to move them out of the danger zone.

A theory of the firemen is that the fire started when crude oil or some raw material became overheated in some of the huge tanks. Two of the tanks collapsed early and others were in danger. The only building that escaped injury was an office structure, but all the records were removed, in fear that the blaze would reach it. In one of the roofing plants were between 6,000 and 7,000 tons of felt, to be made into roofing, and all of it was destroyed. About 2,000 men were employed in the plant.

15 HURT WHEN CARS GRAZE AT A CURVE

Passengers Returning from Brooklyn Ball Game Are Swept Off Running Board.

EIGHT TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Victims Blamed for Accident to Crowded Trolleys — Orders of Company Inspector Disobeyed.

Fifteen persons were injured, three of them seriously, yesterday afternoon at Pacific street and Franklin avenue, Brooklyn, in an accident to a crowded north-bound Franklin avenue car, jammed with men and women going home from the baseball game at Ebbets Field where the New York and Brooklyn clubs had been playing in the fight for the championship of the National League.

The accident was unusual in that it seemed to have been caused by unauthorized action by the passengers in putting down the running board on the wrong side of the open car, after it had twice been cleared and put up by the railroad company's inspectors. While going around a curve, the dropped running board did not allow sufficient space for the clearance of a south-bound car, the rear of which swept and crushed fifteen men standing on the running board. Only the fact that both cars were running slowly prevented more serious injuries and probable loss of life.

Eight of the more seriously injured were rushed to the Jewish and Swedish hospitals in automobiles. The names and injuries of those taken to these two hospitals follow:

CHINSANO, MICHAEL, 31 years old, 252 Myrtle Avenue; lacerations of the scalp, fracture of the nose and probably internally injured.

CLIFFORD, WILLIAM, 21 years old, 631 Myrtle Avenue; lacerated scalp and internal injuries.

FREEDMAN, ABRAHAM, 21 years old, 225 South Ninth Street; lacerations of scalp and forehead.

MARVIN, FRANK, 35 years old, 109 South Sixth Street; internal injuries and fracture of the right arm.

McLAUGHLIN, FRANK, 19 years old, 80 Tillary Street; concussion of the brain and skull probably fractured.

SOLA, FRANK, 25 years old, 885 Bedford Avenue; lacerations of the forehead and possible internal injuries.

Immediately after the end of the ball game the car, which stopped a short block from Ebbets Field, was crowded with persons leaving the game. Superintendent Johnson, in charge of the car barns at that point, ordered the running board on the east side of the car cleared and put up before he would permit the car to proceed. Half a mile further William Van Duzen and Henry Krehling, company inspectors, stopped the car and again ordered up the running board, which had been let down again and was crowded with passengers.

Upon orders from Van Duzen and Krehling these passengers were made to get inside the car and stand between the seats. It is believed that the pressure on the inside became so great that some passenger put the running board down again, paving the way for the accident which occurred only a block further on.

Poles Defeat Red Supports Hurried Up in Effort to Save Grodno Fortress.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26.—A junction of the armies of General Baron Wrangel and General Makno, who are opposing the Bolsheviki on the South Russian front, is imminent, according to the official communiqués issued by the generals. (Makno's army is reported to be 30,000 strong).

The capture of Kharkov and Ekaterinoslav by the troops advancing in that direction from Alexandrovsk is reported.

WARSAW, Sept. 26.—(Associated Press).—Hard fighting is taking place in the vicinity of Grodno, on the Niemen, a stronghold which is being hard pressed by the Poles in the campaign of their northerly army against the Russians, says the Polish communiqué issued shortly after midnight, dealing with Saturday's operations. To the southeast of Grodno the Bolsheviki have brought up reinforcements, but were repulsed in an attack in which the Poles made important captures of prisoners and machine guns. The communiqué reads:

"In the region of the Pripet, the towns of Rokitino and Szapatuwka were taken. Heavy fighting is continuing. The Dnieper-Bug Canal has been forced by the Poles. The localities of Kartuska, Bereza and Rozany have been taken.

"In the region of Volkovysk (southeast of Grodno) the Bolsheviki attacked with fresh divisions, but were repulsed. Seven hundred prisoners and fifteen machine guns were captured.

"In the region of Brzestowicy the Bolsheviki have been attacking for the last three days. Our army has assumed the offensive and taken 500 prisoners and ten machine guns, including three Lithuanian artillerists from the Lithuanian army.

Troops and Police Carry Off the Safe in a Search for Arms —MacSwiney Weaker.

BELFAST, Sept. 26.—Fierce rioting broke out tonight in North Belfast, the scene of clashes and assassinations of a few hours earlier. First reports from the hospitals were that five gunshot cases and many other injuries were being treated.

The Falls district seethed with excitement all day as a result of the murder last night of a policeman, the wounding of two others and the swift vengeance enacted in the killing of three civilians, who were shot down in rapid succession by bands of men who visited their homes.

Previously the shootings in this city had occurred in the heat of rioting, but now for the first time deliberately planned killings have been carried out. The affair had its beginning at 11 o'clock Saturday night as Constables Leonard and Carroll were patroling the Falls Road. When passing a public house they heard footsteps behind them. Swinging around, they were confronted by two men armed with revolvers, who ordered hands up.

Simultaneously with the order fire was opened upon the officers and Leonard fell dead, the first bullet taking effect in the breast. His companion had a miraculous escape. Four shots were directed at him. Three of them missed, the fourth lodging in the thigh. Apparently thinking both men dead, the assassins made off.

At about the same time Constables Farrell and Kearin were fired upon in a locality about a mile from the scene of the other attack. The assailants sprang upon the policemen unexpectedly. Farrell was shot in the arm. Kearin was knocked down and several shots were fired at him while he was on the ground. Some of the bullets passed through his cape without touching his body and he came out of the affair unscathed. Farrell was taken to a hospital.

Masked Raiders Take Reprisals.

Reprisals came swiftly from after 3 o'clock this morning. Edward Trodzen, John MacFadden and John Gaynor, civilians, who lived near the scene of the attacks upon the policemen, were slain in their homes. Different parties visited each house.

Four men took part in the shooting of Trodzen, who was a barber. After knocking at the door they fired a shot through the barber shop window. Trodzen's son opened the door and the men, wearing masks, rushed upstairs. They dragged Trodzen to the yard, where several shots were fired at his head, shattering it. The men immediately left without molesting the other occupants of the house.

The scene of the second shooting was a hundred yards from the Springfield Road barracks. Here three men knocked. MacFadden opened the door. Several shots were discharged at him, and he fell dead on the door-step.

Gaynor met his fate further along the Springfield Road. His mother answered the tapping on the door and the men entered. She told them she would get a candle, but they rushed to a room at the top of the house, where they found their victim partly dressed. They made him walk down the stairs ahead of them and fired three shots into his body, killing him. The distracted mother declares she can identify the men of the party.

All day Sunday large crowds congregated outside the houses where the tragedies had occurred, forming lines to view the bodies. Few police were seen on the streets, but armored cars were patrolling the Falls section and a large body of military was on duty.

As a result of a conference the military authorities decided to restore the curfew law, which had been suspended, but twenty-four hours' notice being essential the restoration will not go into effect until Monday.

While a wedding was in progress at Trinity Church here today a crowd collected outside and stone throwing began. Armed police soon arrived on the scene. When the bridal party emerged, expecting a shower of confetti, they were astonished to find policemen, revolvers in hand, surrounding the church.

Official Account of the Attacks.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—An official account of grave events which began with the murder of a policeman in Belfast at 11:30 last night says that attacks were made on four officers parading in couples in different parts of the city. Constables Leonard and Carroll were on duty in the Falls Road district when they were fired upon by two men who came right up to them before shooting. Leonard was killed and Carroll was seriously injured. Within a few moments a man named MacElroy was arrested almost on the scene, with a revolver and ammunition in his possession. Another man who was with him escaped.

The other constables fired upon were named Farrell and Kerin. They were attacked by four men at the corner of Darrack Street and Mill Street. Farrell was wounded and Kerin escaped with bullet holes through his cape. The latter constable returned the fire of the attackers with his revolver, but with what result is unknown. A little later a man named Crawford was arrested in connection with the firing.

About 2 A. M. today John Caynor, a well-known Sinn Feiner, was shot dead at his house in Springfield Road, and later John McFadden, also a well-known Sinn Feiner living in the same road, was shot dead at his house door. A third Republican, a barber named Edward Trodden, met a similar fate in the Falls Road.

At an early hour there were rumors that another man had been killed, but at the time of telegraphing the truth of this had not been ascertained.

Half an hour after midnight revolver firing and stone throwing occurred at Foundry Street and Cloneellen Street, and a general riot ensued. The crowds were dispersed by the police. Twenty minutes later there was faction trouble and revolver firing in Stanhope Street, which was stopped by the police with the assistance of armored cars. A later message received midday stated that things were quiet then, with troops in readiness at danger points.

Throughout the city this morning bands of hooligans held up isolated pedestrians and questioned them regarding their politics and religion. If these were different from the political and religious opinions of the mob the people were subjected to considerable ill-treatment. Both Unionists and Nationalists were victims of these attacks.

Extra military are being drafted into the city, and throughout today the police on duty on the streets were armed with service revolvers.

Further disturbances occurred this evening in the Old Lodge Road area of Belfast. A number of revolver shots were fired by the crowd, and three persons were admitted to the hospital suffering from bullet wounds.

Catholic Clubs in Dublin Raided.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—Police and military raided St. Andrew's Catholic Club in this city last night. A number of the raiders were in civilian clothes. An exhaustive search was made for rifles and revolvers. Furniture was smashed and the safe was carried off. A relative of Alderman Murphy was arrested when he refused to give the Alderman's address. One of the officers in charge of the military lorry wore even dress.

Police are reported to have smashed doors and windows in six houses of Athlone in a search for arms. Two occupants of the houses were former officers.

The residence of Louis O'Dea, Republican solicitor in Galway, recently bombed, was attacked again last night. The furniture was wrecked.

The Galway express office was wrecked a third time. Bomb explosions are said to have kept the people awake most of the night.

Several civilians were injured in a revolver fight between a police patrol and civilians at Dundrum, in Tipperary.

Hook Tower Lighthouse, at Waterford, was raided and a large quantity of explosives taken.

There was much rifle firing in Cork City during the week-end.

Dublin Castle announces that five policemen were fired upon in Bradford, County Clare. Constable Brogan was shot dead and another policeman was seriously injured.

CORK, Sept. 26.—The fact that Saturday night passed quietly has greatly allayed the fear that reprisals will be made for the attack on General Strickland. There has been a rush of property owners to take out insurance, which Lloyds has revived after the recent suspension. The rates are extremely high. No policies are issued if the applicant or any near relative is connected with a political organization.

There is scarcely a shop in the principal street of Cork whose front is not boarded up to prevent damage in the event of raids or rioting.

MACSWINEY SHOWS GREATER EXHAUSTION

"Too Weak to be Read To," Says Bulletin—Two Cork Prisoners Reported Worse.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League tonight says that Lord Mayor MacSwiney was weaker and more exhausted at that time than during the afternoon.

The morning bulleting said that MacSwiney gave evidences of great exhaustion this morning.

"The Lord Mayor has been in an exhausted condition all the morning," the bulletin read. "The doctor says he finds him very much weaker. His reserve of strength is so slight that he is unable to stand the exertion of being read to."

CORK, Sept. 26.—The condition of the hunger strikers in Cork jail is unchanged, with the exception of Hennessy and Burke, who have taken a turn for the worse. Hennessy suffered a serious collapse during the night. Dr. Pearson, one of the jail physicians, discussing the condition of the prisoners, said that he would not be surprised if some of them were still alive a month hence.

JUSTIFIES KILLING OF LYNCH.

Dublin Judge Finds That Soldier Fired in Self-Defense.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—The Judge conducting the military inquiry into the death of Councilor John Lynch, who was shot in his room at the Royal Exchange Hotel last Wednesday morning, finds that the fatal shot was "fired by an officer of the Crown in self-defense in the execution of his duty."

Councilor Lynch was a Sinn Fein Judge.

RAID MacCURTAIN HOME.

Munitions and Seditious Documents Were Found, Official Report Says.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—It is officially announced that ammunition and a quantity of seditious documents were found in the home of Mrs. Thomas MacCurtain, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, when searched by the troops.

It is also officially denied that Mrs. MacCurtain was fired at or that there was any threat that her house would be wrecked, as asserted in the newspapers.

Cork dispatches of Saturday said that Mrs. MacCurtain reported that a shot had been fired at her while she was walking in the garden in the rear of her home. She also said her house had been raided on the previous night.

SADNESS TEMPERS JEWISH FESTIVAL

Rabbis Preach on Schiff's Life as Harvest Services Open in the Synagogues.

NO EULOGY AT FUNERAL

Special Request of Mr. Schiff to be Observed—Great Memorial Meeting Planned.

In every synagogue last evening Jacob H. Schiff, who died suddenly Saturday evening, was eulogized as the foremost philanthropist of the Jewish race in the world. Rabbis preached sermons about his life and offered prayers for consolation for his family, and for Jewish people everywhere, as every Jew, they declared, had sustained a personal loss in the death of Mr. Schiff

These services marked the beginning of the Feast of Tabernacles or Socoths, which began at sundown and will continue today and tomorrow. It is known as the Harvest festival to celebrate which Jews build small tabernacles roofed over with reeds.

At Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, where Mr. Schiff was a member for more than half a century, the twin American flags which are always displayed over its doors were placed early yesterday morning at half staff. Emanu-El Brotherhood House, 309 East Sixth Street, also has its flag at half staff. It will be closed all day tomorrow in honor of Mr. Schiff's funeral.

Rabbi Silverman and Rabbi Samuel Schulman will officiate at the funeral, which will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. So insistent was Mr. Schiff that there be no funeral sermon for him that he left a written request to that effect with his family.

Dr. Silverman went to the home of Mr. Schiff, 965 Fifth Avenue, yesterday afternoon, to offer consolation to the family. He was informed that Mr. Schiff had left special instructions that no eulogy be delivered at his funeral. The funeral service, which will be held at Temple Emanu-El, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, will, therefore, consist of only the regular funeral ritual and a special prayer. Rabbis Silverman and Schulman will officiate. It was recognized that this was only another instance of the extreme modesty for which Mr. Schiff was noted. Another is that through all the thirty-three years Dr. Silverman has been the rabbi, Mr. Schiff has always declined to accept a trusteeship in the Temple, saying when repeatedly urged to do so, that he disliked any prominence.

In the closing prayer at the Feast of Tabernacle's service last evening in Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, in which Mr. Schiff was a seatholder for more than thirty years, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman, rabbi of the Temple, referred to "the sadness which is necessarily mingled with the festive spirit for the Household of Israel in the passing away of one who was such a loyal son of Israel and faithful servant of God." Although a member of the downtown temple, Mr. Schiff was a frequent worshipper for many years on Saturday morning in Temple Beth-El.

At the service of the Free Synagogue in Carnegie Hall yesterday morning, both the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, the rabbi, and Judge Abram I. Elkus, President of the synagogue, took occasion to pronounce eulogies of Mr. Schiff. The death of Mr. Schiff, who was a lifelong supporter of Dr. Wise, was announced formally at this service.

Rabbi Wise stated that the name of Mr. Schiff had become synonymous with world-wide benevolence. He declared that the loyalty and faith of Mr. Schiff "ought to put to shame many self-seeking Jews."

"America gave Schiff an opportunity, and he made the most of it. It will be to his great glory that he used it for worthy ends. His name will be linked in Jewish history with Montefiore, Dr. Hirsch, Rothchild and Nathan Straus. May his children and his children's children remember that the richest heritage he left them was his self-forgetting and his ever-devoted service to Israel's life and hopes."

Mr. Elkus declared that Mr. Schiff was "a Prince in Israel and devoted friend of all Jews." "Great was he in many fields," he said. "He was a leader in industry, a leader in finance, and he led the civic life of the city and in the Nation. Mr. Schiff will be applauded by men of all religions and all nationalities for his philanthropies and wise leadership in many things. But all men, women and children will speak of him above everything else as a leader in the cause of humanity."

It is understood that the Jews of New York under their most eminent leaders will soon unite in a great memorial service for Mr. Schiff in Carnegie Hall or some other large gathering place.

TRIBUTES TO MR. SCHIFF FROM MANY SOURCES

Congregations and Societies Adopt Resolutions of Affection and Sorrow.

A score or more organizations with which Mr. Schiff was identified have adopted resolutions on his death, of which the following, in part, follow:

Baron De Hirsch Fund—His example has been an inspiration to thousands, and his precepts will ever be cherished in our midst.

SCHIFF MOURNED BY HOSTS HE AIDED

philanthropy of Mr. Schiff was more widely distributed than that of any of the great philanthropists of his time, extending over the whole field of Jewish relief, here and abroad, aiding many Christian causes and contributing liberally to public education.

How the total of his gifts would compare with those of the other munificent givers of his time, such as John D. Rockefeller and the late Andrew Carnegie, is another question, because they pursued widely different methods in making their benefactions.

Andrew Carnegie, while a generous and sympathetic man all his life, concentrated in his youth and prime of life in building his fortune to the maximum extent, and then, in an impersonal maner, distributed it on the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number. John D. Rockefeller began with his first month's wages to set aside a part for religious and charitable uses, increasing his gifts from year to year, but building up the greatest fortune in history, before he began to dedicate his great wealth to public enterprises. His benefactions have principally been made through agents and boards appointed by him to make his millions give the most efficient service to the present and future generations.

Personal Benefactions Enormous.

Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller dealt with their money, after they had dedicated it to mankind, in blocks of tens and hundreds of millions. Few of the single donations of Mr. Schiff, on the other hand, exceeded a million dollars, but, scattered over many decades and among so many causes, they reach an enormous total, whether ranking in total with those of his great compeers in this field or not.

Efforts to obtain a list of the major gifts of Mr. Schiff yesterday failed, because of their number, because they extended so many years back and because so many were anonymous. Hundreds of institutions and charitable causes received gifts from time to time, so that any list would contain thousands of items, but few of outstanding size.

Shunned Public Honors.

Mr. Schiff had made it a rule during his life to decline to permit public honors to be paid to him, and he carried this out to the end, leaving directions that there should be no eulogy at the funeral services, which will be held at the Temple Emanu-El at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

The authorized history of Jewish War Relief by Morris Engleman contains this note:

"Nov. 23, 1916. Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America proposes to fittingly mark the seventieth birthday of Jacob H. Schiff in recognition of his personal philanthropy and aid to Jewish War Relief, calling a conference of Orthodox organizations. A committee was appointed and plans proposed. Mr. Schiff, having been consulted, acknowledges the extreme honor of his Orthodox brethren, but declines public celebration."

The same publication contains the following note:

"Jacob H. Schiff celebrated his seventieth birthday by donating $700,000 to various charitable organizations and public institutions, including $100,000 for an ambulance organization for Russia."

It was stated yesterday at the residence of Mr. Schiff that the list of honorary pallbearers had not been completed and would not be made public today. Telegrams and cables of condolence had arrived in so many hundreds that it was impossible for them to be read yesterday. Some of them may be made public today.

Send Message to Family.

The Board of Directors of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, of which Mr. Schiff was Chairman, met yesterday morning and sent a message of condolence to the family. Mr. Schiff, who had been devoted to the work of this organization since its foundation, had recently lifted a $50,000 mortgage on its property, and followed this with a special gift of $10,000. His colleagues of the Board of Directors said in their message:

"The Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, in common with all Jewry, feels the great loss humanity has sustained in the passing away of Jacob H. Schiff. The great heart which spoke so warmly for the oppressed, the needy and the suffering, alas, is now stilled. We grieve with you for the great leader of Israel, whose voice no longer will be heard in espousal of Israel's cause. We recall with heartfelt gratitude his many benefactions, his sage counsel, his ever-readiness to help and his especial desire to befriend the immigrant. The memory of Jacob H. Schiff will be forever enshrined in the hearts of his people."

Tributes to Mr. Schiff emphasized not only his charity but his wisdom as a leader and counsellor of the Jews and as a student of national and world-wide problems. He lost no opportunity for urging Jews to be Jews in religion only, to keep matters of religion clear from politics and to view all political questions from the standpoint of American citizenship only. He had opposed Zionism as tending to mix religion with national and international politics, but on the creation of a Jewish State in Palestine had viewed it sympathetically, as providing a home for Jewish culture.

The name of Mr. Schiff will be inseparably connected with his time, according to Arthur Lehman, Chairman of the Business Men's Council of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, who said:

"The first decades of the twentieth century will be remembered by the Jews of this country as the Schiff era of American philanthropy, for the name and personality of Jacob H. Schiff are pre-eminent among the great Americans of this generation."

"An engineer in philanthropy" was the phrase applied to him yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman of the Temple Emanu-El.

MEN IN MANY WALKS PAY TRIBUTE TO SCHIFF

Dr. Kaufman Kohler, Judge Rosalsky and Elihu Root Among His Eulogists.

Personal tributes to the philanthropic instincts and the humanitarian work of Jacob H. Schiff continued to come yesterday from men prominent in all professions and all walks of life. Among those who expressed their high admiration for the character and achievements of Mr. Schiff were the Rev. Dr. Kaufmann Kohler, President of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati; Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, Chairman of the Greater New York Appeal for Jewish War Sufferers; Elihu Root, Dr. Nathan Krass of the Central Synagogue, Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia, Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of Dropsie College and the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and Felix H. Levy, President of the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes. Following are the tributes:

Dr. Kaufmann Kohler—I am inexpressibly shocked and grieved to learn of the passing away of Jacob H. Schiff, whose friendship I have for many years deeply cherished and from whom I received greetings only a few days ago. In him America and the entire Jewish world mourn the loss of one of their greatest benefactors and philanthropists, who has given the impetus and inspiration to the creation and maintenance of benevolent and educational institutions throughout our land and beyond by his princely munificence, and by his rare personal devotion to the work. As the Maecenas of learning, both Jewish and non-Jewish, he had to an unusual degree helped in the promotion of education and of science and art, reflecting undying lustre upon the American Jew and upon the Jewish faith, of which he was a most ardent adherent, having been a regular attendant of the synagogue he reared unto himself lasting monuments through his manifold and varied activities in the Montefiore Home, his pet institution, and endowments of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, the Hebrew Union College and Teachers' Institute, both in New York and Cincinnati: Bible translation and the Jewish Classics Committee and creating a fund for superannuated Jewish ministers and teachers. He was large minded enough also to make endowments for Harvard, Cornell and Barnard; in fact, no great religious, educational, civic or patriotic undertaking but had his warmest support to the very last. His heart throbbed with the most ardent sympathy and love for his suffering co-religionist, whether in the Far East or of our own land, for whom he was ever eager to secure shelter and succor. The memory of the righteous is an everlasting blessing.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky—In the death of Jacob H. Schiff America has lost one of its foremost citizens and the Jews of the world one of its greatest leaders. His death will be keenly felt by all, but his name will be imperishable. His untiring devotion to philanthropy and to every cause having for its object the uplifting of humanity was as deep as was his interest in his business affairs. Not only did he give generously to all charities without limitation of race or creed, but he gave unsparingly of his time to every cause. It was the personal service and his sympathetic personality that endeared him to his fellow man. Consideration for others was one of the guiding principles of his life. No task was deemed by him too irksome when engaged in helping suffering humanity. He was one of the finest examples of American opportunity. He was imbued with the rugged spirit of America and his profound love for its institutions bear eloquent witness to his uncompromising Americanism.

What would have been Jewish life in this country without his inspiration and influence? He was one of the most active forces in Jewry. He took particular pride in making Judaism loved and honored both by Christians and Jews. He was a firm believer that Americanism and Judaism are not incompatible but go hand in hand and that Jews who live up to Jewish ideals are therefore better Americans.

Jacob H. Schiff illuminated the world; in his absence the world is by so much gloomier. He influenced mankind; in his absence the world is by so much retarded. He was a power for good; in his absence the world is by so much enervated.

Dr. Nathan Krass—In Jacob Schiff were blended the noblest ideals of Judaism and the finest spirit of Americanism. His faith, his people and his country formed for him a triple alliance, to which he clung with all the passion of his splendid soul. His life has enriched and exalted the meaning of the word philanthropist.

Felix H. Levy—In the death of Jacob H. Schiff the Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf-Mutes has suffered a wholly irreparable loss. In our work of educating poor deaf children of the Jewish faith Mr. Schiff was facile princeps among philanthropists who have aided in the furtherance of our efforts. For a full quarter of a century he gave unstintedly of his substance and of his ripened wisdom to alleviating the affliction of our wards. To him more than to any one else is due the present distinctive position of this institution as the only school for the Jewish deaf in America and one of the foremost institutions of its kind in the world.

Elihu Root—I was very deeply grieved to hear of Mr. Schiff's death from Paul M. Warburg, who received the news by wireless on Saturday night on the Rotterdam. I had known Mr. Schiff for a great many years. He was a very good man.

In a message of condolence to Mrs. Schiff the Downtown League paid tribute to Mr. Schiff as "our most estimable and useful citizen, a noble character, and friend of all creeds." George F. Baker, on behalf of the Grover Cleveland Association, described him as a "great citizen; an example to all Americans."

Judge Mayer Sulzberger—Mr. Schiff was of that small number of men who have the intellectual capacity to judge where their time, energy and money will do the most good, and he gave of each to the best of his ability. The whole world is a loser through his death.

Dr. Cyrus Adler—My nearest relationship with Mr. Schiff was in connection with Jewish learning. To him we owe in great measure the support of the Jewish Theological Seminary, the new translation of the Bible and a series of Jewish classics yet to appear. It is too early to appraise what this great, good, kind man meant to the world.

PEACE LEAGUE SAYS IT IS NON-PARTISAN

Asserts That Attempt Is Being Made to Show a Party Slant in Its Work.

NOT SWAYED BY BARUCH

His Contributions Were Not Made to the Democratic Campaign, Organization States.

The League to Enforce Peace gave out this statement yesterday through its Treasurer, Herbert S. Houston:

"An effort is being made to have it appear that a partisan slant is given the work of the League to Enforce Peace. Nothing could be further from the truth. The League to Enforce Peace began its work five years ago in favor of a League of Nations. Its officers and Executive Committee have been made up, in about equal proportions, of Republicans and Democrats. Its articles of incorporation forbid its participation in partisan campaigns. These facts have been published again and again, but it seems impossible to have them understood, at least during a political campaign.

"Despite this non-partisan character of the League, which Mr. Taft and all of its officers insisted that it maintain, the testimony of the Treasurer of the League on Friday before the Senate Committee on the Investigation of Campaign Funds has been given, in part, an interpretation that is in flat contradiction with the facts. This has been with reference to the contributions, from B. M. Baruch, to the funds of the League toward the support of its news bureau in Washington last Winter during the Senate fight over the treaty.

"As the Treasurer testified on Friday, these contributions were given without conditions, and the bureau was organized and directed by three Republican journalists of standing and reputation, Dr. Talcott Williams, Henry Rickey and Denys P. Myers. Mr. Baruch never offered a word of criticism or of suggestion in regard to either personnel or policy of the bureau. This was made clear in the sworn evidence of the Treasurer, as it was also made clear that the news bureau completed its work and was closed months before either national convention was held. But despite this testimony, Mr. Baruch's contributions were heralded, in a number of newspapers Saturday and Sunday, as direct contributions to the Democratic campaign. It would appear that partisan zeal can be neither guided nor controlled by the truth.

"The fact is known to every newspaper in the country. The League to Enforce Peace gave a complete demonstration of its non-partisan character by doing everything in its power to keep the League of Nations from becoming a partisan issue in this Presidential campaign. To that end it held nine great congresses in various parts of the country. Its leaders, Mr. Taft, Dr. Lowell, Dr. Henry van Dyke, Henry Morgenthau, Hamilton Holt, the late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and others, addressed these congresses and many other meetings, urging the ratification of the treaty without regard to party. The news bureau was organized in Washington for the same purpose.

"When the fight arose over the covenant, the League to Enforce Peace favored compromise reservations that could command enough support in both parties to secure ratification. In this position it was taking the stand of many of the leading Republican and Democratic papers, and, it was believed, of the great body of enlightened opinion throughout the country, without regard to party. Unfortunately this sincere, non-partisan effort, by a narrow margin, failed of the necessary two-thirds vote in the Senate.

"All that the League to Enforce Peace did to support that effort was done in a wholly non-partisan way. It naturally takes definite issue, therefore, with any endeavor to have it appear that its Washington news bureau or any other part of its work was partisan. As to that news bureau it would be as fair to assert that its aim was Republican, because three Republicans directed it, as to assert that its aim was Democratic because one Democrat bore the greater part of the cost of maintaining it. The truth is that all four men were thinking of the great cause they served rather than the parties to which they belonged.

"The Treasurer of the League to Enforce Peace would point out that if the rule of determining party bias by the source of each contribution should be followed, it would show that about two-thirds of the contributions have come from Republicans and one-third from Democrats. But neither he nor any of the other officers of the League have ever thought, for an instant, of applying this rule. They are convinced that contributions have not been prompted, just as they have not been used, to advance any party purpose."

SAYS BARUCH IS NOT "ANGEL"

Has No Connection with Democratic Committee, Asserts Chairman

Denial that Bernard M. Baruch has any official connection with the Democratic National Committee or that he is the "angel of the Democratic campaign" was made last night by George White, Democratic National Chairman. In testimony before the Senate investigating committee at Washington Mr. Baruch was mentioned as having contributed to the League to Enforce Peace and for the purchase of the Stars and Stripes, formerly an army service publication, which witnesses alleged had come under the control of Democrats. Mr. White said:

"Headlines and statements in the newspapers today that 'B. M. Baruch is the principal angel of the Democratic campaign' do an injustice to the facts. The committee has no part, and never had, with Mr. Baruch's support of the League to Enforce Peace. That was a non-partisan organization, dominated by eminent Republicans. It had a legitimate patriotic interest in the ratification of the League's covenant and was intended to be dissolved before the campaign began. It was a natural object to support by any friend of the League in any party, but in no way did the Democratic National Committee participate in its funds or benefits.

"Mr. Baruch has had no part in contributing for the pamphlet or newspaper plate, republishing Miss Montague's story, 'Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge.' For the motion picture of the story, he has advanced $25,000 to a producer who intends to show it on its merits.

"He didn't write the story himself, nor did any one connected with the Democratic campaign. Mr. Baruch did not hire Miss Montague to write the story, nor did this committee. But when he read it and realized its splendid argument, as a friend of the League, he went in to help produce it. I understand he will accept no profits, but will get his money back. That is his legitimate affair and not the affair of this committee.

"I know nothing of Stars and Stripes except that this committee has nothing to do with it. So far as this committee is concerned Mr. Baruch is not officially connected, and he has contributed only $5,000. Therefore he can hardly be called the 'angel' of a campaign which ought to have at least $2,000,000. I wish he were. Any man with his record of public service and his interest in the world's great moral issue, is a very welcome supporter of our campaign to any extent."

BRITISH COMMEND WILSON.

London Chronicle Says He Is Opposing American "Shipping Kings."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Sept. 27.—The Daily Chronicle, in commending the firm line which President Wilson has taken regarding the Jones act, says:

"It is the natural desire of the shipping kings to drive British and other foreign ships out of American ports and to substitute their own ships, and this end they propose to effect by abrogating thirty-two treaties and taxing foreign vessels out of their ports. That is a policy which might thrust upon other countries the necessity of retaliation, however repugnant the method and theory of retaliation may be. It would challenge a trade war incompatible with President Wilson's or any other conception of world peace.

"We are forced by such proposals as this to recognize one of the sources from which such anti-British feeling as exists in America originates. We do not believe this is the natural sentiment of the American people, nor that it is solely due to Irish or German propaganda. It is more especially certain trade interests which are at the bottom of it—interests which have ranged themselves behind the Standard Oil, behind the American Steel Corporation, and now the shipping interests."

Southern Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky. In addition to rear platform talks at train stops, the Senator will deliver three speeches, one at Baltimore tomorrow night, another at Wheeling Tuesday night and the third Wednesday afternoon at Ashland, Ky.

The Harding party will make the trip in three private cars attached to regular trains as far as Wheeling and running as a special train on the return to Marion. Senator and Mrs. Harding occupied the private car Ideal, on which former President Taft made many trips. With them are Dr. C. E. Sawyer, George Christian, the Senator's secretary, and James Sloan, the Senator's bodyguard, who guarded Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, while he was in the secret service.

A compartment car has been set aside for members of Harding headquarters, including former Senator George Sutherland of Utah, Richard Washburn Child and Judson C. Welliver, publicity director at Harding headquarters. Harry M. Daugherty and Charles D. Hilles are expected to join the party at Baltimore. The third car has been set aside for newspaper correspondents.

From now on the Senator will take a more active part in the Republican campaign, uniting his own canvass in many instances with Senatorial fights and Congressional elections in strategic centres.

"Only three things can prevent Harding's election, as we see it here," one of the organization men at Harding headquarters said today. "First, something may happen to the Senator. Second, an unfortunate political mistake might be committed, and, third, there is always danger, of course, of a new issue or a roorback affecting the campaign at the last moment."

Representative Julius Kahn of California, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs of the House, stopped at Marion yesterday to pay his respects to Senator Harding. Mr. Kahn probably will spend the entire month of October in stumping for the national ticket in the Eastern States and the Middle West. He has no contest in his own State. Both Democrats and Republicans have nominated him for re-election to Congress.

Mr. Kahn made the following statement before leaving:

"There is no doubt that Harding and Coolidge will carry California by an overwhelming majority. I believe that the figure will run as high as 200,000. I know of hundreds of Democrats who have never voted for a Republican candidate for President who state emphatically that at this election they propose to support Harding and Coolidge. On the other hand I know of no Republicans who contemplate supporting Cox and Roosevelt.

"I find that among the laboring classes in California there is an overwhelming sentiment for the Republican nominees. Dozens of working men and women with whom I spoke told me emphatically that they did not want the League of Nations or its representative, the Democratic nominee. They seem to be alive to the danger that will befall the United States if we become entangled by an alliance with the nations of Europe or Asia. They realize that in the European countries the inhabitants of these countries are racially and ethnologically different from their neighbors.

"All of these countries have sons and daughters who have become loyal and patriotic American citizens. The World War demonstrated the fact that they are ready to die for the United States of America if need be. However, deep down in the corners of their hearts they have a little love for the land in which they first saw the light of day. And the moment we begin to interfere in the affairs of Europe, and especially with regard to boundary disputes, that moment we throw apples of discord among American citizens. That seemed to be the trend of the talk I had with a great many of the business men and of the working men of California."

YOUR ALL-WOOL SUIT

An all-rag writing paper is just as desirable as an all-wool suit. You pay the price of an all-wool suit for three reasons. It wears well. It looks better. And the cost of making is greater than the cost of material.

You could buy CRANE'S Bond for your stationery with the same assuredness. It also wears better. It looks better. And in the cost of your letters, as they lie there dictated, typed and stamped, ready to go out, the cost of paper, no matter what quality, is a very small fraction.

So, if all-wool for suits, why not all-rag for business letter paper?

MALONE DENOUNCES ASSEMBLY'S RECORD

OPENS CAMPAIGN IN CITY

Farmer-Labor Candidate for Governor Also Criticises Ousting of the Socialists.

The New York City campaign of the Farmer-Labor Party opened yesterday afternoon at the Lexington Theatre, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-first Street. The meeting had originally been scheduled for Carnegie Hall, but permission to use the hall was refused by the management. The speakers were Dudley Field Malone, candidate for Governor; Rose Schneiderman, candidate for United States Senator; Swinburne Hale, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals; F. H. Serri, candidate for Attorney General, and John Fitzpatrick, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Lucy Burns of the National Woman's Party was Chairman.

Attacks on President Wilson and the Republican and Democratic candidates for President were applauded. Mr. Malone, who received an ovation lasting five minutes, criticised the special session of the Legislature and charged that it provided no real relief for tenants.

"After two years of power with a Democratic Governor and a Republican Legislature, the politicians of both parties, having provided no relief in the housing problem, feared the eviction of thousands of tenants before election time," he said. "So Governor Smith called an extraordinary session of the Legislature which has met and adjourned without providing the people of New York with an additional foot of land, a new house or a new apartment.

Mr. Malone said the Farmer-Labor Party stood between the forces of reaction and the violence of revolution. He spoke of the high cost of living, and asserted it was an "obvious lie" that prices had fallen.

"When the Socialists were again expelled this last week Governor Smith said he had no comment to make,' he added. "It would be difficult for Governor Smith to make any comment since 50 per cent. of the Democrats in the Assembly joined with the Republicans in ousting the Socialists. This vicious attack on representative government has been made by the leaders of both parties. If we believe in American institutions we should 'smash these two machines."

COX CHARGES TRICK IN 'DRY' QUESTIONS

ernor Cox has found himself confronted by Republican newspapers with the question concerning the attitude which he would take in the event that he was faced as President by an amendment to the Volstead act. So far as he can learn there has been no such question propounded to Senator Harding. He charges now that Wheeler has entered into this sort of politics as a worker for the Republican Party rather than as a representative of a non-partisan organization.

Differ on Wyoming Outlook.

Governor Cox spent a quiet Sunday here discussing the situation in this section with Senator Kendrick and other leaders. He attended church in the morning and in the afternoon was entertained by ex-Governor Carr. The nominee made every effort to obtain as much rest as possible, as the week's campaigning ahead of him promised to test his strength.

Republican leaders, such as "Pat" Sullivan, national committeeman in charge of the campaign in the group of States, including Colorado and Wyoming, are predicting that Cox has little chance in Wyoming, and that Harding will get Colorado by a comfortable plurality. The Democratic leaders will not admit this. They say that they will get Colorado certainly and that Wyoming is debatable. The warmth of the receptions which Governor Cox had in Colorado is held to lend strength to this view.

As in most of the other States he has visited on this tour, Governor Cox has found himself making almost a single-handed fight. The organizations, either from lack of money or lack of effiecient leadership, have been lagging. it is true, however, that Governor Cox, by his indomitable fighting campaign, has put new vigor into the organizations.

In Wyoming the situation at first glance would seem to be favorable to Republican success. Here again Governor Cox made a very favorable impression upon the people. His visit has started widespread talk about his personality and the doctrines he has urged.

The Republicans in Wyoming have another thing to worry about and that is said to be the danger of many thousands of voters remaining away from the polls in November because of lack of enthusiasm over the nomination of Senator Harding. It has been said by more than one observer that this situation was one of the things which caused the Republican National Committee to organize so thoroughly and raise large sums of money for an intensive campaign.

Count Radical Parties Strong.

Observers here say that the Labor Party and the Socialists probably will poll a large vote in Wyoming as well as in several other Western and Northwestern States. Republican leaders say that such a development will hurt Governor Cox more than Senator Harding.

The next two weeks probably will give a better idea of how the tide will flow than can be obtained now. Governor Cox's presentation of the League of Nations and other issues are certain to be widely discussed because of the vigorous and plainspoken manner in which he has set them before the people. Such talk is to be heard about the hotel lobbies today.

It is the intention of Governor Cox to keep pounding away at Senator Harding in an effort to make him produce the letter which Cox charges Harding sent to Senator Johnson of California pledging himself to "scrap" the League of Nations if elected President. Governor Cox is satisfied that the West is pro-League by a very substantial majority and that a swing against Harding because of "wabbling" on the issue, as well as on the ground of reactionary tendencies in government, has already begun on a considerable scale.

Governor Cox appeared to be much rested tonight. His voice is by no means back to normal, but it probably will hold out until his return to Dayton, on Oct. 3. He then plans to take three or four days of complete rest.

CASES DIFFER, WHEELER SAYS

He Defends the Variation in Questions to Cox and Harding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, tonight gave to THE NEW YORK TIMES the following reply to the statement, made by Governor Cox at Cheyenne that different questions had been put to Cox and Harding relative to their positions on the liquor question:

"The situations were different with reference to Governor Cox and Senator Harding. The temperance people were interested to know whether the candidates favored or opposed a beer and wine amendment. Senator Harding had voted for the Volstead act and for the submission of the Eighteenth Amendment. It was only a question whether he stood by his record as indicated by his vote for the Volstead act.

"Governor Cox has no record on the prohibition code. He was being quoted constantly by the liquor interests as pledged to a beer and wine amendment. The query to him was naturally whether this was true.

"The telegrams were not sent out by the Anti-Saloon League of America, but by the national legislative conference, composed of twenty-three national temperance and prohibition organizations. The telegrams themselves show this. The Anti-Saloon League has done just what Governor Cox suggests, made up the record of both candidates, their public utterances and their present attitude, so far as it could be ascertained. It was submitted to each candidate for correction, criticism or comment. Governor Cox has failed to reply to it, and the committee voted to give him further time. If he had answered the communication the record would have been in the records of the public before this.

"Governor Cox has thus far refused to answer whether he is for a beer and wine amendment. Such a provision, of course, means nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment. The liquor organizations say that he is pledged to support it, and each day that he refuses to answer the question strengthens the belief of the voters that there must be some ground for the statement made by the liquor interests.

"The statement that the Anti-Saloon League is a chattel of Republican headquarters is false. The league fights for dry Republicans and for dry Democrats. If Governor Cox will qualify as a dry Democrat he will have no further trouble with temperance organizations."

PUTS BARUCH GIFTS FOR COX AT $109,500

Secretary of Republican Committee Says Fund Inquiry Has Rebounded.

Clarence B. Miller, Secretary of the Republican National Committee, in a statement last night, declared the inquiry by the Senate committee investigating campaign funds had "failed to disclose any evidence of a $30,000,000 slush fund, a $15,000,000 slush fund, a $10,000,000 slush fund, or a slush fund of any kind to be used for the purpose of electing Senator Harding to the Presidency of the United States."

Mr. Miller arrived here last night from Washington, where he attended the committee hearings. The statement was made public as his "conclusions as to the evidence."

He declared "the charge of illegal campaign contributions rebounded in the direction of Governor Cox."

The week's investigation, he said, "also discloses that Barney Baruch has made an actual contribution of $97,500 to the Democratic campaign and its side show, the Wilson League of Nations, and that he has a liability of an additional $12,500 making a contribution of $109,500. He gave $5,000 cash to the campaign fund, $25,000 for the manufacture of the 'Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge' film, $12,500 for the circulation of the story in boiler plate matter, $70,000 to The Stars and Stripes and $47,000 to the propaganda for the Wilson League of Nations. The evidence of these contributions came out from the testimony of half a dozen witnesses. Thus it will take the maximum contribution from over 100 Republicans to equal the plutocratic gifts of one Democrat."

No man or woman is ever finished with learning

Sir Isaac Newton, the great student of nature and philosopher, who discovered gravitation by the fall of an apple, said of himself, in his after life, that he felt himself to be a child on the seashore, learning from the shells and pebbles, and that the great ocean of Nature's facts was still lying before him waiting to be discovered.

Stop and think of the wondrous inventions in the successful enginery of the air and the thousand little things like air guns, telephones, improved typewriters, kitchen and housekeeping utensils and the Edison discoveries in the application of electricity—what will the next six thousand years produce?

This Store is still a wonder to some of the people in its bigness and completeness to visitors who come every day.

Six Early American Dining Rooms

AU QUATRIEME

In the little American house Au Quatrieme are now on view six early dining rooms furnished with fine old American furniture.

A dining room of charming dignity contains a beautiful dropleaf mahogany table, and a set of six mahogany Chippendale ladder-back chairs. The mahogany sideboard is inlaid with very fine lines and has the original brasses.

A dining room furnished in maple has a lovely maple oval drop-leaf table beautiful of surface; surrounded by 10 maple chairs. A large butler's serving table of exquisitely colored maple has the original old beehive brasses; on this table are two inlaid maple knife-boxes.

Another mahogany dining room of particular dignity contains a very fine mahogany gate-leg table and a set of Chippendale splat-back chairs with rush seats. The set consists of five side and one arm chairs.

An earlier dining room is furnished almost entirely with Charles II. furniture and contains a very interesting old, oblong gate-leg table and a heavy oak refectory side table and a set of carved Charles II. chairs.

The third mahogany dining room contains a most beautiful Duncan Phyfe table with brass claw feet. Six Sheraton chairs, unusually good in design, are used about this table. A fine old Hunting table and a Sheraton side-board are also in the room.

The kitchen of the early American house is also arranged like an old fashioned dining room and contains maple tables and painted chairs.

The charm of buying early American furniture Au Quatrieme lies in the fact that the furniture is all shown in its proper settings in rooms that consistently carry out the early American spirit and that contain all the small accessories characteristic of the early American house. Such things as lights, mirrors, rugs, small occasional tables, samplers, needlepoint, pictures and old, quaint clocks in Colonial period, and all with an historical value, are used with the larger pieces of furniture.

Out of a clear sky comes this good news just when people are moving into new homes or apartments or refurbishing their present homes.

It comes about because unexpectedly furniture manufacturers have sent in their product to such an extent that we cannot properly house it or even present it to the public. This is not because there is an overproduction of furniture, but because, after a restricted output, old orders were delivered all at once and far beyond our expectations.

COOLIDGE CONFERS WITH BOSTON BANKS

Closing of Sixth Bank May Lead to Invoking of Rule to Delay Withdrawals.

LARGE AMOUNTS TAKEN OUT

Depositors' Demands Heavy Since Institution Closed After Ponzi Collapse.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 26.—As a result of the closing yesterday of the sixth Boston bank—the Cosmopolitan Trust Company—within a comparatively short time, Governor Coolidge today called into conference some of the leading bankers of the city to discuss the situation.

The conference at the State House was a long one. It is said that in consequence some banks and trust companies may put in force rules requiring ninety-day notices of withdrawal, as they are permitted by law. This action is thought likely within a few days, perhaps tomorrow.

Bankers in conference with the Governor included representatives of some of the most powerful banking institutions in the city.

The matter of delay on withdrawals was the chief subject of discussion, and, in order not to reflect on any one or more banks, it was suggested that the authorities ask all savings banks and banks conducting savings departments to join in invoking the privilege. Representatives of the stronger banks did not favor this action, and said so. It was therefore decided that each bank should make its own decision on this point.

Several of the banks are seriously disturbed by the steady growth of withdrawals during recent weeks. The "wave" got its start when the Hanover Trust Company was closed in connection with the Charles Ponzi "get rich quick" collapse.

Withdrawals were particularly heavy throughout the city yesterday, following the closing of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company. One trust company in particular had a "run" that continued throughout the day and until 11 o'clock at night, the head of the Directors ordering that the bank remain open to pay all who came.

Max Mitchell, President of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company, received communications from New York bankers today offering to make his institution such loans as it needed to see it through its present trouble, an official of the bank announced tonight.

One of the suggestions made today was that the Governor declare a bank holiday. But this was promptly dismissed. It is felt that no occasion exists for a step so radical.

THINK SUICIDE NEW YORKER

Man Shoots Himself at Atlantic City with German Pistol.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—An unidentified man, between 25 and 30 years old, believed to be a New Yorker, committed suicide on the Boardwalk today by shooting himself in the head with a Germany army pistol. The police believe he was an ex-service man because of the type of the firearm. His body was taken to the City Morgue.

The man was 6 feet 1 inch tall, had brown hair and eyes, and was smooth shaven. He wore a brown suit and a dark hat, purchased in New York. His necktie bore the label, "John W. Ryan, haberdasher in the Pennsylvania Station, New York." A note requesting that no effort be made to identify him and that his body be cremated was found in a coat pocket. Photographs of the body have been sent to the New York police.

BOY WITH $500 BILL STARTS TO SEE LIFE

Adventure Ends When, with 3 Others, 9 to 13, He Tries to Buy Tickets to Chicago.

The information clerk in the New York Central station at Park Avenue and 125th Street was nodding yesterday afternoon when .. tuft of hair—a "cowlick"—appeared at the edge of his counter. The clerk was about to bend over to get a glimpse of the owner, when a small paw came "over the top" and laid down a crisp $500 bill.

"Let's have four tickets to Chicago, willya, boss?" was the request that floated up from the front of the counter and the clerk with a beckon to Sergeant Harry G. Goodwin, of the railroad's private detectives, went around front to see the prospective traveler.

He found four of them and their ages ran from the immaturity of nine years all the way up to the sophistication of full thirteen. It was David Simon of 276 West 115th Street, the 13-year-old leader of the "gang," who was after the tickets to Chicago, and with him were George Slicken, 11 years old, of 59 West 109th Street; Benjamin Tortoro, who arrived at 2,136 Eighth Avenue, over his father's barber shop, just nine years ago, and there was "Rainsy," who said he was 10 years old and "don't know the rest of it."

Goodwin talked to the would-be globetrotters for a while and decided that the first station on the way to Chicago would be the East 126th Street police station. But on the way over, all but David Simon managed to elude Goodwin's grasp. So it was that young David stood alone before the might and pomp, the uniform and power of the stern-faced Desk Lieutenant in that presinct and was asked to tell how he, and only 13 years old, managed to have $500 in these income-taxed days.

"Oh, it's all right," he said, shifting from one foot to the other and sniffing a snivle or two. "You see, my father he sent me over to buy the tickets. He's a Wall Street engineer, and he has lots of money; all Wall Street engineers do."

But somehow it failed to impress that Lieutenant; and, furthermore, the police managed to get the names of his companions from David. And right there's where the trouble started, for didn't two detectives, calling at the barber shop of Frank Tortoro, say they found that wielder of the razor nearly frantic, with his tin box of $1,500 cash and $400 in Liberty bonds unaccountably missing.

At least, that's what the detectives told the Lieutenant, and that's probably why David was in the custody of the Children s Society last night, instead of being in a Pullman berth, wide awake with the adventure of it all and wondering where 'bouts in Chicago the Indians lived. Somewhere, too, were his three "pals," unaware that blue-coated, heavy-stepping "Indians" with willow tomahawks were out seeking three small scalps.

Science in the Shoe Department

THE new X-Ray Foot-o-Scope machine installed in Best & Co.'s new and enlarged women's and children's shoe department on the third floor is the latest means of insuring comfortable footwear to our customers.

If seeing is believing it is not enough to see that a shoe looks good on the outside.

The X-Ray Foot-o-Scope shows how the foot looks on the inside of the shoe, and, therefore, whether the last is correct.

Come in and see the Foot-o-Scope in action.

The New Canoe

In earlier days the canoes of the North were built of birch-bark. They are now made of canvas with spruce ribs and frame. Notice the curve in the center of the keel. The idea is to concentrate the weight in the middle leaving the stem and stern light. This enables the canoe to ride easily over rapid water without shipping waves which might waterlog the craft or spoil the canoe.

GOMPERS ASSAILS HARDING POSITION

Declares "Normalcy" Means "Going Backward," While Cox Is for "Going Forward."

CONTRASTS THE PLATFORMS

Federation Head Holds That Republican Convention "Turned Its Back on Labor."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Writing in the current issue of The American Federationist under the title "'Normalcy' versus Progress," Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, says that Senator Harding has summed up his posi-while Governor Cox, the Democratic candidate, has declared for "going forward."

Mr. Gompers also says that the Republican National Convention, in adopting its platform, "turned its back on labor," and declares that "every American worker, every earnest American citizen, must strive ardently for the defeat of those who turned their backs on labor and on the people generally."

"The two leading candidates for the Presidency have defined clearly their attitudes toward the great public issues of the day," writes Mr. Gompers in his article, which was made public today by the Labor Federation. "In a sentence each has summed up his position.

"In effect, Senator Harding says, 'Let us return to normalcy.'

"Governor Cox says, 'I am for progress.'

"Senator Harding does not use the word 'normal.'. He speaks of 'normalcy.' The word is obsolete, and so is the condition to which he would return.

"Unquestionably in the mind of Senator Harding a return to normal means a return to the conditions that existed before the war—a return to something that is past. It is clear, then, that in keeping with the spirit of the Republican platform Senator Harding's personal desire is to follow a course that leads backward and if elected to lead the nation in such a course.

"Governor Cox proclaims a desire to go forward and a determination to lead the nation in a forward course if he is elected to the Presidency.

"Both of these statements are abstractions and of themselves mean nothing beyond a definition of the general trend of thought of the candidates. The important fact is, however, that the platforms of the parties upon which these candidates stand and their own personal philosophies lead inevitably and naturally up to the conclusions found in those two brief utterances.

"The denial of any desire on the part of the American people to go backward to anything that is past has been found in practically every public expression which the people have been able to make in recent months."

Mr. Gompers then reviews the results of recent primaries in a number of States and continues:

"The interest of the great masses of our people can be best served only by the election of the candidate whose declarations and whose record offer the best assurance of intelligence and integrity in the future. It is vital that there be success for the candidate and the platform who best understands the needs of the people and which most fully and most honestly pledges their satisfaction.

"The Republican Convention 'turned its back upon labor' and in so doing turned its back upon all of our people except for that small minority which finds its occupation in the exploitation of the masses through special opportunities and special privileges.

"Every American worker, every earnest American citizen devoted to the cause of human progress, and with a faith in the righteousness of the principles of freedom, justice and democracy must strive ardently for the defeat of those who have turned their backs upon labor and upon the people generally and for the success of those who have attempted to meet with understanding and in a spirit of constructive progress the problems of the needs of the working people and of the great masses of all our people."

Boy Killed Hitching on Trolley.

3 KILLED BY AUTOS; DRIVERS ARE HELD

Manslaughter Charges Made in Jersey—One Victim a Woman.

SIX ARE HURT IN UPSET

Touring Car and Motor Bus Crash in Front of Vanderlip Home, Briarcliff.

Two arrests on charges of manslaughter were made in New Jersey yesterday, following two fatal automobile accidents late Saturday night. One of those arrested was Charles H. Grant, 27 Shepherd Avenue, East Orange, employed by John W. Tunstead, 294 South Jefferson Street, Orange, a garage owner. A third fatal accident accurred in Brooklyn.

Grant is charged with having been the driver of the automobile which ran down and killed Mrs. Jennie Van Houten of 342 Halstead Street, Orange, as a crowd was leaving the Halstead Street Theatre. The automobile did not stop at the time, but George Devino, 179 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, an occupant of the car, later surrendered to the police.

Devino, who said he had pleaded with Grant to stop, gave information which led to the arrest of Grant on a charge of manslaughter and the arrest of Charles Hanley of 35 Freeman Street on a lesser charge. Devino said he did not know either of the men, but had jumped into the automobile when it became stalled for lack of gasoline because he believed that neither Grant nor Hanley could drive it properly.

Grant and Hanley were arrested by Chief of Police William H. O'Neill and Mayor Charles H. Martens of East Orange at South Jefferson and Mitchell Streets in that city, while they were trying to repair the damaged radiator of their automobile.

Wilfred Cooper, 71 Norwood Avenue, Upper Montclair, was held on a charge of manslaughter, after an automobile he was driving ran down and killed Harry L. Meyers, 23 years old, of 21 Tracy Avenue, at Clinton Avenue and Thirteenth Street, Montclair. Mrs. Meyers, who was crossing the street with her husband, escaped unhurt.

Cooper put Meyers in his automobile, but the latter died before he reached the hospital. In the car with Cooper was Cornelius Pugh, 449 Grove Street, who was held as a material witness, and two young women, whom Cooper said he had met at an amusement park near Newark.

Edward Smith, a clerk, 83 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, was run down and fatally injured last night at Fulton Street and South Portland Avenue, Brooklyn, by an automobile driven by James Westrich, Paterson, N. J. He died in the Brooklyn Hospital. The driver was not arrested.

Six persons, three of them women, were injured in a collision between a touring car and an automobile bus in front of the home of Frank A. Vanderlip, ex-president of the National City Bank, at Briarcliff, N. Y. There were twelve passengers in the bus, which was overturned. The touring car was thrown into the ditch.

The injured, all of whom were removed to the Ossining Hospital, are: Mrs. A. W. Simpson, 251 West Ninety-second Street, New York city, lacerations and internal injuries; Mrs. M. C. Kelley and her son, John, Yonkers, scalp wounds and bruises; F. Williams, 55 Central Park West, New York city, cuts, bruises and internal injuries, a man named McLaughlin of 80 Pillary Street, Brooklyn, and John Devoy, of Cedarhurst, L. I., driver of the touring car, cuts and bruises.

Thomas Cull, whose address is unknown, was taken to Bellevue Hospital in a critical condition from a fractured skull after being run down at Third Avenue and Ninety-fifth Street by an automobile driven by Oscar P. Gaudio, 541 Main Street, West Haven, Conn., and owned by Frank Damone of 445 Elohm Street of the same place. Gaudio, who was arrested on a charge of felonious assault, was discovered at the East Eighty-eighth Street Police Station to have no driver's license. Examination of Cull's effects at the hospital indicated that he had a brother living at 414 Wilkerson Street, Syracuse, N. Y.

RECORD DAY FOR DRUNKS.

23 Arraigned in One Court—Nine Taken in Dance Hall Fight.

The official records of the Morrisania Court for the number of convictions of persons arrested on "drunk and disorderly" charges were broken yesterday. Twenty-three men arraigned on this charge got fines or jail sentences from Magistrate Charles E. Simms.

Nine of those found guilty were arrested together when the police were called to break up a dance at Walton Avenue and 149th Street.

These prisoners were found to be in such a state of intoxication that they were laid out on the floor of the station house and Dr. Gleb of Lincoln Hospital had to use a stomach pump on several of them.

None of the men arranged for intoxication was over 25 years old.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer arrived in this city last night too late to address a meeting at the West Side Y. M. C. A. on "What Does Prohibition Prohibit?"

He went to All Souls' Lutheran Church of Central Avenue and Paterson Street, Jersey City, where he delivered an address on the work of the Lutherans in this country.

In the course of this address Mr. Kramer said:

"In the greatest Lutheran Church in New York City there is an attendance on Sunday evenings of perhaps 30 or 40. There are men who pay from $300 to $600 a year upon the upkeep of an automobile. These men, we find, pay very little attention to their church and contribute little to it."

Mr. Kramer is a member of the Lutheran Church of Mansfield, Ohio.

ROTARY CLUB Activities

Ballot or Bomb?

THE voice of the people is sometimes pitched in an hysterical key. Generations of wise men who made our laws worked toward harmony. But it has resulted as the oldtime vaudevillian plaintively remarked of his trombone: "I blow in so sweet, and it comes out so sour!" The harmony toward which they worked, resolves itself, too often, into discord—the recent tragedy in Wall Street the most violent discord of them all.

In this country the ballot is supposed to be the pitchpipe—the instrument through which the people sound the key of their desires. And only through the ballot should they be permitted to raise their voice. It is monstrous to suppose that we are to be driven to accept the bomb as an alternative!

The One Remedy

Each of us has his own solution to the remedy. Each of us has his own punishment to be administered to the criminals who perpetrated the outrage. But they are mostly solutions and punishments born of white-hot anger, horror and revenge. Sitting down in the half-light of meditation, with heart and soul and mind working in unison and with sanity, only one effective remedy presents itself—that of making every resident of this country an American!

Not an American who mumbles and stumbles through the words of The Star Spangled Banner and frantically waves a flag at parades. But an American whose every atom of ambition is devoted to the progress of this country and the betterment of the people who live in it.

Where to Sow the Seed

To do this we must work, first, with the boy—the youngster whose mind and heart are fertile ground for the seeds of loyalty to find a foothold. And through him will be accomplished the Americanization of the grim grownups who have come to this land late in life, with strange thoughts and stranger ideals firmly rooted in their hearts.

The Rotary Club of New York saw the crying need of Americanization when it started its campaign for the uplift of the underprivileged boy. Rotarians who have worked ardently and continuously in this movement have watched it bear fruit. They are satisfied that the fact can be accomplished.

They take this opportunity, while the latest evidence of distorted patriotism is still fresh in your minds, to ask you, Citizens of the United States, to do all you can to make the ballot, not the bomb, the voice of our people. Will you do it?

On Raising Your Value.

SOME people take a lifetime to establish 100% value. They dribble away years because they don't know how to realize, fertilize and utilize minutes!

The value of business men and of the people they employ could be raised toward the 100% mark if they would use The Dictaphone as the custodian of precious minutes.

Mr. Executive, pour your ideas into The Dictaphone as soon as you get them. They may be worth thousands, if recorded. Not a cent if you let them slip. Miss Employee, get your employer's thoughts from The Dictaphone, when you have time to think them over. You may be able to add to them and to the importance of your position. Raise your value by means of The Dictaphone.

A Great Example of Industrial Co-operation in American Business

What the September U. T. A. Convention in St. Louis means to buyers and users of printing

Resolution for Standardization in the Printing and Paper Industries

Passed by unanimous vote at the September meeting of the United Typothetae of America

THE following is the resolution on standardization which the U. T. A. has just passed at its annual meeting in St. Louis. This resolution stands as one of the most progressive acts in modern business—an example and a challenge to every other industry in America in which unnecessary styles and duplication of effort are curtailing production and raising prices.

WHEREAS, The paper situation throughout the country is proving a serious menace to the printing industry, and the printing equipment is increasing more rapidly than the paper manufacturing equipment, and

WHEREAS, The printing equipment is constantly increasing its production percentage while the paper manufacturing equipment has already reached its maximum by operation both night and day, and

WHEREAS, The existing situation causes an abnormal and unjustifiable competition for the paper production between the publishers, commercial printers and paper merchants, with the naturally resulting greatly increased prices, and

WHEREAS, The advancing cost of paper, labor and overhead may force printing prices to a point where volume may be necessarily curtailed because of greatly increased prices,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That national organizations of paper merchants, paper manufacturers and printing machinery manufacturers be requested to severally appoint committees to join with a special committee representing the United Typothetae of America, the appointment of which by the incoming administration is hereby recommended and authorized, in an effort to analyze the needs, reduce the number of sizes, weights, colors and grades of paper, standardize machinery sizes, investigate methods of increasing paper production and determine a reduction to the minimum of the number of watermarks in commercial paper.

The U. T. A. as an organization is more than 30 years old. It comprises today over 4,800 leading Printers, doing a total volume of, roughly, $500,000,000 per annum. It has 105 local branches, each branch with a high-grade paid secretary in charge. It has a $500,000 annual budget for the improvement of conditions throughout the printing and allied industries. It is one of the few organizations in the country in which there is a real up-to-the-minute interchange of ideas on efficiency and service.

ARE we in for a period of business depression?

Or are fundamental business conditions sound?

What is the labor outlook for the coming twelve months?

How can the consumer and distributor increase production?

Has the jobber a legitimate place in the distribution of merchandise?

Will the demand for certain commodities increase?

Will the supply decrease or increase?

These were a few of the questions that 2,000 of the leading men in the printing and paper industries took up for consideration at the annual convention in St. Louis of the United Typothetae of America. The big thing the Convention did stands as one of the most important and farsighted moves in the after-the-war period of American business.

The issue that demanded recognition

As in the case of many conventions of this sort, there was at first no definite program of action before the members. Then from all sides came the demand for consideration of one paramount issue. And it was this issue that came to dominate the Convention.

President Green, in his opening address, was the first to present it, and to define it specifically as the problem of standardization.

The trade mark of the association of employing printers, one of the greatest organizations of its kind in the world.

For a long time the paper and printing industries, like many other industries, have been cluttered up with unnecessary styles and kinds of paper and machinery. Odd sizes, weights, colors and watermarks of paper have cut down production and raised costs. The result has been an underproduction of paper that has come to threaten the entire printing industry.

This was the reason why the U. T. A. unanimously passed the resolution for standardization printed at the left.

"It is of primary importance," said R. P. Andrews, President of the Paper Trade Association, "and it will become more important as the months roll by, that all of us who are interested in these closely related industries shall think together and work together toward the elimination of wastage, toward the removing of lost motion caused by non-standard items of product, so that we can concentrate machine capacity on standard sizes, weights and grades.

"We are interested in increasing volume of production through standardization because it insures not only permanency of business, but also continuous operation of mill equipment, and enables manufacturers to keep their organizations intact and eliminate labor troubles and other causes of friction, all of which in the end are directly reflected in the value of the paper."

An accomplishment that looks to maintaining and increasing the business of all

This resolution for standardization is not the first important action that the U. T. A. has taken in this direction.

Last year this organization standardized the sizes and weights of cover papers. The adoption of the U. T. A. cover paper recommendations has resulted in a tremendous saving throughout the industry.

The U.T.A. recommendation for standard catalogue sizes to the National Association of Purchasing Agents has been adopted by that organization and is today conserving paper.

The U.T.A. has also put into practice many other changes in trade customs which have reduced friction and waste effort, and have benefited the buyer.

The present blanket move for standardization throughout the whole industry is momentous. Not enough paper is being manufactured today to supply the needs of the country. Unlike conditions in many other industries, there are no large stocks of paper that can be thrown on the market. On the contrary there is real danger that the scarcity of paper and rising labor costs will force printing so high that buyers will be unable to pay the resulting prices. Such a condition would mean that presses, of which there is even now a surplus, would be idle, and that overhead costs would pile up in every Printer's plant.

What standardization means to Buyer, Printer, Merchant and Mill

In counteracting this tendency toward higher costs, the U. T. A. is performing a service of far-reaching importance. By eliminating unnecessary sizes, weights, colors and watermarked grades of paper, this organization is also helping to standardize quality, stabilize prices, make possible better values.

In the trade, standardization means smaller stocks, less investment in slow-moving lines, faster turnover, better service.

The net result will be that the mills will be able to produce more. With standardization, it will be unnecessary to stop and start the big paper-making machines at too short intervals in order to "run" special lots of paper. Every phase of manufacturing will be stabilized. Production is bound to increase.

This U. T. A. resolution, therefore, is not only in the interest of better conditions in the paper and printing industries, but is of direct benefit to all buyers and users of paper.

Heretofore, Printers have exerted their greatest efforts toward the improvement of direct relations with customers. Now they are reaching back to the industries that serve them, and directing these industries in standardizing production and distribution.

The American Writing Paper Company is ready to co-operate in this movement

The American Writing Paper Company, the largest manufacturer of fine papers in the world, is actively interested in the serious purpose with which the United Typothetae of America is attacking this problem.

We have decided, therefore, to work with the U. T. A. in every possible way toward standardizing the sizes, grades, and colors of the papers we make.

Our Scientific Research Laboratory is already at work standardizing raw materials, manufacturing processes, and finished products. We shall be glad to co-operate still further with the committee the U. T. A. appoints under the resolution.

* * *

To all buyers of paper we continue to make these recommendations:

Do not get four or five competitive bids from as many Printers and give the work to the man with the lowest estimate.

Select your Printer on the basis of service rather than price. Employ him on the same basis as you would a doctor or a lawyer. Give him the facts about your business policies and methods. Furnish him with a basis for constructive criticism and suggestions, and then maintain a permanent business relationship with him.

Let your Printer co-operate and work with you rather than merely work for you.

Be open-minded to your Printer's advice.

Your Printer is the one best qualified to select the right paper for the particular job. He is in a position to help you effect real economies — improve quality — bring RESULTS.

President

NOTE: In general where the term "Printer" is used in this announcement, it refers not only to the commercial printer, but also to the offset printer, the lithographer, the engraver and the stationer.

HUNT HORSESHOER IN BOMB DISASTER

Police Trying to Find Man Who Shod the Horse Killed in Wall Street.

WAGON PAINTERS LISTED

May Be Able to Identify Vehicle That Carried Explosive—Legion Post Adds to Reward.

Narrowing their search yesterday for the man who shod the horse killed in the Wall Street explosion to three horseshoers, the police last night eliminated two of the men. According to the information available at Police Headquarters, detectives were endeavoring to locate the third man to see whether he could aid them in their chase for the owner or renter of the red wagon used to carry the explosive to Wall Street.

This morning Captain Arthur Carey, in charge of the Homicide Squad, will have available a complete list of wagonmakers and wagon repair men, together with the list of wagon painters. It was said yesterday that a checkup of the list might yield some one who could identify the remains of the wagon, now lying in a room at headquarters.

No statement on the progress of the police in solving the bomb mystery was obtainable from the police officials directing the work. And a similar silence pervaded the offices of Chief William J. Flynn's Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

Within a few days, it was explained, a statement of all steps taken thus far might be made. It was said that a general report was being prepared setting forth the work of every policeman and every Federal agent working on the case. This big assembled report, worked into one document, will be used as a guide map for the future course of the inquiry.

Agents of the Department of Justice made another visit to 38 Wall Street, the old Post & Flagg Building, being remodeled for occupancy by the Merchants' Bank of Canada. It was in this building that a number of old sash weights similar to those found in the bomb aftermath were discovered on Saturday.

Offering an additional reward of $50 for the arrest of the perpetrators of the crime, the Army Transport Post of the American Legion yesterday adopted resolutions condemning the outrage.

WIRELESS PLEA FOR FIUME.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, Commander at Fiume, has sent a wireless message from William Marconi's yacht Elektra, now in Fiume harbor, in which recognition of the "Italian Regency of Quarnero," recently proclaimed by d'Annunzio, is asked from all the nations of the world, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from home today.

ALL MURPHYS FOR HARDING

They Used to be Democrats, Says T. J., but Balked at the League.

All the Murphys of the country are going to vote for Senator Warren G. Harding, according to Thomas J. Murphy of 1,058 Teller Avenue, the Bronx, who called at the national headquarters of the Harding Democratic League, 47 West Forty-second Street, yesterday and made this announcement.

"The Murphy clan is going to vote for Harding, and there are enough Murphys around to make an army," said Mr. Murphy, who was a champion half-mile runner back in 1883. "Every mother's son of a Murphy in the United States has been a Democrat since he first came over from Ireland. Now the Mrs. Murphys and the Miss Murphys are voting, and they are going to vote for Harding. What does any Murphy want with Cox and the League of Nations?"

"There is one Murphy vote that will be counted for Cox," Rhinelander Waldo, President of the league, suggested.

"I know Tammany's boss like a brother," replied the other Murphy. "But hush, under your hat; I think Charlie will drop one in the box for Harding."

Mrs. Marshall Coolidge to Speak.

Mrs. Marshall Coolidge of Minnesota, cousin of Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, Republican nominee for Vice President, will be the principal speaker at the weekly forum of the Republican Women's State Executive Committee at the Hotel Vanderbilt this afternoon. Mrs. Laura Dayton Fessenden of Chicago, Chairman of the parlor meeting division of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee, will speak.

CONVINCED WORLD SERIES WAS FIXED

lawyers and going over the entire matter, calling in any one who was making any remarks and finding out the truth of the whole matter. But Johnson agreed to investigate the affair, and I thought it was really his case and that he would handle it carefully."

Comiskey's admission of suspicion following the first game came after the game today, when he gave a statement to the press, assuring them once more that if any of his players were proven guilty of crookedness he would go further than any one to see that they were expelled from baseball.

"That is what I stated at the start," said the Sox leader, "and I still feel the same way. I did all I could to clear the matter up, and gave everything I knew to the Grand Jury. I followed every clue we had, and I couldn't produce evidence.

Attacks Ban Johnson.

"But I will say this," and the Sox leader immediately became aroused: "There's one man working on this investigation and I did think he was sincere in it for a time, but I believe now he's using it for his own personal gain. It was a terrible thing to see a story printed of crookedness on the White Sox recently, just before they went into a tough series against New York; but it was still worse to follow with a statement of blackmail of my players by gamblers just before they went into the series against Cleveland, a club in which this man is interested.

"I refer to Ban Johnson, the President of our league. I started investigating last Fall right after the series. I sent Manager Gleason and two other men to St. Louis to follow up a clew and Johnson followed by going down there and then saying that Gleason bungled the affair."

It was known that Johnson went to New York immediately after testifying before the jury last Wednesday but just why he had gone wasn't known until his return today.

Heydler Quotes Benton.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Concerning the Chicago-Philadelphia National League game of Aug. 31, which is said to have been "fixed" for Philadelphia to win, President Heydler said tonight that his investigation convinced him that a deliberate attempt had been made by some one to injure the Chicago Club.

"President Navin sent a letter to Ban Johnson saying that $50,000 was bet on the game, that $10,000 of it was bet in Detroit," he said. "This letter was turned over to E. C., but I have been able to learn of only $3,000 bet in Cleveland and $1,300 in Cincinnati. I have not finished investigating."

President Heydler said that the New York National League club had done more for baseball than any other club in either league.

"McGraw deliberately wrecked his pennant chances by getting rid of Chase and Zimmerman, because of their alleged gambling and game throwing," he said.

Discussing testimony given by Benton before the Cook County Grand Jury, Heydler said Benton had been quoted to him as saying Herzog offered him $800 to throw the game between Chicago and New York Sept. 10.

"But when I called Benton and Herzog before me," he continued, "Benton said Hal Chase had offered him the money and not Herzog.

"Benton also told me that before that game started McGraw told him to either 'win or buy a ticket home.' I don't know just what McGraw may have meant, but at any rate New York won."

Johnson Tells of Interview.

"I found that man Arnold Rothstein," said Johnson, upon his return, "and after a long talk with him I felt convinced he wasn't in any plot to fix the world series. He did admit to me that he heard of the fixing, but in spite of that declared he wagered on the White Sox in the first game. He denied he had won a lot of money on the series, saying that his first wager was $11,000 against $10,000 on the Sox to win the first game.

"The result of that contest must have convinced him that the thing wasn't square, because he stated he switched to the Reds for the second game, betting $10,000 even, thereby losing $1,000 on the two deals. The reports were that he had won an enormous sum on the series, one report being that he bet $50,000 against $70,000 on the Reds, but he denied that. Rothstein admitted hearing that 'Abe' Attell, former pugilist, was mixed up in the fixing of the series."

Heydler had visited Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cleveland in an effort to obtain evidence of the "fixing" of the Cubs-Phillies game of Aug. 31, and stated he was convinced that a tip had circulated among gamblers that the game was fixed, but as yet he had been unable to produce any direct evidence.

"Do you believe that game was fixed?" he was asked.

"I'm not in a humor to say any game is fixed or isn't fixed any more," was his positive reply. "I'm sure that the warnings sent to the Chicago Club weren't sent by any friends of baseball. I've heard so much about crookedness in baseball in the last year that I wouldn't say anything any more, but I am in favor of running down to the end every rumor of crookedness from now on, and doing it openly and above board. It's a terrible thing to allow a few players who may be wrong to cast a cloud over all the others in the game, and I believe practically all of the ball players in the profession are honest and square in every way."

Here are a few of the matters that will be brought to the attention of the Grand Jury this week in the investigation of baseball:

The charge that Benny Kauff of the New York Giants had been offered $500 to throw a game in St. Louis, which offer Kauff declined.

The circumstances surrounding the release of Heine Zimmerman by Manager McGraw of the Giants.

The report current in baseball circles last season that two White Sox players were under contract to the gambling syndicate to throw two games a week. "Chick" Gandil, whose name has appeared frequently in the present investigation, was asked about the rumor at the time, and remarked that the "dope sheets would show that the rumor was untrue," adding that "if anybody's paid to lose two games a week he isn't earning his money—there's many a week when the Sox didn't lose a game."

The story of Charles Weeghman, onetime President of the Cubs, that Monte Tennes, known as a gambler, had told him the last world's series was fixed.

The report that "Nicky" Arnstein had a hand in directing the activities of the gambling syndicate.

JOHN McGRAW TO TESTIFY.

Manager of Giants Leaves Today to Aid in Baseball Inquiry.

Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants will leave today for Chicago, where the investigation of crooked baseball playing and deals with gamblers is now going on. Justice Francis X. McQuade, Treasurer of the Giants, will accompany McGraw to Chicago. The manager of the Giants has not been subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury, but he received a telegram asking him if it would be possible for him to go out, and he answered that he would gladly give any information that he possessed.

It is probable that McGraw will be called before the Grand Jury tomorrow or Wednesday. It is likely that he will be asked about the evidence given by Rube Benton, the reasons for the release of Hal Chase, the dropping of Heinie Zimmerman and also about the reported offer of $500 to Benny Kauff before a game in St. Louis last season.

HARRIMAN NATIONAL BANK

NEW YORK

Fried in Our Own Fat

Very recently we handed over to France for about $400,000,000 surplus war property estimated to be worth about $1,750,000,000, . . . almost everything in the list essential to our present-day needs—bacon, shoes, clothing, automobiles—and also one item that stands out above all the rest at this particular time, to wit: 22,000,000 pounds of sugar. —Harriman National Bank, October 18, 1919.

Now, it is stated, France will resell where she can, including probably the United States, the unused balance of this surplus war property, estimated to be worth $150,000,000. The French did not pay for these goods in cash, and the obligation, which represented the proceeds of Liberty Bonds, was added to the Allied debt.

It is reported that the money from the sale will be used to pay in part the French Loan due in October, and not applied, it will be noted, to the reduction of the French share of the Allied debt, to which the cost of the goods was charged when they were purchased. Mark, such goods as come into the American market will compete with the product of the mills and factories that supplied the original money to give them to France, whose owners, and all our citizens, still continue to pay income and excess profit taxes to meet interest on Liberty Bonds issued to produce the goods!

It may yet occur to taxpayers that the refunding of the Allied debt in the form of an Allied bond, as suggested by the Harriman National Bank, is worth consideration. Meanwhile, the United States would not yet appear to have become bankers for the world, nor New York the hub of the financial universe. In London and Paris, however, there were even then great financial artists when Columbus discovered America.

Southpaw Holds McGrawmen in Check While His Mates Find Douglas in Seventh.

Brooklyn's baseball dementia soared higher than the well-known cost of living yesterday afternoon at Ebbets Field when the Robins and Giants grappled in the second number of that all-important series to settle the National League pennant race. Men and women alike rooted for their favorite team, argued with nearby fans, shouted through megaphones made of score cards, rang bells and extracted every last bit of noise from rattlers, while the Robins proceeded to take the measure of their interborough rivals. The final figures were 4 to 2, and the victory put the Brooklyn team in a position where one more victory for the Robins, or one more defeat for the McGrawmen, means a pennant for Flatbush.

Wild scenes have been enacted inside those cement barriers, but it is doubtful if the peak of excitement on any previous occasion equaled that of yesterday. Thousands were turned away long before game time, when the Fire Department officials ordered all gates closed. Some of the wilder enthusiasts, however, declined to let that order interfere with their program. Quite a few went over the left field wall, scaled the scoreboard or slid down a convenient rope until the police halted the climbers. Close to 25,000 filled to capacity the big stand, the stationary and temporary bleachers, while hundreds stood in the back of the grand stand, behind the fence in centre field or wherever standing room could be had. Even the steel girders supporting the roof of the upper stand were seized upon for seating space.

Olson's Single Settles It.

Enthusiasm reached its topmost heights in the seventh inning when Ivan Olson socked a single to right field that sent two Robins scampering over the plate with the runs that put their team in front. Doubts of victory, which had been rampant among the Brooklyn fans from the time the Giants tied up the game in the third frame, disappeared as Myers and Krueger dashed plateward. The bugaboo of five straight defeats at the hands of the Giants wafted out to sea as a warm spell disappears ahead of a cool west wind. Victory was in reach, if not actually achieved, and those Brooklyn rooters, who bow to none in wild enthusiasm, cut loose with one of their superfine efforts.

When the game was over hundreds of Flatbush rooters lingered near the exit from which the home players emerge and the Robins can't expect much more of a reception if they take the deciding game of the world's series than they got for this victory over the Giants. Rube Marquard, whose brilliant pitching played so big a part in the overthrow of the Giants, was singled out for the largest portion of the hero worship, but nobody was overlooked.

The lanky Rube and stubby Peterkin Kilduff, both of whom wore the livery of McGraw in other years, were the obstacles over which the Giants tripped in the belated rush to overtake the league leaders. Rube pitched one of the best games of his long career on the diamond, so good in fact that only for errors by Johnston and Griffith he would have registered a shutout. Rube allotted five hits that were too far apart to cause him any worry if the errors had not been crowded in just ahead of singles.

Kilduff Shines Afield.

Kilduff scintillated with a pair of fancy catches in short right field. The first occurred in the sixth inning with the bases empty, but the second shut off one run and possibly prevented the Giants from taking the lead in the eighth inning. With two out, one run in and two Giants on the bases, Kelly hit a high fly to short right field. Griffith was playing deep for the New York slugger and probably would not have reached the ball anyway. Bancroft was over the plate with what would have been the tying run if the ball got away, and Frisch was almost at third when Kilduff, still moving out toward the wall, made the catch. He was partly upset by his effort, but managed to hold the ball and keep Brooklyn's lead from fading out. A catch of Frisch's foul by Konetchy, while leaning over the grandstand rail in the first inning, was another brilliant piece of defensive work behind Marquard.

McGraw used three pitchers and all yielded some part of the Brooklyn scoring total. Fred Toney drew the opening assignment, but the big mountaineer lacked the effectiveness that has marked his recent performances at the Polo Grounds. He was nicked for three hits in the first inning and one in the second in addition to some hard smashes to fielders, which showed that Toney's fast one lacked the usual hop. Big Fred went out for a pinch hitter in the third and Phil Douglas shuffled his way into the game. Phil pitched brilliant ball for four innings and then a spell of wildness furnished the medium for the Brooklyn victory. Phil had loaded the bases on passes, when Olson made his timely hit in the seventh. Douglas, like Toney, rode out of the picture on a pinch hitter, and Slim Sallee pitched the eighth inning, yielding a double and a single, which produced the last Brooklyn run.

Bancroft doubled to left with one out in New York's first inning and raced to third on Young's long fly to Griffith, but was stranded when Koney made his spectacular catch of Frisch's foul after reaching into the grandstand for the ball.

Robins Score in First.

In Brooklyn's first inning a run developed. Olson greeted Toney with a single to left, fast fielding by Burns keeping the drive to one base. After Johnston had lofted to Burns, Griffith forced Olson at second. Wheat's hard smash to centre pushed Griffith to third, and Myers sent the run home with a single over second.

The Giants tied up the game in the third inning. With one out Burns was safe on Johnston's fumble and Bancroft chased him around to third with a single to left centre. Young's single to centre tied up the game.

Not a Brooklynite passed first base from the first to the seventh inning and the Giants went out in order from the third to the close of their half of the seventh. Myers opened Brooklyn's seventh with a walk, remained on first while Koney and Kilduff flied to King, and then stole second, being helped along by a short passed ball. Passes to Krueger and Marquard filled the bases for Olson, and Ole lined to right field. Young ran in for the ball, made a dive for a shoestring catch but could not hold the bulb, and both Myers and Krueger registered. Johnston followed with a single to left and Marquard halted at third. Olson turned second at top speed and was almost at third when he found the traffic blocked by Rube. A rundown ensued and Marquard was retired between third base and the plate.

Griffith muffed a fly by Burns with one out in New York's eighth. Bancroft's walk advanced George, and Young singled to left, filling the bases. While Frisch was forcing Young at second Burns scored. Kilduff's fine catch off Kelly ended the inning.

With Sallee pitching in the eighth Neis batted for Griffith and doubled to right. Grimes took care of Wheat's pop fly and Myers sent Neis home with a single to left.

Robins Need One More Victory; Indians Maintain Advantage

The victory of the Brooklyn team over the Giants at Ebbets Field yesterday carried the National League pennant race to a point where the Robins need to win only one of their remaining four games to clinch top honors in the Heydler circuit. One defeat for the Giants in the six games still to be played by the McGrawmen would bring about the same result. Brooklyn has three games to play with New York and one with Boston, while the Giants have two with Boston, three with Brooklyn and one with Philadelphia. If Brooklyn loses all four games and the Giants win six straight the two clubs would close the season on even terms, each having ninety victories and sixty-four defeats. Such a result would necessitate a play-off between the Giants and Robins, so the McGrawmen now face the task of taking four straight from the Flatbush team if they are to get into the world's series, three scheduled games and a play-off contest. If Brooklyn wins any of its remaining games and the Giants win six straight the standing would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Brooklyn	91	63	.591
New York	90	64	.584

If the Giants lose one of their remaining games and Brooklyn loses four straight the standing would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	89	65	.578

In the American League both Indians and White Sox won, leaving the relative positions the same as before, but Cleveland still holds a big edge, with two defeats less than the White Sox have sustained. Six victories in their remaining seven games would put Cleveland out of Chicago's reach, even if the Sox take four straight. If Chicago loses one game Cleveland can lose two and still win. Two victories will put Chicago beyond the reach of the Yanks and three victories will do the same for Cleveland.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—By bunching hits on Tyler in the fifth and on Martin in the sixth St. Louis scored enough runs for a 6-3 victory over Chicago today. North pitched effectively after a bad start. In the last seven innings the Cubs got only two hits. The score:

UMPIRES WANT MORE PAY.

Would Work on Percentage Basis in World's Series Contest

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Major league umpires have petitioned for increased pay for world's series work, President John Heydler of the National League said tonight.

The umpires want to work in the annual series on a percentage basis, just as the players do, and their request probably will be acted on at tomorrow's meeting of the National Commission, he said.

Curves and Bingles

The Robins will do no more playing until Thursday, when they open a three-game series with the Giants at the Polo Grounds. They may be found at the Polo Grounds today, however, when the Giants and Braves hook up in a double-header.

Rube Marquard had to battle his way through a throng of cheering admirers when he left Ebbets Field. It's great to be with a winner—but it is a good idea to keep on winning.

Several hundred fans who were shut out of the park viewed the game from the hill beyond centre field and from the tops of nearby dwelling houses.

President Ebbets declared yesterday that the demand for world's series reservations already has reached a point where he can consider every seat taken. No tickets will be sent out until the Robins clinch the flag.

Ross Young reached the double century mark in base hits for the season when he singled in the second inning. Hornsby and Young now are over the line, a mark that no National League player had reached since 1912.

McGraw called on two pinch hitters, Gaston for Toney and Brown for Douglas. Marquard treated them alike, setting both down on strikes.

With the temporary stands in the outfield President Ebbets hopes to entertain about 26,000 fans daily while the Robins are battling at home for world's series honors.

It seemed as if everybody was for the Giants when the stretch period arrived in New York's seventh, but the home half of the seventh indicated that everybody was for Brooklyn.

Ivy Olson took a lot of punishment from the fans earlier in the season, but it is a different story now. Every appearance of the Brooklyn shortstop is a signal for cheers. The world loves a game battler and that goes for Olson.

Roy Grimes almost got a home run in the ninth, but Myers backed close to the bleachers and pulled in the long drive.

WARD'S BIG CUDGEL WINS FOR YANKEES

His Brace of Homers Nets Five Runs and Senators Are Thrashed by 9 to 5.

QUINN IS WELL SUPPORTED

Dazzling Plays Behind Him Make Victory Easy in Final Local Game for Huggins's Men.

Babe Ruth and the Yankees said farewell to the Polo Grounds for the season yesterday, some 30,000 fans coming out to wish them a pleasant Winter. The Babe failed to grace the occasion with his fifty-second homer, but the Yanks crashed into Clark Griffith's Senators for a 9—5 victory, thus passing out of the 1920 picture in New York with a brisk stride and their heaviest guns booming.

The brighest lad with the bat was Aaron Ward, who gave the fans something pleasant to think about during the long dry spell ahead by slashing two home runs to the remote corners of the Harlem ball lot. Hannah was on the sacks in the fifth when the young third baseman sent one of Zachary's slants hurtling over the left field bleachers. In his next time at the plate, in the next inning, Ward repeated the act with two men on, this time changing the locale from left to right field. After running back several laps, Johnson, Washington's recruit right fielder, got the corner of his glove on the drive, but it kept on traveling and rolled merrily into a far corner while Ward was making the circuit, sliding into home plate and brushing himself off. The third sacker also collected a single in the opening chapter and scored the Yanks' first run.

The Senators also contributed a homer to the common total, Shanks making the round trip in the fourth after his line smash had evaded the eager grasp of Sam Vick in right field. Sam Rice was on first at the time by virtue of a single through the box, and with Shanks scored a pair of runs that tied the score, the Yanks having emerged from the first inning with a two-run lead. Ward's four-base clout in the fifth, however, erased the deadlock, and in the sixth the Huggins troupe reared up and shoved four runs across, settling the afternoon's pastime.

No. 52 Fails to Arrive.

About 25,000 of the 30,000 fans were out to see Babe Ruth celebrate the end of the Yanks' season at the Polo Grounds by hitting his fifty-second, but the smashing infant had to confine his efforts to a double that rolled over Judge's head into right. Johnson was playing so far back in right that before he could tack around and get away from the fence Babe had pulled up at second. On his first trip to the plate the slugger rolled to Judge and in his second appearance he was thrown out by Harris. In the fifth Babe fouled two into the stands near the foul line, but was finally forced to take a pass for want of anything better.

Back of plenty of hitting on the part of the Yanks, Jack Quinn, who officiated at the grand finale, had little to do on the mound. The veteran spitballer was not stingy with hits, allowing the Senators twelve blows, one more than the Yanks were able to boast of. Dazzling support by the infield helped the moist ball artist out of several tight pinches.

Quinn himself initiated a lightning double play in the fifth, when he grabbed Zachary's grounder and threw to Peck at second, cutting down Picinich. Zachary was easy for Peck at first. After the Yanks had sewed the contest up in the sixth and added another in the seventh, Quinn let down in the ninth, the Senators tallying three times before the twirler put on the brakes.

Ward and Wally Pipp were the vanguard of the attack on Zachary, who was not as puzzling as he had been at times. A couple of hits in the first produced the same number of runs. Three more blows, including Ward's first homer, pushed two more runs across in the fifth and a sixth inning uprising netted four markers and sent the Washington southpaw to the bench. He was succeeded by Gleason, who was reached for two hits and one tally in the seventh, and was not touched in the eighth.

After the Senators had gone out in order in the first frame Ward singled to right to begin the New York half. Pipp sent him to second with a safety to left. Judge took care of Ruth's grounder, sending Ward to third. Pratt flied to Johnson, but Zachary, intercepting the throw to the plate, fumbled long enough to allow both Ward and Pipp to score.

Senators Draw Up Level.

The two-run lead was wiped out in the fourth. Rice started by driving a line drive at Quinn too hard for the twirler to handle. Shanks smashed a liner to right, which Vick came in on but missed, the ball rolling to the fence, while Rice and Shanks crossed the plate. The next three Senators were easy for Quinn.

After Vick had filed out in the fifth Hannah smacked a single to left and was sent to second by Quinn's neat sacrifice bunt. Then came Ward's home run over the left field bleachers, Hannah trotting in ahead of him. Pipp singled to centre and Ruth was walked, but Pratt's fly settled in Shanks's glove.

Duffy Lewis started the fifth by singling to left. Ellerbe dropped the ball while trying to throw Peck's grounder and both runners were safe. Vick tapped to the pitcher, who tried unsuccessfully to nip Lewis at third. All hands were safe. Hannah's single to centre scored Lewis. Quinn flied to Rice and Peck was cut down at the plate trying to score. With Vick and Hannah aboard, Wardie smashed a long fly to right field for four bases, three runs trickling across.

In the seventh Ruth doubled to right as a starter and Pratt walked. Lewis's sacrifice fly to Johnson sent Ruth to third, and he completed the round trip when Peck dropped a single into left.

Three Senators romped over the plate in the ninth. O'Rourke's high grounder bounced off Pipp's glove for a single. After Johnson had flied to Lewis, Picinich singled, and Prothro, batting for Gleason, followed suit, O'Rourke scoring on the latter blow. Judge hoisted to Vick and Harris singled to centre, scoring Picinich and Prothro with the final pair of tallies.

WHITE SOX HAVE A PICNIC WITH TIGERS

Detroit Boxmen Are Both Wild and Ineffective, Chicago Winning by Score of 8-1.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Chicago found Detroit pitchers easy today and won the game, 8 to 1, but failed to advance in the pennant race, Cleveland's victory over St. Louis enabling the league leaders to maintain their half game advantage.

The visitors used three pitchers, but their wildness, coupled with opportune hitting, gave the White Sox a commanding lead, and with Cicotte pitching fine ball Detroit had little chance. Cicotte held the visitors to seven scattered hits, but his own error enabled Detroit to save itself from a shutout. In the first inning Young singled and took second on a sacrifice. Cobb bunted to Cicotte, who threw wild to first and Young scored. After this inning Cicotte had things his own way.

42 ROUNDS OF BOXING.

Tex Rickard Arranges Four Bouts for Next Show at Garden.

Forty-two rounds of boxing will be offered at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, when the second show under the Walker law will be staged. The card is composed of two fifteen-round contests to a decision and two six-round matches. Joe Ruddy, the veteran New York A. C. athlete, and Assemblyman Martin G. McCue, one of the strongest advocates of the law permitting boxing matches here, have been selected to judge the bouts. Bill Brown will referee the two principal contests.

Joe Lynch, west side bantamweight, and Jack Sharkey, another local contender for the title, will clash in one of the fifteen-round bouts to a decision. This contest will eliminate one of the principals from consideration as a prospective opponent of Champion Pete Herman in a championship bout which is scheduled for the third week in October at the Garden. Herman has not yet consented to the match, but he is expected to arrange details tomorrow with Promoter Tex Rickard. Rickard will award a championship belt to the winner of the bout between Tuesday's victor and Herman.

The other fifteen-round contest will bring together Abe Attell Goldstein, the local bantam, and Patsy Wallace, Philadelphia's leading contender for the title. The six-round events will be between Buddy Dempsey and Eddie Fletcher and Chuck Preevy and Louis Herman. SEWELL'S HITTING WINS FOR INDIANS

Recruit Drives Four Runners Home and Cleveland Defeats St. Louis, 7 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—Sewell's hitting enabled Cleveland to defeat St. Louis, 7 to 5, today and retain the lead in the fight for the American League pennant. The recruit shortstop drove in four runs with a single and a double, the last hit in the third inning putting over the two runs necessary to tie.

Wellman was relieved after the first inning, when he gave three bases on balls and allowed two hits, and St. Louis drove Caldwell from the box in the same inning.

Uhle, who succeeded him, held the locals well in check, only two runners getting as far as third base. Score:

OFFICIALS TO SEE BOUT.

Gov. Edwards and Mayor Hague Will Watch Carpentier's Debut.

Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, together with their official families, will be the guests of the International Sporting Club and The Arena, at the twelve-round bout between Georges Carpentier and Battling Levinsky, which will be fought at the Jersey City Baseball Park on Oct. 12. Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke of the I. S. C. has announced that ringside boxes will be reserved for the two officials and their parties.

Plans for seating arrangements, the prices of tickets and methods of handling the large crowd expected to witness the bout, are now occupying the attention of I. S. C. officials and President Jack Frost of The Arena. Preliminaries and other details will be announced in a few days.

Dan Morgan, manager of Levinsky, has returned from White Sulphur Springs, confident, after his visit to the Levinsky training camp, that the big Hebrew light-heavyweight will acquit himself in approved manner against Carpentier.

"Levinsky is better than ever," said Morgan. "You just ought to see the way he batters Sailor Petroskey and his other sparring partners about. He is doing quite a little road work and some gym work, but the major part of his training will consist of boxing. Don't take my word for it that he is good; wait and see for yourself. I'm going to have him finish up his training at Grupp's gymnasium in the city, and the fans will have a chance to see and judge for themselves."

92D ST. Y. M. H. A. WINNER ON TRACK

Leads Other Branches by Big Margin in Annual Handicap Meet at Brooklyn.

Athletes of the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. demonstrated all around superiority yesterday in the annual handicap track and field meet of the Metropolitan League of Young Men's Hebrew Associations at Brooklyn Athletic Field, and scored a hollow victory. The East Siders, with a total of seven victories and a preponderance of strength in the struggles for other point placements, rolled up the commanding total of 65 points. This margin more than tripled the total of the South Brooklyn branch, which finished second with 18 points. Washington Heights Y. M. H. A. was third with 13, one point in excess of the total scored by the Brooklyn branch.

With its comparatively unlimited material, the victorious team had more or less of a field day. In but one event did the Ninety-second Street representatives fail to score points. This was the 12-pound shot-put for seniors, in which the South Brooklyn and Washington Heights weight athletes monopolized the points. In two events, the 100-yard and 220-yard senior dashes, the East Side branches athletes scampered off with all four point positions.

The individual star of the meet was Albert Verber of the Bronx branch. With a brace of victories in the field competitions, he accounted for ten of his team's total points. Verber captured the running broad jump for juniors and duplicated his victory in the senior running high jump. Verber's winning broad jump was 18 feet 1¼ inches and in the high jump he returned an effort of 5 feet 8 inches.

Sam Freirich, crack Ninety-second Street middle-distance runner, was one of the successful scratch competitors. Freirich was on the honor mark in the half-mile handicap run, and won without really being extended. The limit handicap was fifteen yards and Freirich found it easy to overcome this allowance.

Harry Lobou, Nat Osk's promising walker, made the games the occasion for his fourth successive triumph. The Ninety-second Street pedestrian, from scratch, defeated a large field of ambitious rivals in a test at one mile, covering the distance easing up in 8:01. L. Zimmerman, Ninety-second Street disdained a handicap of fifty yards in the two-mile run, and, after starting from the back mark, overtook a field of fourteen rivals, winning with a surprising burst of speed in the closing 300 yards.

BAYSIDE STARS WIN TEAM RACE HONORS

Maia, Taurus and Milky Way Take First Prize Over Port Washington Course.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Sept. 26.—As a climax to the most active season yachts of the star class have experienced since that popular type was designed over a decade ago, thirteen started in one race and fourteen in another over the course of the Port Washington Yacht Club in Manhasset Bay this afternoon. The dual event was a team match, for which five prizes were offered by the Port Washington Club.

As a result of the two races the first team of the Bayside Yacht Club, consisting of Benjamin L. Linkfield, in the Maia; William L. Inslee, in the Taurus, and F. W. Teves, in the Milky Way, won first prize; the Bayside Boat Club's second team, George Abbott's Aria, W. C. Crosby's Mars and C. F. Searing's Neptune, was second.

The Port Washington Yacht Club's first team, Charles E. Hyde's Hydra, George W. Elder's Saturn and E. V. Willis's Altair came third, while the Manhasset Bay team, Gordon Curry's Aquilla, F. K. Thayer's Orion and R. D'Oench's Vega landed fourth place, and the Bayside Yacht Club's third team, J. R. Robinson's Big Dipper and Arthur Knapp's Southern Cross got fifth prize.

When the first race was started at 12:05 o'clock a very light and fluky breeze was blowing from the northwest. Before the yachts lined up for the second race, three and a half hours later, the wind had shifted to the southwest and increased in intensity a trifle, but the skippers were unable to make good time, and some of them did not finish until after 7 o'clock.

F. W. Teves, sailing the Milky Way, won both races, and Charles E. Hyde, who in former years has been a leading contestant in the star class, but who has not participated in many races this year, finished second in both races. The handicap prize was won by W. C. Crosby in the Mars.

SPENCER CROWNED BICYCLE CHAMPION

Wins Professional Title of U. S. by Large Margin in Races at Newark.

KRAMER IN SECOND PLACE

Veteran Rider Finishes with 19 Points, to 48 for Victor—Eaton Captures Third Position.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 26.—Arthur Spencer of Toronto was crowned the professional bicycle champion of America at the Velodrome here this afternoon just before he had beaten Frank L. Kramer in the two-mile championship race by a margin of a few inches. Alfred Goullet defeated Willie Spencer, Arthur's brother, in the heat to decide third and fourth places.

This is the second time that Spencer has won the American title. Back in 1917 he beat out Kramer for the championship after Kramer had won the premier honors of the country for sixteen straight years. Spencer was presented with a large floral horseshoe and three large bouquets. He was then draped with an American flag, and with a floral crown on his head made of roses, he circled the track while the fans gave him a hearty ovation.

Spencer won the championship rather easily this season. He scored forty-eight points while Kramer, the runner-up, totaled nineteen. Ray Eaton, the former champion, was third with seventeen points, Willie Spencer scored fourteen and Alfred Goullet but six.

In the championship consolation race today Peter Moeskops defeated Reggie McNamara and Eddie Madden. Ray Eaton was fined $25, disqualified, and suspended for the day in this event for stalling.

Madden and McNamara took two out of three heats of the one-mile team match race from Harry Kaiser and Jake Magin. Kaiser won the first heat by sprinting around both Madden and McNamara. The second, though, resulted in a victory for McNamara over Magin, while in the third McNamara beat Kaiser. In the last two heats Madden gave McNamara a great "pull" which enabled him to win.

Anthony Young, the husky amateur of the Bay View Wheelmen, won the two mile handicap and the one mile open. Young created a new world's handicap record in the two mile event when he covered the distance in three minutes and fifty-four seconds. Young just nipped Burton Fenn at the tape in this event.

The summaries:

One-Mile Novice (Amateur)—Won by George Richter, Newark; Joe Whelan, Newark, second. Time—3:15.

One-Mile Open (Amateur)—Won by Anthony Young, Bayview Wheelmen; William Beck, Newark, second; Edward Bendi, Unione Sportiva Italiana, third; Carl Hambacher, Bloomfield, fourth. Time—2:24 3-5.

YOUNG A DOUBLE WINNER.

Bay View Wheelman Shows Way in Races of Three and Ten Miles.

Anthony Young, sturdy cyclist of the Bay View Wheelmen, showed the way yesterday in the closing two races of the Interclub Amateur Cycle Road Racing League's annual individual championship test, held on Pelham Parkway, and carried off the title with the score of 20 points. Joseph Amibile, Acme Wheelmen, finished second in the struggle for the championship with a total of 9 points. Eugene Aicheln, New England Wheelmen, and Louis Benezetti, Unione Sportiva Italiana, tied for third, each with 6 points, but in a run-off of a one-mile match race Benezetti emerged victorious for third laurels by half a wheel length.

Young captured both the three-mile and ten-mile unpaced events yesterday, adding two more to his unbroken string of four victories. He had previously scored successes in the quarter-mile and five-mile events. Six other cyclists opposed Young in the closing two races, but he showed marked superiority and won handily in both instances. In the three-mile event Young rode over the finish line in 10:18 2-5, leading Benezetti by an impressive margin. In the ten-mile unpaced test Young's wheel was in front for the greater part of the distance and he finished first in 25:06, with an interval of thirty-eight seconds before the arrival of Aicheln, who rode home second.

The summaries:

Three-Mile Race—Won by Anthony Young, Bay View Wheelmen, Newark, N. J.; Louis Benezetti, Unione Sportiva Italiana, N. Y., second; Eugene Aicheln, New England Wheelmen, Bronx, third; Joseph Amibile, Acme Wheelmen, Bronx, fourth; Fred Zierow, Century Road Club Association, Brooklyn, fifth; George Menzer, North Hudson Wheelmen, Hoboken, N. J., sixth; A. Patonostro, Italian-American Gymnastic Association, Brooklyn, seventh. Time—10:18 2-5.

Ten-Mile Unpaced Race—Won by Young, 25:06; Aicheln, 25:44, second; Amibile, 26:13 2-5, third; Zierow, 26:19 2-5, fourth; Benezetti, 26:34 2-5, fifth; Menzer, 27:06 2-5, sixth; Patonostro, 28:02 1-5, seventh.

Point Score—Young 20 points, Amibile 9, Benezetti 6, Aicheln 6, Zierow 3.

Erie A. A. Soccer Team Beaten.

An injury to Tommy Stark, which necessitated several stitches over his right eye, shortly after the game had started, and forced the Erie A. A. team to play with only ten men from then on, accounted in a large measure for the victory, by 3 goals to 2, of the Disston A. A. eleven of Philadelphia in the National League soccer fixture at Clark's Field, East Newark, yesterday. The visitors led by 2—0 at half time, but the crippled side did better in the second half, when Heminsley and Ingram scored. Blair, Flynn and J. Kilpatrick shot the three goals for the Disstons.

Comment on Current Events in Sport.

BASEBALL

Unless all the early signs fail it is probable that some major league ball players will be expelled from the game for all time when the Grand Jury at Chicago completes its investigation into the alleged collusion of gamblers and unscrupulous players, but in the end baseball will be benefited by whatever exposure the present inquiry may bring out. The game itself will suffer temporarily as a result of the public's confidence being shaken, but the sport will thrive under cleaner conditions.

Baseball itself is too big an institution to be permanently crippled by the actions of a few players who betray their trust for the sake of money. That the great majority of baseball players, both major and minor leaguers, are honest, will be generally admitted. That a few have been corrupted and have attempted to corrupt some of their weaker-willed brothers seems to be generally believed. The game can well spare the crooks, regardless of their ability on the diamond, and no one who has the interests of the game at heart will hope that wrongdoing will be condoned even in part. Let whatever rottenness that has infested the game be brought into public view that it may be he better eradicated.

It is not strange, after all, that a few players—and they are decidedly few—would fall for the lure held out by the professional gamblers who have made it their custom to prey on sporting events. For years they have tried to make inroads into baseball, as they had done in other sports, but they found no openings. Within the last two years some crooked players helped to pave the way, and the sure thing gentry have tried to rush in for big cleanups. Their boldness brought about the investigation now under way. Some players have already been expelled, and the signs are patent that others will follow.

Until all the evidence is in and the findings are announced it is well for the public to withhold judgment on the various players whose names creep into the inquiry. It is natural that many will be mentioned, and some of those who may be rushing to cover will not hesitate to involve others. But it is just as certain that all mentioned are not guilty. When the grand jurors finish the good work now taking up their attention it will be time enough to draw the line separating the crooks from the honest players. A sport that has honesty of endeavor as its crowning virtue has been contaminated by crooks, but in the main it will be found to have been as honest as the American public has always regarded it.

TURF

In finally gaining the consent of the owners for a match race between Man o' War and Sir Barton for a record purse of $75,000 A. M. Orpen has arranged for Kenilworth Park, at Windsor, Ontario, what, in prospect at least, is the greatest turf event offered to the public in a score of years. The meeting between these two champions will arouse interest all over the world, an interest such as perhaps has not been manifested in any other sporting event this year.

Mr. Orpen is to be commended for his sportsmanlike offer, for it should be borne in mind that he is embarking upon a proposition which does not promise a financial reward. Rather, the venture, from a box office standpoint, is more than likely to be a failure. Mr. Orpen was aware of this when he made his offer, for even an advanced admission fee and the percentage from the mutuel machines will fall short of making up the amount of the purse.

When Mr. Orpen first broached the plan of getting this race he made known to his friends that he was doing it for the good that would accrue to racing in Canada, where the sport is now just getting back on a pre-war basis. He felt that racing there needed a stimulus and that a match race between the two most talked of horses in America would arouse more public interest than any other event.

It is only regrettable that the race could not have been held in New York, which has some of the finest courses in the world as well as those with the greatest seating capacity available on this side of the Atlantic. The owners of both horses were undoubtedly willing to race in New York if a suitable purse could be obtained. There was, in fact, a movement started among local horsemen to make up a pool to stand as a guarantee against loss for any of the local associations that would offer $50,000 for the race. M. L. Schwartz began a movement by which a number of horsemen were to guarantee $5,000 each to cover any loss sustained, but the local associations made no effort to land the event. Mr. Orpen has shown New York how to do a big thing.

FOOTBALL

No matter how sultry the days of departing September, a glimpse of yesterday morning's sporting pages reveals that the football season is launched and on its way. Gridiron machines have been erected by scores of anxious coaches from such material as was at hand and, although many a cog will be shifted or supplanted as the result of actual tests upon the barred field, the fittest has already survived, in most instances, the steady arduous grind of weeks of preliminary drill.

The coaches of American college football teams have faced this year and, to an extent, still face about the most onerous and trying test ever imposed upon them, especially in the smaller institutions slower than the leaders to acquiesce in and adopt innovations. The tendency to open up the game by means of the forward pass and other manoeuvres and to embalm in the traditions of the game every such thing as flying wedges has been fostered for two or three seasons by the real football powers save in isolated instances. One such exception has been the case of Yale, which now, however, by grace of sundry lessons, including one learned at Cambridge last Autumn, has taken to the modern football. But in many minor institutions the tendency has been to cling to the type of game played by elder brothers, if not by fathers.

Practically all the football coaches are now convinced that it is impossible to combat successfully the new, open aerial or ground game save by such expert knowledge of and skill in it as come only by thorough drill. This drill cannot come as a side issue to intensive training in the elder close formations and therefore the latter must be discarded.

Some coaches this year, however, have found their veterans steeped in the field tactics now rapidly disappearing and have discovered the old-dog-and-new-tricks proverb to be found on fact. They have kept at their tasks with fervor, nevertheless, and the almost universal adoption of the new game is in sight.

TRACK AND FIELD

Fairminded persons will agree with Frederick W. Rubien, President of the Metropolitan A. A. U. and Secretary of the American Olympic Committee, in his feeling that ordinary decency and common sense call for a suspension of judgment in the altercation—if a case in which one side speaks with many trumpeting voices and the other not at all may be called an altercation—between a throng of returning Olympic athletes and the two prime movers in providing American representation at Antwerp, Gustavus T. Kirby and Justice Bartow S. Weeks. Mr. Rubien says that everything possible was done by the Olympic Committee to carry out its staggering task well and indicates that the poor accommodations aboard ship and in Antwerp and the other subjects of complaint by the track and field wonders were matters utterly beyond the control of the men blamed and, in the case of Justice Weeks, punished by demotion as A. A. U. delegate.

There is, of course, not the slightest doubt possible that the labors of Messrs. Kirby and Rubien and Justice Weeks in this formidable task were utterly altruistic and patriotic. They faced with determination the thankless toil of rolling up from the damp, soggy snow of general indifference the huge snowball of successful financing and consumation of the movement. The records of all of these men abound in notable achievement in the cause of athletic sports. The least that can be accorded them in the withholding of condemnation until they have been heard.

While awaiting the statements which Mr. Kirby and Justice Weeks will undoubtedly make, it might be well to bear in mind that these gentlemen were wholly unable to select a steamship for the passage. They would doubtless have welcomed the proffer of a larger and more luxurious one than the Princess Matoika had it come to them. Nor could they control the unpleasant post-war conditions in Antwerp. They had no beds of roses to offer the touring athletes. That they were at fault, however, is not yet clear.

POLO

The national polo championship tournament, which ended on Saturday when the Foxhunters defeated Bryn Mawr for the junior title in a not overinteresting exhibition of really high-class play. After Meadow Brook, with an all-star four, had won the senior title as well as the open, there came the junior events, which brought out a new contender for championship honors—the army. The surprise of the tournament was the good game the officers put up. Before their first appearance many of the close followers of the game predicted their ignominious defeat, based chiefly on handicap and mounts, for Uncle Sam has not greatly encouraged polo. However, the sons of Mars, by hard riding and hard playing, managed to take the Rockaway quartet into camp and then followed through by holding Bryn Mawr to a score of 7 to 6 in one of the hardest fought polo battles seen in a long time.

That the army did so well in its premier essay at national honors in the sphere of polo will, it is hoped, encourage that branch of the service to make further attempts. It is hoped also that the Government may find it possible to provide the players with really worth-while mounts, for the best the officers had during the tournament were those provided by other polo players.

For the first time in the history of the sport in this country the association made a real endeavor to arouse public interest in the sport, which possesses spectacular qualities which should make it popular with the public. The attempt was most laudable, but the results were more or less disappointing. That was chiefly because of the late hour of starting the games. On the last day the hour of starting was set ahead an hour and the showing was better than on previous days.

The sport-attending public will not gather in large numbers for any event which starts and finishes so late as to make it impossible to dine in comfort and still be in time for the theatre. It is safe to say that if future games are started early enough to avoid interrupting evening programs they will attract much larger galleries, and it is more than probable that the polo authorities realize that as a result of the tournament just ended.

VARDON AND RAY WIN AT BETHLEHEM

English Golfers Win Close Match from Chick Evans and E. G. Grace, Steel Magnate.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 26.—On the links of the Northampton Country Club today Vardon and Ray, the premier English golfers; Chick Evans, American champion, and E. C. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, an amateur player of note, were participants in the best match ever staged here. The match was decided in the last few holes, it being even up after eighteen holes played this morning and after the first eleven holes played this afternoon. The Englishmen won by 3 up.

Vardon, who had been playing the best golf of the quartet, won the twelfth hole, Ray the fourteenth and Vardon the sixteenth. The last two were played out and halved.

The American champion, Chick Evans, seemed to be slightly off color, but still he finished in three less than par in the morning and two under for the afternoon. Par for the course is 74. Vardon finished the morning match with a score of 69, and 72 was his afternoon score. Ray had a medal score of 73 in the morning and 68 in the afternoon.

Eugene G. Grace played a very good game in the morning, winning two holes and halving three. In this match the Evans-Grace combination led all the way by 1 up until the last hole, which Vardon won in 2, thereby equalizing the score. A large gallery followed the golfers.

NO REST FOR MOUNTAINEERS

West Virginia Coach Decides on Intensive Drill for Lehigh Game.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 26.—Tubby McIntire, West Virginia football coach, will give his Mountaineers no rest tomorrow in spite of the gruelling game Saturday at Fairmont with Wesleyan. McIntire regards the matter of continued preparation for the game with Lehigh here Saturday as of too much consequence to allow a lay-off. All the men will probably be able to participate in tomorrow's practice with the exception of Hill, who suffered a badly twisted ankle in Saturday's fray.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR CUE TOURNEYS

Opponents of Champions in Finals Will Be Selected in Preliminary Events.

Official announcement has just been made that the tournaments for the national championships at three-cushion caroms and pocket billiards will both be staged in Chicago. It has also been decided to hold preliminary events to select players to meet the champions in the finals for the titles. This is the same system that will be followed in promoting the balkline championship. It is intended to have only those who figure to have a chance against the respective champions compete in the finals.

Both the three-cushion and the pocket billiard preliminaries will be limited to twelve players, each of whom will be called upon to pay an entrance fee of $100. To this the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, under whose auspices all of the tournaments will be held, will add $9,950, and the same amounts will be distributed in cash prizes in the carom and pocket events. The players finishing first in the preliminaries will be awarded $1,000; second, $800; third, $700; fourth, $500; fifth, $300, and sixth, $200. The first three men to finish will play the champions in the finals for the titles in which the following prizes will be awarded: To the winner a trophy emblematic of the championship, a cash prize of $1,500 and a salary of $2,400; second, $1,000; third, $500, and fourth, $250.

The pocket billiard tournament will be staged first. It will begin on Oct. 18. The finals will immediately follow the preliminaries. Entries will close with the company's Chicago office on Oct. 11. The three-cushion preliminaries will be played just as soon as the pocket billiard tourney has been completed and the finals will follow immediately after the close of the preliminaries.

As previously announced, the preliminary round of the balkline championship will be played in San Francisco and the finals will be played in this city early in December.

CONTI BADLY INJURED.

Lafayette Player, Suffering from Wrenched Knees, to See Specialist.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 26.—Jim Conti, the Kiski School athlete who was injured a week ago during football practice, left for Philadelphia tonight to be examined by a bone specialist. Conti was playing in the line when injured at the finish of a play through centre. Conti was at the bottom of the heap with both legs bent under him. Examination showed his knees to be severely wrenched. Treatment the last week failed to heal the injuries.

Conti is one of the most promising line candidates here at Lafayette. If the Philadelphia specialist is unable to help him Conti will go to Bonesetter Reese of Youngstown, Ohio, for treatment.

YOUTHFUL LINKSMEN IN LESLEY MATCHES

Newer Stars of Game Are Favored for Golf Teams in This Week's Tournament.

In all probability the annual Lesley Cup matches in golf, which will be played Friday and Saturday at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, will provide, for several Metropolitan newcomers the chance to compete in this annual classic. The Massachusetts line-up has already been announced by Captain F. C. Newton, and includes such younger men as Fred Wright, the Bay State champion. Likewise, the Quaker team is almost certain to include several youthful players, who in recent years have passed beyond the veterans.

New York, perhaps even more than its two rival districts, can muster first-class juveniles, and unless an utter disregard is shown for the young stars, several of the old-timers will be dropped. It is inconceivable, for instance, that Tom Harmon, the sensation at the national amateur championship, should be left off. A product of the Van Cortlandt Park public links, this golfer has had excellent opportunity for polishing off his game at the Hudson River Country Club, where his brother, Peter, is the professional. In carrying Davie Herron to the thirty-ninth hole at Engineers and then losing on what many will always call a "fluke," since his two drives were later found to be well within the boundary line, Harmon climbed right up into the forefront of the New York ranks.

Sweetser Deserving of Place.

Jess Sweetser is another who easily has won a place. In fact, if Sweetser is not put at the No. 1 position, many local golfers will be disappointed. The Siwanoy youngster not only won the Intercollegiate title, but defeated Ned Sawyer, Metropolitan champion, at Engineers and did it easily.

The name of Reggie M. Lewis of Greenwich also will be found on the list of ten players, unless a questionable piece of judgment rules the selection. Lewis is the former Connecticut champion but is regarded as a Metropolitan linksman, and his feat in carrying Chick Evans to the forty-first hole cannot be forgotten.

Local golfers have been discussing the possibilities of Jerry Travers, and many believe he should not be included in view of the abundance of younger men who have outplayed him this season. Another man who may be dropped is Grant A. Peacock, who played last year for the first time and whose eligibility was questioned by the Pennsylvanians as a "reprisal" for the New York attitude toward Max R. Marston. Peacock won the Garden City G. C. invitation this Summer, but failed to qualify for the national amateur and also played a weak, inconsistent game last week in the Cherry Valley event.

To Name Ten Players.

It is the plan to name ten players and two substitutes. On the season's records, the leaders are the following: Jess W. Sweetser, Siwanoy; D. E. Sawyer, Siwanoy; Gardiner W. White, Nassau; F. W. Dyer, Upper Montclair; Tom Harmon, Scottish-American; Oswald Kirkby, Englewood; W. C. Reekie, Upper Montclair; R. M. Lewis, Greenwich; John G. Anderson, Siwanoy. They are not given in any relative order. For tenth place and for the positions of substitutes, it would be a toss-up among Phil Carter, Shinnecock; J. S. Worthington, Siwanoy; A. L. Walker, Jr., Richmond County; E. M. Wild, Baltusrol, and G. A. Peacock, Cherry Valley.

Possibly there are one or two players in this group who could not compete because of business reasons. However, in selecting the Metropolitan team in the past, reference has always been made to the performances of the local headliners in the national amateur and Metropolitan amateur championships, and, on the basis of this year's fixtures, the prominence of the younger men is emphasized.

Pennsylvania's Team.

In Pennsylvania J. B. Rose of Oakmont is a new man to be considered, along with Meredith Jack, Dwight Armstrong, Norman Maxwell and Eddie Styles. W. C. Fownes, Jr., the veteran, is certain to have a place near the top, as are Dave Herron, his conqueror; Woodie Platt, and probably Pat Grant, Paul Tewksbury, Fred Knight, E. C. Clarey and Sidney Sharwood. Max Marston, who was the subject of such a storm of criticism last year because of his change of residence just before the matches, probably will have a place this year. He is now a bonafide resident of Quakertown and there is no more opportunity for New Yorkers to raise the question of eligibility.

CHERRY VALLEY IN LEAD.

Is 9 Up in First Round of Long Island Pro-Amateur Final.

In the first round of the seventy-two-hole final for the Long Island amateur-professional golf championship, Cherry Valley, represented by Grant Peacock and Frank McNamara, assumed a comfortable lead over Great Neck yesterday at the end of thirty-six holes. The end of the first round play on the Cherry Valley links saw the home representatives leading by 3 up, and this advantage was materially lengthened in the afternoon match, in which Peacock and McNamara gained six more holes. R. C. Rockwell and George McLean played for Great Neck.

BETHLEHEM BEATS ROBINS AT SOCCER

Steel Workers Defeat Their Successful Rivals of Last Season by 1 Goal to 0.

Defeated by 1 goal to 0, at the hands of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's soccer eleven in the National League championship game at Todd Field, Brooklyn, fell yesterday to the lot of the Robins Dry Dock team, holders of the American F. A. Cup, for the possession of which they outdistanced the famous steelworkers last season. What turned out to be the deciding tally came midway in the first half, when Murphy, on the right wing, sent a long shot to Brittain at inside left, who turned it into the home team's goal.

The Robins did most of the pressing in the second half, missing several promising openings, but the Bethlehem defense on the whole was impassable. Neither side scored.

The lineup:

BETHLEHEM (1).		ROBINS D. D. (0).
Duncan	G.	Whalen
Collyer	R. B.	Ross
Ferguson	L. B.	Brownlee
Murray	R. H.	McKelvey

WHAT more can be expected—in men's and boys' clothes than the choicest materials woven, the best tailoring available, service-giving linings, refined designing and a variety of patterns and sizes broad enough to satisfy the most critical.

What less can one afford to pay—and still feel assured of these same quality and value essentials as embodied in all our garments.

We plan extravagantly towards improving and bettering our product, but we figure very conservatively in the matter of profit.

The tendency of merchants to mystify their affairs is responsible for much general misconception of the results of business.

We don't mind telling what it costs to keep store and where your money goes. How much we spend and how much we keep.

Above is the graphic story and an exact analysis of the operations of this business for the six months ending March 1, 1920, at the peak of clothing prices.

The half year just ended was less favorable in net results—analysis not yet complete.

You don't expect free service; but just figure out how much less you'd have paid for any article bought here had we donated our share of your dollar to the altruistic reduction of the high cost of living.

Well, what of future prices, you ask.

The press teems with talk of reductions and is a severe critic of traders generally.

Automobiles are tumbling, why not clothing, they ask.

Why not newspapers, we ask.

The simple fact is that price adjustments must be gradual. Thoughtful people know that any radical reduction means bankruptcy for all but the strongest dealers, and hurts more than helps.

To-morrow we'll give some illustrations of actual costs in basic materials and labor.

Meanwhile we keep right on making clothes the best we know how, and selling all wearables for men and boys as reasonably as is consistent with proper store keeping.

TWO SURPRISES IN FOOTBALL OPENING

Harvard's Low Score and Rutgers' Defeat Chief Features of First Games.

LEADING TEAMS WINNERS

Syrause, W. and J., Brown, Penn and Penn State Not Extended in Curtain-Raisers

Those prophets who have predicted that the 1920 football season will provide even more upsets than its immediate predecessor will undoubtedly find much encouragement in some of the results of Saturday's opening contests. When Harvard's margin of victory over Holy Cross is an anaemic field goal from the 13-yard line and Rutgers is thrown heavily by Ursinus, the prophets must feel that their predictions are on the road to being justified. If such surprises can mark the opening day of the gridiron season, they ask, what will the later days produce?

The time seems to have passed when leading elevens of the country looked on their first games as mere workouts, as an opportunity to try out signals and a few simple plays that the coaches had drilled into their charges during the early practice days. The good old days of large scores and a triumphant procession down the field seem to have faded away in the past. The vaunted Crimson is winner by only three points over Holy Cross, and Rutgers, coached by Foster Sanford, has two touchdowns scored against it and finally is forced to accept defeat.

These two contests were the only divergence, however, from the expectations of football experts. Brown, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Georgia Tech, Washington and Jefferson, Brown and other prominent elevens were decisively successful. They won by comfortable but not overwhelming margins, and they were never compelled to abandon the tactics that are associated with opening games. Penn State and Syracuse, for instance, played the straightest of football and relied solely on line plunges to carry the ball across the line.

Harvard's Attack Conservative.

Harvard also was conservative in attack. Accounts of the game tell us that the Crimson gained most of its ground by slashing away at the Holy Cross line, and it may be this fact that explains the team's failure to run up a bigger score. Holy Cross's greatest strength has been and is its aggressive, fast-charging line, which is both brawny and alert. The left side of the forwards was especially strong and, to all appearances, was more than enough for Harvard. Combined with this was a disappointing showing by the Crimson backfield, which failed to cut the holes that the coaching staff had looked for.

There will be, of course, few lamentations at Harvard. It is too early in the season to talk of upsets and disasters. The Crimson coaches may be expected to view the result with cheerful equanimity and work with vigor on the weak spots that were brought to light by the curtain raiser. Little significance can be attached to the small score.

Rutgers appears to have been taken completely by surprise in the Ursinus battle. To some extent the Scarlet can blame its defeat on misfortune, a dropped punt in the first period having paved the way for Ursinus's first touchdown. Later came an intercepted forward pass, which was followed by a long run through a complete break in the Scarlet line. But even with this consolation it is evident that Foster Sanford will find food for thought in his team's showing.

John Heisman's first Penn team had little trouble with Delaware, skirting the ends and smashing the line at will. What the former Georgia Tech coach will do with the Red and Blue is one of the most interesting questions of the current gridiron season. He has little seasoned material, although his 'Varsity backfield on Saturday surprised the observers with its speed and power. Defensively the Philadelphians were nearly perfect, Delaware failing to score a single first down.

Way Star for Penn State.

Charlie Way of Penn State, one of the stars whom the experts point to as a probable All-American selection, furnished the sensation of the Blue and White's opening engagement with Muhlenberg, which succumbed by a score of 27 to 7. The brilliant half back scored two touchdowns himself and his remarkable broken field running led the way for the others. That Bezdek's eleven would be scored upon so early in the season, however, is surprising in itself. The touchdown came after a disastrous fumble in midfield, which is one of the failings that the best of elevens may be allowed in its first game.

Washington and Jefferson had no little difficulty with Bethany, which came close to scoring in the very first period. The danger was avoided, however, and the final score was 28 to 0. Union met with a surprising upset at the hands of Middlebury and was defeated by the margin of one touchdown. down.

BEZDEK IS NOT SATISFIED.

Muhlenburg Game May Cause Changes in Penn State Team.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 26.—Far from satisfied with the showing of the Penn State eleven in the game with Muhlenburg yesterday, Coach Bezdek has ordered another week of intensive practice for the entire squad. Moreover, it would not surprise any one up here if the Blue and White coach should make several shifts in his 'Varsity line-up. One or two glaring weak spots were uncovered during the game, and they must be plugged before Oct. 9, if Penn State is to have any chance against Dartmouth.

A pleasing feature of the game was the showing of Captain Hess at guard. The big leader was playing his first game as a lineman, and he demonstrated that, with a little more seasoning, he will be hard to outplay. Charlie Way, the wonderful Blue and White half back, who is expected to grab an all-American berth this year, gave another one of his incomparable displays of open field running that gladdened the hearts of the students. Dick Rauch and Clarence Beck proved to be the mainstays in the line, and they broke up many of the Muhlenburg plays before they were even started.

Penn State's new football field was used for the first time in yesterday's game, and both the teams were highly enthusiastic over it. The gridiron has a gradual slope of about fourteen inches from the centre to the side lines, insuring absolutely perfect drainage. The new grandstand, that will seat 5,000 people, could not be used for the opening game, but will be completed in time for Alumni Homecoming Day on Oct. 9, when Dartmouth will play here. Over 2,000 alumni are expected to return for the game.

Alsberg and Son Win at Golf.

In the Father and Son golf tournament of the Inwood Country Club at Inwood yesterday William Alberg and his son, Albert, were the victors. They turned in a card of 79. Second prize went to I. H. Weinberg and D. W. Weinberg, with an 82, while A. T. Steiner and his son, Horace, landed in third place, with an 84.

Turfmen Think Man o' War Will be Topheavy Favorite.

When the monarch of three-year-olds, Man o' War, meets the champion four-year-old, Sir Barton, on the Kenilworth course at Windsor, Ontario, two weeks from tomorrow, it is generally predicted by turfmen that Mr. Riddle's wonderful young racer will be a pronounced favorite. The prophecy rests not only upon the superlative form shown constantly by the younger horse, but upon the fact that, while Man o' War and Sir Barton have each covered the mile and a quarter distance in 2:01 4-5 and with the same weight up, 129 pounds, the former will have the age advantage of six pounds in the match race. Then, too, veteran turfmen point out, Man o' War is a racing miracle, while his opponent is simply a great handicap horse. As a two-year-old Sir Barton failed to win a race, while Man o' War mowed down all comers save in his unfortunate race with Upset. Sir Barton's defeat by Purchase in the Dwyer Stakes last year is also mentioned in contrasting the three-year-old form of the two.

MACBURNEY BEATS HUNTER AT TENNIS

Several Surprises Staged in Opening Round Matches of Interclub Tourney.

The University Heights, West Side, New York and Terrace-Kings County Tennis Clubs were the victors yesterday in the opening round of the tournament for the interclub tennis championship of the metropolitan district. Close contests were the rule among the eight teams entered and a fair proportion of the matches ran into three sets. A number of upsets and surprises developed in the afternoon's play.

For instance, in the match between the New York Tennis Club and the Montclair Athletic Club at Montclair, Wallace MacBurney of the New Jersey organization sprang a decided upset in his defeat of Francis T. Hunter, the former Cornellian, who has won a number of local titles this Summer and has played strongly in every tournament in which he has entered, including the national championship. At Forest Hills Hunter was beaten by R. N. Williams, II., but only after a terrific struggle, 8—6, 3—6, 6—3, 10—8. Yet MacBurney defeated his more noted rival yesterday, 7—5, 3—6, 7—5.

Hunter Off His Game.

MacBurney played admirable tennis, yet there was a suspicion among a number of observers that the excessive heat of yesterday had its effect in throwing Hunter a trifle off his game. The same may have been true in the defeat of the veteran F. G. Anderson, head of the famous Brooklyn family of tennis players, who lost to P. A. Bodkin of the Harlem Club in sets scored 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

There was a surprise, too, in the match between the University Heights Club and the Jersey League, composed of representatives of various New Jersey clubs. William M. Fisher of the uptown club defeated Stephen V. Brubans with astonishing decisiveness by scores of 6—3, 6—2, while Leonard W. Knox, of Glen Ridge, fine player though he is, was hardly expected to overcome the steady, hard-driving game of Herbert H. Manchester, captain of the University Heights team. Manchester, who, it will be remembered, scored a surprising victory in these same interclub matches last season over Watson M. Washburn of West Side, lost to Knox by scores of 3—6, 6—3, 6—4. T. A. Browne defeated Paul Martin in this event by scores of 6—4, 0—6, 6—4.

Team Matches True to Form.

The victories in the team matches as such went about as had been expected. In the upper half of the draw, the University Heights team, playing on its home courts, defeated the Jersey League by 7 matches to 2, and the New York Tennis Club defeated Montclair at Montclair by the same score of 7 to 2. In the lower half, the West Side Club won from Amackassin on the latter's courts, 6 matches to 3, and the Terrace-Kings County Club, though minus the services of Fred Anderson, who was busily engaged in winning the Hoboken Club's final round at Castle Point, vanquished the Harlem Club, on the Brooklyn courts, also by a count of 6 to 3. The result will bring the University Heights and New York teams together in one half of the semi-finals next Sunday, while the West Side battles the Terrace-Kings County players in the other.

CASTLE POINT CUP WON BY ANDERSON

Fred C. Anderson of the Terrace-Kings County Tennis Club of Brooklyn added to his formidable list of successes on metropolitan courts this Summer by capturing the Castle Point Trophy yesterday afternoon in a hard-fought match with Ludlow Vandeventer of the Plainfield Country Club on the courts of the Hoboken Tennis Club. The victory went in straight sets scored, 7—5, 6—4, 7—5. The final match for the women's Castle Point Trophy was won by Miss Marie Wagner of the New York Tennis Club in a one-sided match with her clubmate, Mrs. E. V. Lynch. Miss Wagner won at 6—1, 6—2.

A large gallery watched the proceedings and applauded some particularly keen play in the Anderson-Vandeventer encounter. This was largely a battle of service, in which the elongated Brooklynite had the edge. Both served with terrific force, and Vandeventer's second delivery was practically as speedy as his first. But Anderson was able to break through service seven times in the course of the three sets, while Vandeventer obtained counterbreaks four times. Both followed service to the net on almost every occasion, and in the resultant volleying duel Anderson made the fewer errors.

Earned Points Almost Equal.

Vandeventer made many brilliant placements, his total of earned points falling but six below that of his opponent. But he offset this advantage by his tendency to hit into the net and more especially out of court. These errors, however, were almost invariably the result of the tremendous speed of Anderson's forcing shots and by the latter's consistent cleverness in working his rival out of position and then hitting to the lines.

Anderson's shots were executed with greater smoothness and less of physical effort than those of his opponent and, on a day as hot as yesterday, the ability to conserve effort was an important factor. Nevertheless, it was the closest sort of a struggle all the way, with the margin of difference in all departments of play about as slight as possible. Both stroked well off the ground and with great pace and generally good direction. Both also used the lob with good effect on occasion. In short, it was tennis of a genuinely strenuous and brilliant order.

Vandeventer ran into a lead at the start of the match, breaking through service on the second game and winning his own for a score of 3—0. Anderson broke through in turn in the sixth game and carried the score to 3—all, assuming the lead on the next game with Vandeventer serving. In the ninth game, with the score 5—3 in Anderson's favor, Vandeventer, on his own service, was trailing at 0—40, with the set point at hand. But he made a plucky pull-up and won the game. He then broke through Anderson to a score of 5—all.

Vandeventer Weakens a Bit.

At this point the former Princetonian fell into a period of error-making, and Anderson took his opponent's service at love. He won the next and the set at 7—5, with the assistance of two beautiful service aces.

The second set was really won in the very first game, in which Anderson took the lead on Vandeventer's service. Thereafter, service won to the end of the set at 6—4, Anderson running through the last game of the set on three nets by his rival and a placement of his own. The final set was remarkable for another fine pull-up by Vandeventer. The Plainfield man trailed in this set at 4—1 and again at 5—3, but knotted the count at 5—all by desperate rapid-fire volleying at the net. The eleventh game decided the match. With Vanderventer serving, Anderson sent over three brilliant passing shots and won a deuce game in which a double fault and other errors by Vandeventer helped to the decision. The final game of the match and the set, 7—5, went to Anderson on Vandeventer's errors.

Women's Match One-Sided.

The match between Miss Wagner and Mrs. Lynch was soon over. Miss Wagner played her usual well-rounded game. She manoeuvred for the net successfully on many ocasions and finished off the points with well-directed cross-court shots. Her overhead play was excellent. She had the better of the argument also in her ground strokes, which had greater pace and found the corners with greater frequency. Mrs. Lynch made many fine gets, but they availed her little in the face of Miss Wagner's superior court craft.

Indoor Polo Tournament to be A Feature of Horse Show

At the Madison Square Garden National Horse Show this November the public will have the chance to see indoor polo. Six teams of three players each, one team from West Point, one from Squadron A, one from Boston and three from New York and Brooklyn, will compete in a tournament beginning the first evening of the show and lasting throughout the week. First, second and third prizes are offered in the tournament and eight prizes for the best playing ponies. There will also be, as an addition to the list of classes, an indoor polo team class, with first, second and third prizes.

BLUE RIDERS ARE VICTORS AT POLO

Defeat White Team by 12 Goals to 8 on Fog-Shrouded Field at Cedarhurst.

Like a silhouette scene behind a gossamer curtain was the polo game on the field of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst yesterday, when the Blue team beat the White by a score of 12 goals to 8. A fog rolling in from sea obscured much of the playing. But whenever the mist thinned, as it did now and again, the numerous gallery found presented to it polo of the hard-hitting, fast-riding kind, with thrills a-plenty.

As the scores would indicate, the Blue riders had an edge on their opponents. But it was due to superior mounting, for the players were about evenly matched. With a loose ball on the green to be raced for, it was generally a Blue pony which got its rider there first, and there is about the whole story.

Milburn, for the Whites, stood out both on the offense and the defense. He scored two of their goals, and on driving out from his own goal line the fog twice permitted it to be seen that he had sent the ball to the middle of the field. Webb made three goals for the same side, E. C. Cowdin two and Strawbridge one. For the Blue team J. C. Cowdin drove the ball between the uprights on five occasions; Rumsey and Hopping turned the same trick three times each and Stoddard once. There was no chukker without at least one goal scored by one side or the other, and the entire eight periods were played with only a single foul. This was made by E. C. Cowdin of the Whites in the second period.

In the fifth period Strawbridge received rather an ugly gash over the eye from a lofting ball and play was stopped while his head was bandaged. He was able to resume playing some ten minutes later.

The lineup and score:

PERRY AND BARNHILL WIN.

Reach Final Round in Championship Tourney at Fox Hills.

W. Roy Barnhill and A. C. Perry emerged successfully from the field that began the annual struggle yesterday for the championship of the Fox Hills Golf Club. Eight golfers teed off in the first round. Perry took the measure of H. J. Slater, 6 and 5, while Barnhill was victor over G. G. Baxter, 1 up in 24 holes. Other first round winners were W. Lloyd Tefft, who defeated Ralph Spotts, 3 and 2, and W. H. Follett, whose victory was at the expense of B. T. Allen.

In the semi-finals Tefft was an easy victim for Perry, who was 6 up with 5 holes to go. Barnhill meanwhile was having another extra hole match, this time with Follett, who forced his opponent to go twenty-three holes before winning. Perry and Barnhill will meet in the final for the club title next Sunday.

The summaries:

First Round—W. Lloyd Tefft defeated Ralph Spotts, 3 and 2; A. C. Perry defeated H. J. Slater, 6 and 5; W. Roy Barnhill defeated G. G. Baxter, 1 up, 24 holes; W. H. Follett defeated B. T. Allen, 4 and 3.

Factory, Executive Offices and Main Retail Store, Broadway at 11th St., New York

The success of the TRIVERS CLOTHES STORES Organization has been the talk of the entire clothing industry throughout the United States.

TRIVERS CLOTHES stand out pre-eminently over all other makes. Their popularity is unquestioned—they are the first choice of the best dressers who demand the authoritative styles which are of our own designing, under the supervision of Mr. H. D. Sabine, who is recognized as one of the leading clothing designers of America.

TRIVERS CLOTHES are made in TRIVERS own factory, where everything is completed under one roof from the testing of the woolens to the designing of styles and from the cutting of the cloths to the finishing of the buttonholes. Our shops are under our own personal supervision—every garment we sell is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded.

Over 300,000 men wear TRIVERS CLOTHES bought through our own 26 retail stores—our sales aggregate millions of dollars annually. Our prices are positively the lowest in the city—always standard and figured on a large volume of business at a small margin of profit above actual manufacturing cost. By eliminating the middlemen's profits and the high expenses that the average retailer has to pay, we can guarantee you a saving of $10 to $20 on every garment.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit this new store and see the wonderful displays of our smart FALL and WINTER Suits, Topcoats, Overcoats and Evening Clothes

We have been in the wholesale clothing business in this market for 19 years and have sold clothes at retail to thousands of men and young men right on the floor of our manufacturing department, and thousands of others knew us—having bought TRIVERS CLOTHES through the different retailers in New York who have handled our line. To these men we extend a special invitation to visit our new store.

Our factory is in the same building above our retail store and we invite your inspection of this modern shop and master mechanic organization. Avail yourself of the opportunity at any time to know the real merit of TRIVERS CLOTHES—the quality, style, workmanship and value. We invite the ladies, too, for their good judgment is a foundation for your immediate action.

HARDING AND THE SOUTH.

In their expansive moments, and when surprised by the reporters, the Republican managers talk about carrying several Southern States, as well as all of the Northern. Strictly between friends, however, they admit that there is the slimmest chance of this. If there were no other reason for wiping Southern electoral votes off the Republican slate, it would be found in the avowed attitude of their Presidential candidate toward the negro vote. Senator HARDING began by announcing his purpose to put down lynching by the use of "Federal" power. Where so close a student of the Constitution found warrant for this in that document he omitted to state. But he went on to affirm that he was in favor of securing for the negroes all their "constitutional rights."

Another Republican from Ohio took a similar position about seventeen years ago. MARK HANNA had a ringing declaration in behalf of negro voters in the South placed in the Ohio Republican platform. When asked why this had been done, he replied with the utmost simplicity: "Because "there are 25,000 negro voters in "Ohio." That number is probably doubled today, and Mr. HARDING may have had that fact in mind. It is also possible that he sincerely takes high ground about the enforcement in the South of the Fifteenth Amendment.

Either way, the immediate effect upon his political fortunes in the Southern States cannot be doubted by even his own National Committee. Southern public men and newspapers have noted Senator HARDING'S words, and have taken alarm. Governor BROUGH of Arkansas was recently in Ohio, and became persuaded that the Republicans, headed by Mr. HARDING, intend to strike at "the very heart of white supremacy," and are already planning a new "force bill." In a letter to The Atlanta Constitution he calls upon the Democrats of the South to be "seriously alive as to the seriousness of the situation." And The Constitution itself takes up the tale and declares that the election of Senator HARDING to the Presidency would be "peculiarly menacing" to the South. Whether this position be sound or not, whether the alarm be genuine or feigned, there can be little question of its political consequences. The Republicans may pick up a Representative or two in Southern districts, but the chief argument which has held the South solid against them will almost certainly keep it so this year.

REVOLUTIONARY SOCIALISTS.

Some excellent persons have sympathized with the re-expelled Socialist Assemblymen. Hasn't the constitution of the Socialist Party been amended so as to bring it into something like harmony with the Constitution of the State of New York and the Constitution of the United States? Hasn't there been a change in the doctrines, purposes and methods of that party so that a member of it may, with an undivided and undoubted allegiance to the Constitution and the laws and the American system of government, sit in the Legislature?

As to this presumed conversion of the Socialist Party there can be no better informed and trustworthy witness than Mr. MORRIS HILLQUIT. He is the most distinguished Socialist in the State. He has been the Socialist candidate for high offices. He is a lawyer of great ability. He was the counsel of the Socialist Assemblymen. He has a clear, vigorous and courageous mind, usually free from "cant, that fourth dimension of the State," as a brilliant British Socialist calls it.

"We have not changed," says Mr. HILLQUIT. "We are the same old "rebels. We are the same revolu"tionary Socialists we have always "been." "We are revolutionists, and "we are out to overthrow the entire "rotten capitalist system." "We will "wage a campaign until the working "class, emancipated, class-conscious "and revolutionary, will have the "possession of this country."

In 1917 it was necessary for the Socialists to express a "conscious revolutionary spirit." Hence the bitterness of the St. Louis platform against American participation in the war, which Mr. HILLQUIT styles "an un"justifiable holocaust into which the "capitalists of all lands dragged us." In 1920 it was for the Socialists to dwell on "the lessons of devastating capitalism as exemplified by the war" and to show that "the whole rotten system that led up to the war" must be abolished. The Socialists at Albany didn't pretend to have reformed. "They were defiant, and justly so. "For, comrades, we never changed a "particle of our constitution in order "to make ourselves acceptable to the "capitalist gang at Albany or to any "other capitalist gang."

So Mr. HILLQUIT smashes the legend of a reformed Socialist Party. To all the honest apologists of the expelled Socialists his exultant proclamation of revolutionary socialism should be useful for admonition and reproof. The persons who bring the curious charge of "unconstitutionality" against the expulsion should refresh their memories by this passage from Section 10 of Article III. of the State Constitution: "Each house shall * * * be the "judge of the elections, returns and "qualifications of its own members."

WHEN THE MULES WILL BEGIN.

Senator HARDING may not have given Senator JOHNSON a written promise to "scrap" the League of Nations. In such things a wink is often as good as a letter. But there can be no doubt that either JOHNSON or TAFT, either BORAH or WICKERSHAM, is being fooled. For the present this does not make any great difference with the mule team which Senator HARDING is driving. The animals are making a rush for the stable and the fodder, and are keeping down their squealing and kicking quite successfully. But when they are unhitched and feeding time actually begins, there will surely be a display of ugly temper and flying heels. The sides of the Presidential stable nearest to JOHNSON and BORAH may easily be kicked clean out.

REPUBLICANS AND TAXES.

Mr. GOOD, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has chilled the expectations, if anybody nursed them, encouraged by the Republican national platform, of "the early ac"complishment of that real reduction "of the tax burden which may be "achieved" by simpler tax laws, quick and sure determination of tax liability, the substitution of tax laws which don't "excessively mulct the "consumer or needlessly repress en"terprise and thrift" for taxes that do. Vague phrases, that mean no more than that Democratic taxes are bad and Republican taxes good. Even "the early accomplishment" of this indefinite program is not to be undertaken. No tax reform measures will be considered in the short session of Congress. If the Republicans win, we are assured that a tax bill repealing the transportation tax and radically revising the excess profits tax will be introduced at the following session.

The floating debt of $3,000,000,000 and the retirement of at least such amount of the maturing Victory notes as cannot be refunded will prevent extensive tax reduction; nor is there any reason to have too much hope that the Republican campaign prattle about "extravagance," "waste," "economy," is anything more than the ritual of a party out of power.

It is the truth, and the Republicans know it or ought to know it, that if they get control of the Government and "scrap" the League of Nations, keep us out of it, an immense increase of taxation is inevitable. Most of the national debt of $24,000,000,000 is chargeable to war. Abstention from the League means that the United States, since it will have no hand in the divers means provided by the League for the postponement or prevention of war, must stick to the old, ruinous system, spend colossally for armaments, fleets, armies, guns, airships, tanks, the manufacture of destructive gases, all the costly components and adjuncts of scientific destruction. On war taxation will be piled more war taxation. Moreover, should the League fail by American abstention, intolerable disaster might fall in time upon our debtor and customer nations, and its economic and financial repercussion be disastrous here.

To stay out of the League of Nations is to increase taxes. The Republicans promise a doubtful, shadowy or impossible reduction. The sure result of carrying out their policy of resistance to "supergovernment" would be supertaxation.

LANDLORDS AND BUILDING.

Once more the financial situation which lies at the root of the housing shortage has balked remedial legislation. The laws of last year put a curb upon flagrant profiteering to the present relief of many harassed tenants, but at the expense of paralyzing new construction. Building for business purposes went on; but of habitable dwellings there are actually fewer in the city today than a year ago. The laws passed last week put teeth into the old laws—teeth that are not unlikely to prove even more dismaying to landlords. Only one of the new laws offers a ray of hope. It permits cities to exempt new construction from local taxation for some ten years. That is something, but it fails far short of making the erection of apartments and tenements an attractive field for capital.

The situation is destined to weigh upon thousands of families and to add to the current of discontent; but it is by no means clear that blame falls upon the Legislature. Of the measures rejected one and all had objections which far outweighed their merits; some of them, as that exempting mortgages from taxation, would probably have brought down evils greater than those they were framed to remove. Even the law exempting buildings from local taxation is an emergency measure the benefits of which have still to be proved, and is justified at best by the bitterness of the present human need. There is some warrant for the grim conclusion of the Savings Bank Section of the American Bankers' Association: "Rents will be fixed "by the laws of supply and demand "in spite of any legislation which can "be enacted."

The one really constructive comment upon the situation is that delivered last Wednesday by Mr. OTTO KAHN. The paralysis in building results fundamentally from the same cause which is affecting the financial situation as a whole—faulty taxation that results in abnormally high rates for money. In the first six months of 1920 mortgage investments were withdrawn in New York to the extent of $83,000,000, or at the rate of $165,000,000 for the year. "The cure is not the haphazard "removal of all taxation where clum"sily applied taxation presses upon a "particularly sensitive spot, as in the "case of the housing situation, but "wisely remedial treatment for the "whole economic body of the nation." The ultimate relief must come not from Albany but from Washington.

JACOB H. SCHIFF.

A life rich in achievements, a life of extraordinary service to mankind, came to its end on Saturday when JACOB H. SCHIFF died. Most men of action, as they review their careers, are wont to point to some crowning work as their chief title to distinction. Mr. SCHIFF'S life was full of crowning works, insomuch that we are at a loss to say whether it is by the number or the magnitude of his achievements, by the boldness or the success of his undertakings, that he rose to so high a place in the world of affairs.

Mr. SCHIFF was a great banker. He would have been great in any calling, for in any examination of his life work the foundation postulate is the inborn genius and ability of the man. His rapid and uninterrupted rise from a humble subordinate post to a place among the foremost marks him out as one who was predestined to eminence. His genius gave him mastery of all the art and mystery, the technical details and the great policies of banking. Mr. SCHIFF was much more than a banker. He was one of the world's chief men of finance.

His judgment of business conditions, of the business outlook, particularly when the signs and portents were confused and men hesitated between confidence and apprehension, was remarkably sure and sound. Those who give attention to such matters will recall many occasions when, on the eve of departing for or returning from a brief sojourn in European centres, Mr. SCHIFF would give to the press his review and opinion of world conditions in trade and finance. These interviews, always concise, were studied as though they had been the words of a seer. He was never timid; he sought out the facts, looked them in the face, and guided his own course and advised others according to his reasoned conclusions.

In public affairs, also, Mr. SCHIFF took the keen interest of a patriotic citizen. Frankly a party man, his conceptions of true national policy were so broad and well based that his counsel was often sought by those of an opposite political faith. Peculiarly fitted as he was by long experience to grasp the essentials of international relations, as well as of international trade, his death at a time like the present seems doubly a public loss.

Mr. SCHIFF will be remembered as a great banker, but we think most of all he will be remembered and loved as a great and wise philanthropist. It was a memorable work to put the Union Pacific Railroad on its feet, to find it disorganized and in conjunction with Mr. HARRIMAN to make it so important a part of the industrial fabric of the nation. That is a monument to Mr. SCHIFF'S constructive genius, but in his own heart we may be sure that he rejoiced more in the founding and building up of the Montefiore Home; we know that in the closing years of his life he gave more thought to his works of beneficence, such as his generous aid in relieving the victims of the war, than to the affairs of his banking house; that is, he was thinking more of others than of his own business.

He was always deeply interested in bettering the condition of the lowly, the unfortunate, the oppressed of his own race, but the impulses of his generosity, of his humanity, knew no limits of race or creed. His aid, his advice, his support were sought in countless undertakings of charity and he was as prodigal of his time as of his money in sustaining all good work.

To dwell upon the teaching of this noble life is almost to say needless things. It is plain in every man's sight. He came, like millions of others, to seek his opportunity in this land. He found it, he accepted it. He gave no time to complainings, to railings about the faults of society or of government. He became from the very beginning a thoroughgoing American, and he worked like an American in the American spirit. Toil sustained by unflagging ambition bore him to success, and then the innate idealism of the man and of his race impelled him irresistibly toward those works of beneficence in which, as they used to say in the church questioning, he found his "chief joy." It was a life spent in material and spiritual upbuilding, a life of works that make the world better, that make mankind happier.

RECONSTRUCTION IN THE BALKANS.

There is presently to be a meeting in London between Mr. STAMBOLISKY, the Bulgarian Premier, and Mr. TAKE JONESCU, the Rumanian Foreign Minister. The British Government will look upon the conference with favor and the Greek Minister in London will take part in it. Out of this may easily come, not a new Balkan League—it is too soon for that—but a new policy of co-operation between the Balkan peoples which will at least insure peace for the next few years and help all the nations get back on their feet. Lasting peace in the Balkans would be indeed an optimistic hope, but from present signs there is at least to be no immediate renewal of war.

The Bulgars, smarting over the loss of territory in the Peace Treaty, are, of course, a stumbling-block; they were never much given to reconciliation, and they are even less so now. But Mr. STAMBOLISKY is a man of sense and he seems to have Bulgaria well in hand. The expected thousands of Bulgar troops who were going to reinforce JAFAR TAYAR'S Turkish bitter-enders in Thrace did not appear; STAMBOLISKY'S influence was able to keep down the Bulgarian contribution to that campaign to a few scattering bands of comitadjis, most of whom went home when they saw that the Greeks were going to win. Bulgaria is economically well off, as present standards go in Eastern Europe, and STAMBOLISKY and his friends may be able to persuade the people that it will be more profitable to do business with their neighbors than to get ready for a war of revenge.

The Czechoslovaks, Rumanians and Jugoslavs are already working together politically and planning for economic co-operation. If, with the Rumanians as the connecting link, good relations can be established with the Bulgars, too—and Greek friendship for the northern members of the combination may be counted on to bring Greece—a very large part of Eastern Europe will be able to get back to work and stop thinking war. The Serbs have a good many grudges against the Bulgars, but they have already re-established diplomatic relations, and in a combination of this sort Bulgaria would be pretty well deprived of her power for harm.

With the best will in the world, and the best organization, Southeastern Europe would still have a long road to travel in getting back to anything like the material conditions of eight years ago. Everything cannot be done at once, but the passing of suspicion and of the feeling that it is necessary for every nation to wall itself up apart from its neighbors will help as much as anything else. With the discovery that, although you may dislike the people across the frontier, you can still sell them what they need and buy their products that you need, a good many of the troubles of Eastern Europe will begin to disappear.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Carriers" Deserve Attention. So little is known about the etiology of acute anterior poliomyelitis, as the doctors—for good and sufficient reasons, by the way—call infantile paralysis, that it cannot be said with certainty that there are "carriers" of this disease, as there are of diphtheria, typhoid fever and others. Probably, however, there are children who, without being themselves visibly or measurably affected by this now most dread of infantile maladies, yet are bearers of the infecting germ and distributers of it to other children who do not have the same immunity from its attack.

That being so, and as cases of poliomyelitis are appearing here in numbers sufficiently large to be disquieting, if not alarming, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for the very eminent bacteriologists and pathologists which this city fortunately possesses to make a special investigation of the question whether or not the disease can be conveyed by children who show none of its usual and terrifying symptoms. Whatever may be the result of this inquiry, and even if it should be demonstrated that there are no "carriers" of poliomyelitis, it still would be desirable that action regarding "carriers" in general should be taken here similar to that recently taken in Michigan.

In that State every "carrier" of a dangerous communicable disease, which under the regulations of the Department of Health is subject to quarantine or isolation, shall be treated in exactly the same way as are the ordinary victims—that is, they, too, shall be quarantined and isolated until their freedom from the infective germs has been demonstrated. In one Michigan village, of 300 school children examined eight were found to be "carriers" of diphtheria—not ill themselves, but able and likely to start an epidemic with many deaths.

Possibility Will Be Demonstrated. Scattered among the many admissions that the peak of high prices has been passed are statements to the effect that while the prices, retail as well as wholesale, of this, that and another article of merchandise must go down at once, this is not true of the particular articles in which the makers of the statements happen to be interested.

That the general downward movement will not include everything for some time to come is probably true, but the exceptions are far from being as numerous as the dealers affected are trying to make the public believe. It is hope rather than belief that makes the list so long, and, as a matter of fact, prices can be kept at their present level only in the case of goods that have been the subject of no "profiteering"—those where the whole rise had been the legitimate result of a real scarcity in a real necessary. Everything else must yield to the pressure which buyers on the one hand and the regulators of credit on the other are exerting, late but none the less effectively.

As time goes on there will be much less talk than now about what "cannot be done" in the way of price reduction, for great numbers of the pretended impossibilities will have been proved not even difficult. They will be painful, since they involve the taking of losses, but things are not impossible merely because they are painful.

Even the Men Now Are Economical. Under the heading of "Commodity Prices," R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review of Business says in its current issue that for nineteen consecutive weeks, now, the "downward readjustment" has been uninterrupted. In other words, for all those weeks more wholesale prices have gone down than up. Last week the recessions numbered fifty-one, the advances twenty-one.

Such figures, to be sure, do not mean much to the ordinary consumer who buys at retail, for what he pays often has little relation, and still oftener a long delayed relation, to the wholesale prices. Consumers, however, at present are considerably wiser than they used to be, and far less "easy." Their wants are exactly what they always were, but great numbers of consumers have discovered two things—first, that there are a good many inclinations that can be resisted without suffering any very dreadful hardship; and, second, that never more profitably than now could the good old habit of "shopping around" be practiced.

We are still willing to pay something for the stamped name that has come to be a guarantee of excellence, but more of us than in the good old days have come to realize the possibility of getting the excellence, or a tolerable approach to it, without the name and at two-thirds or half the cost. Men—women never were so foolish—used to think that they had to buy after they had put a clerk to the trouble of showing goods. Nowadays even the men often say, "That's too much," when they hear a price they know is exorbitant, and go somewhere else to make their purchase. They have their reward, and so does the foiled profiteer.

A Remedy Really Desperate. Universal conscription of labor probably comes nearer to being a feasible and practicable plan in Germany than in most other countries, and it is not very surprising to learn that the German Government is giving it serious consideration as a means of bringing about the increased production upon which depends escape from present ills and dangers.

Theoretically the scheme is good enough, and Germany's condition is far more desperate than was ours when, not long after we entered the war, we passed analogous laws that commanded everybody either to fight or to work. Nobody protested then, but the increase either of fighters or of workers under those laws was hardly enough to be measured, their enforcement was largely perfunctory or vindictive, and soon they were almost forgotten except by a few draft-dodgers for whom they provided a welcome means of escape from risking their precious skins.

Conscript labor anywhere, as a matter of fact, is slave labor. The Russian workers endure it, for they are docile by both nature and training, and their present Czars have all the guns. But the Germany of today is not the Germany of yesterday, and it is more than doubtful that the German workers would tolerate in civil life a discipline analogous to that of military service. An experiment along that line would be interesting, but it would be distinctly Prussian, and Prussianism is out of date everywhere except in Muscovy.

A Court with Teeth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to congratulate you on your editorial article on Charles E. Hughes's so-called exposé of Article X. I have looked in vain heretofore for such a clear-cut, unequivocal, clarifying expression of what the League really means.

One question should be asked Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Harding as well: What did the latter mean by "putting teeth in the Hague Tribunal," which he so earnestly advocates? Is Mr. Hughes in favor of such a procedure?

Again, by what hocus-pocus or magic twisting of words can the United States, under the leadership of Republicans, take part in any concert of nations or international court without involving us in a moral or physical obligation to support its findings?

An answer to the above would show a good many (Republicans) just where the candidate and his apostle stand.

THE LAUGHING PRAYER.

The sorry prayers go up to God
Day after weary day,
They whimper through the eternal blue
And down the Milky Way.

Deaf to the music of the stars,
The children of desire,
Beggars before the Throne of God,
They wait for God to tire.

The proletariat of Heaven
Swarmed in the golden street
Up to the Judgment Seat.

Bright, streaming banners flowed,
While cherubim and seraphim
Were crowding in the road.

And then a little, laughing prayer
Came running from the sky,
Along the golden gutters where
The sorry prayers went by.

It had no fear of anything,
But in that holy place
It found the very Throne of God
And smiled up in His face.

Then Michael waited in the road,
For Michael understood,
While God looked on the laughing prayer
And found it sweet and good.

So God was comforted. He said:
"There still is hope for men.
One man prays happily!" And so
He turned to care again.

THE LEAGUE A GOING CONCERN.

Activity In It and For It That Escapes the Notice of Hostile or Prejudiced Eyes.

By RAYMOND B. FOSDICK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article in this morning's TIMES pretty well disposes of Mr. Beck's amazing list of inaccuracies included in his letter to you of Sept. 22. Mr. Beck gives the impression of having diligently shut his eyes to any facts that ran counter to the theory which he stoutly maintained long before he went to Europe, i. e., that the League of Nations, being Mr. Wilson's creation, was a failure. An investigation that starts out to prove preconceived conclusions can prove anything.

But the amount of misinformation and misconception contained in Mr. Beck's letter is truly remarkable. He attempts to whittle down the significance of the submission to the League of Nations of the Polish-Lithuanian difficulty on the theory that war is so horrible that minor disputes of this kind would probably have been decided by a "diplomatic conference" even if there had been no League of Nations. Does not Mr. Beck know that there was war between Lithuania and Poland, and that for nearly a month there had been bloody fighting on the Polish-Lithuanian frontier? Mr. Beck thinks it idle to argue from this submission any effectiveness on the part of the League "to determine the larger issues of peace and war." And yet that is precisely what the League has determined in the Polish-Lithuanian difficulty. It has stopped a war which had progressed far beyond the point of a diplomatic dispute. Mr. Beck's comparison of it with the Alabama claims is therefore utterly misleading.

Again, Mr. Beck says that the League is losing ground because during the time that he was in Europe he saw very few references to it in the newspapers, and such references as occurred were relegated to an obscure corner. I do not know what newspapers Mr. Beck saw, and I am sorry that I have not at hand complete files of a paper like The London Times. A single copy of this paper happens to lie on my desk, dated June 18, 1920, and five and a half columns are exclusively devoted to news and comment on the League of Nations. If Mr. Beck will consult the files of The Manchester Guardian, he will find that hardly a day elapses that does not produce at least a column of comment on the work and aims of the League. The same is true of papers like The Glasgow Herald, The London Standard and The Westminster Gazette. It is also true of papers like the Echo de Paris and the Matin, in Paris, although these two journals are not particularly friendly to the League. It is true of Dutch, Norwegian, Swedish, Italian and Spanish papers, files of which are kept in the offices of the League's Secretariat in London. It may be impertinent to inquire, but I cannot help wondering what language other than English Mr. Beck reads.

As far as public interest in the League is concerned, the League of Nations Union in England, which you mention in your article, is a rapidly growing organization with thousands of members, which has held many public meetings all over Great Britain and is publishing three magazines. Its literature is everywhere in England, and I cannot understand how any one honestly seeking information about the public reaction to the League could fail to see it. Similar organizations have a flourishing existence in France, Italy, Spain and Portugal, all bearing the same name; and the amount of public interest that is being stirred up in the work of the League is literally enormous. If Mr. Beck had taken the trouble to visit the League of Nations' headquarters in London and had called in at its Public Information Section, he would have been shown masses of newspaper items, magazine articles and miscellaneous literature currently clipped from European journals, which literally overflow the closely assembled files of a group of offices covering an entire floor.

It is a pity, too, that Mr. Beck could not have attended some of the workingmen's meetings in England and France at which the League of Nations is regularly discussed. He would have found there a belief in the League and an enthusiastic support of its work which might have softened even a determined unbeliever like himself.

I do not know who the so-called "publicists" were, with whom Mr. Beck talked, and who expressed their doubts about the future of the League, but it is evident that he neglected to talk with Arthur Balfour, Lord Bryce, Lord Robert Cecil, Lord Milner, Lord Grey, Monsieur Bourgeois, Monsieur Tardieu, Signor Tittoni, Signor Giolitti, and the host of other men who believe in the League and are working whole-heartedly for its success.

Of course, it is easy to pick flaws in the work of the League. Fault can be found in any human institution. The failure of the United States to join has to a large extent crippled its early work. But to claim that Europe after all is not thinking or talking of the League and has no particular interest in it is to write one's self down as being too set by years of anti-Wilson passion and too swayed by political prejudice to be a competent observer.

MR. HUGHES ON ARTICLE X.

His Conference Proposal Fails to Satisfy the Demand for Security.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was not expected of Mr. Charles E. Hughes that he would do other than support the party which had conferred upon him the distinguished honor to nominate him for the Presidency in 1916. It was expected that he would employ his excellent mind pleading for it and incidentally against the great measure which will cause his successful opponent's name to live in history. But we did expect special pleading less raw than that disclosed in the Trenton speech of Sept. 13.

His objection to Article X., which guarantees the territorial integrity and political independence of members of the League against external aggression, is that it is binding and not optional. He says:

"For ourselves we must clearly reserve the right to decide in the light of the facts as they arise in the future, and unembarrassed by any pre-existing contractual obligation, whether we shall defend the territorial integrity of one nation against aggression by another and whether or not we shall resort to arms." * * * "Why not leave the future to conference and decision in the light of events?" (Substantially the position taken by Senator Harding after Mr. Hughes's recent visit to him.)

The answer to the "why" is the World War through which we have just passed. Only swift punishment for wanton aggression and the certain knowledge beforehand that the whole world is united in the purpose and pledged to visit such punishment will stay the hand of the would-be aggressor. That is the fundamental conception on which the movement for world-organization was based when men came to realize the futility of the concert of Europe and the Hague institutions as actual preventives of war. A court of justice, even if given the power to hale nations before it and to enforce its judgments, as advocated by Mr. Root and supported by Mr. Hughes, could not discourage wars. It deals only with justiciable questions, whereas it is conflicts of political policy which bring war.

The power to hale nations into court and to enforce decisions would add greatly to the prestige and usefulness of an international court of justice; but it is doubtful whether the nations are ready to go so far at this time. Viscount (then Sir Edward) Grey favored enforcing the judgments of the court when I consulted him on the subject of a league of nations at the Foreign Office in London in April, 1916; but to two attempts which I made, in the course of the conversation, to get from him an expression of opinion as to whether the chancelleries of Europe would stand for it I could get no reply. Similarly, when I asked the same question of Mr. Balfour on his visit here—he had then succeeded Grey as Foreign Secretary—he answered: "Best not try too much at the start." And what about our Senate? Is it likely that men who have complained of the powers which the League now has would consent to a provision by which the United States could be haled into a court, the decisions of which were enforceable against us by the united armies of the rest of the world? Personally, I believe the United States would bow to the decisions of such a court so that force never would have to be used against it in this connection. But so do I believe that other nations will accept the judgments and awards of the various tribunals of the League, before which they are compelled to bring their disputes before they may proceed to war, and that, therefore, there will be few or no wars under the League, provided the obligation to punish wanton aggression remains.

The recent commission to plan the machinery of the court under the League, on which Mr. Root played such a useful part, does not appear to have been won over to the idea of enforceable decisions. True, they could not make actual provision for them because not authorized to do so by the League's constitution; but, so far as we know, they have not even made a recommendation on the subject. As the League comes to function and its various tribunals win our confidence, we may witness this added power given to its great court of law. But, as a deterrent of war, such a power vested in a court could never take the place of the professed determination and obligation to visit swift punishment on wanton aggression. Certainly we are bound faithfully to discharge our obligations under Article X. We cannot have security within the State without the obligation on the part of the State to protect its citizens in their lawful pursuits. And the point about the whole new movement is that men have come to realize that we cannot have security within the society of nations without the positive obligation of all to protect each in its peaceful and lawful pursuits.

What is it that Mr. Hughes recommends as a substitute for the existing League of Nations? Exactly what Mr. Harding recommended in his speech of Aug. 28, after Mr. Hughes's visit to him, namely, a court, the development of international law, and machinery of conciliation. As there is no word about compulsion to require nations to exhaust all peaceful means of getting their rights by resort to the tribunals of the League before they declare war on a sister nation, what is there in this plan to prevent a nation from doing just what Germany did in 1914? What is there in it which would bring such feeling of security as to justify England, for example, in reducing her fleet? And if we are to have the race in armaments continue, where will it inevitably lead?

The knowledge that the United States, under the Monroe Doctrine, was ready to defend the territorial integrity and political independence of Latin America, combined with the certainty that if she attacked us she would have England on her back, led Germany to resist the temptation to flout us and acquire colonies in South America. We have never been called upon to sacrifice the life of a soldier nor to fire a shot in defense of the doctrine. Just so the certain knowledge that aggression will be punished by the united forces of the world under a binding agreement to employ them, if need be, will prevent aggression. Conference at the time will not do it.

A Case for a Great Detective.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I append a true copy of an open letter which I have just addressed to Sherlock Holmes, Esq.:

"Sherlock Holmes, Esq.,
"Care A. Conan Doyle, Esq.,
"London.

"Dear Sir: You will recall that on President Wilson's return from France, Governor Coolidge referred to him in these words:

"'We welcome him with a reception more marked than even that which was accorded to General George Washington, more united than could have been given at any time during his life to President Abraham Lincoln. We welcome him as the representative of a great people, as a great statesman, as one to whom we have intrusted our destiny and one whom we assure we will support in the future in the working out of that destiny as Massachusetts has supported him in the past.'

"A clientele of some millions of Americans would be interested in knowing the correct answers to the following questions:

"1. Where was Henry Cabot when Calvin said these few words?

"2. Was the Governor summoned to the Lodge at once, or did the Lodge go to the Governor?

"3. Just what did Henry Cabot say to Calvin?"

An Australian Misunderstanding.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been drawn several times within the last few days to a letter under caption "Australian Notes," over the signature D. F. Griffiths, appearing in your issue of Sept. 13, 1920.

The statements that caused Mr. Griffiths and his friends to be "a little annoyed" were never made by me.

Would you please publish this simple denial of authorship to save me from possible further strong-armed literary attack?

REPUBLICANS SEE GAINS IN SENATE

EXPECT TO LOSE OREGON

Chamberlain's Personal Popularity There Is Counted On to Elect Him.

Interesting information about the fight to obtain control of the United States Senate has been obtained by a survey of the Senatorial situation in the States where there are real contests. The survey, obtained yesterday from Republican sources, indicates the reasonable certainty of the election of eight Republican Senators, the probability or possibility of eight others and the likelihood of the election of one Democrat. The survey did not take into account the several Southern States which will elect Senators, where the election of Democrats is conceded. In North Dakota, a Non-Partisan League candidate, E. F. Ladd, defeated Senator Gronna for the Republican nomination. If elected, Mr. Ladd will affiliate with the Republicans, but he is not being counted on by the Republican Senatorial leaders in calculating a Republican majority.

The survey predicts the re-election of Senator George H. Moses in New Hampshire, Senator Frank B. Brandegee in Connecticut and Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., in New York, despite woman suffragist antagonism. In Maryland, C. E. Weller is said to have the "inside track" in his contest with Senator John Walter Smith, Democrat. Ex-Governor Frank B. Willis is counted upon to win in Ohio and Richard P. Ernst, the Republican nominee for Senator, is expected to repeat the victory of Governor Morrow in Kentucky a year ago.

Three Bitter Contests.

Indiana, Illinois and Missouri are three dark spots in the Republican Senatorial outlook. In Indiana, Senator James E. Watson is expected to run behind Harding and Coolidge and is said to be likely to be beaten by Thomas Taggart, the Democratic candidate, if the vote on the national ticket is close. In Illinois, the factional fight between the friends of Governor Frank O. Lowden and Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago may cause William B. McKinley, the Republican nominee for Senator, to run far behind the national ticket and may imperil his election. In Missouri, Senator Selden P. Spencer's affiliation with Jacob Babler, Republican National Committeeman, who is under fire in connection with charges growing out of the expenditure of money in the Presidential primaries, may lose him considerable Republican support.

The election of Carl Schuyler, Republican candidate for Senator in Colorado, is expected, as is that of Governor Peter Norbeck, the Republican candidate for Senator in South Dakota, although local issues are said to have arisen to complicate the situation in the latter State, and U. S. G. Cherry, the Democratic nominee, receives credit for being a good campaigner.

Idaho Called Doubtful.

The situation in Idaho is described doubtful, with the chance, from the Republican viewpoint, of pulling Frank R. Gooding, the Republican candidate, through and defeating Senator John F. Nugent, Democrat, for re-election. Senator Reed Smoot is admitted to have a fight on his hands for re-election in Utah, but his chances are said to be improving. In Arizona, Ralph H. Cameron, Republican, is said to have an excellent chance of defeating Senator Marcus A. Smith, because of the latter's unvarying support of President Wilson.

Senator Wesley O. Jones, Republican, is said to be practically certain of re-election in Washington. In Oregon, the re-election of Senator George E. Chamberlain, Democrat, is practically conceded. Senator Chamberlain's personal popularity is given as the explanation for his repeated successes in a strongly Republican State, and it is said that he can invariably count upon the support of from 75,000 to 100,000 Republican voters.

In California the chances are said to favor the election of L. E. Shortridge, Republican, over Senator James D. Phelan, although the latter is said to have great local popularity. Mr. Shortridge, who won in the primaries over two opponents, is the candidate of the Hiram Johnson, or majority, faction of California Republicans.

COMPLAIN OF PARTY APATHY.

Senators Reaching Washington Say Workers Are Overconfident.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Republican Senators and others who have come here after speechmaking tours, while expressing confidence of success in November, say that there is great apathy in the country and that the party is without thorough direction at national headquarters. They say that Republicans everywhere have been asserting that "victory is sure, the country wants a change and the Republicans will have the biggest victory in November in years."

As the result of the feeling which Republicans are expressing that the election is already won, they are indifferent, the Senators say.

In many Republican States, it was said, little campaign effort would be made.

The Maine election, together with optimistic reports in Republican papers, all tended to give party workers an overconfidence, leaders say, which might prove disastrous in November. Senator Penrose is one of the leaders who is dissatisfied with the trend of events. He does not believe that any election is won until the votes are counted.

Many things in the conduct of the campaign by the National Committee have displeased Senator Penrose. One thing he was able to overcome was the decision of Senator Harding to be content with the porch campaign. Mr. Penrose denounced this, and called Harry Daugherty, Harding's manager, to Philadelphia, with the result that the porch campaign was abandoned.

Mr. Penrose hopes to bring about other changes in the Republican campaign. He is recovering from his long illness and will go to New York to put his plans into operation. One of these is an extension of Harding's tour, but the most important thing he has in mind is to put the National Committee "on its toes."

Despite the plans of the Republicans to raise a large campaign fund, reports coming to Washington say that indifference among wealthy party men has affected their former liberality. Many of the big donors in previous campaigns, it is said, have cut their subscriptions or refused to give on the ground that there is no necessity to do so this year. Complaint has been made by some Republicans that the Kenyon Committee inquiry has tended to discourage contributions.

FOG HOLDS UP LINERS AND ATLANTIC FLEET

Gen. Bullard Goes Down Bay to Welcome Gen. Fayolle, but Can't Find the Savoie.

BROOKLYN FERRIES STOP

200 Excursionists on the Steamer Squantum Forced to Spend Night in Flushing Bay.

The fog which has been hovering around the harbor since Friday night held up a number of large passenger steamships, including the Rotterdam of the Holland-America Line, the French liner Savoie, with General Fayolle on board, the American liner Philadelphia and many others.

Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, commander of the Department of the East, went down the bay on an army tug yesterday afternoon, accompanied by officers of his staff, to look for the Savoie, but could not see her, the weather being so thick. The General will go down again this morning, take General Fayolle off at Quarantine and land him at the Battery, where he will be received by a guard of honor as the representative of Marshal Foch.

The Tuloa of the United Fruit Line, from Cuba and Central American ports, and the Lamport & Holt liner Byron, from South America, both carrying full complements of passengers eager to get home, were held up in the fog. The Municipal ferry service from Manhattan to Brooklyn was suspended from 4 A. M. to 10 A. M., as it was too thick to see the shore a ship's length ahead, the pilots said. The Staten Island service to the Battery kept running, however, as the vessels are steered by compass, and not landmarks.

The battleships of the Atlantic fleet, which were to have arrived on Saturday so that their crews could have Sunday on shore, were also fog-bound off the entrance to the harbor. This was a disappointment to the sailors and their friends.

The excursion steamboat Squantum, with 200 passengers on board from Newark, N. J., started for home from Glenwood, L. I., where they had spent the day, at 7:15 P. M., and was caught in the fog and put into Flushing Bay to anchor for the night, as it was out of the way of the Sound steamers. Captain Callister had the orchestra playing in the saloon, and hot coffee and cakes were served to the passengers, who passed the night very comfortably. When the fog lifted a little yesterday morning a motor launch took the women passengers, twenty in all, who were landed at 138th Street, while the remainder of the passengers stopped on the Squantum and reached the same pier at 11 A. M. Great excitement was aroused in Newark on Saturday night among the relatives and friends of the excursionists when the steamer did not arrive. The local police, after telephoning all around the Long Island shore, heard from the harbor police at Pier A, Manhattan, that the Squantum was safe in Flushing Bay for the night.

LEAGUE FILM SHOWN IN TWO THEATRES

"Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge," a motion picture adaptation of the story of the same name by Margaret Prescott Montague which President Wilson praised as setting forth the ideal of the League of Nations, was shown last night to invited spectators at the Selwyn Theatre. It was simultaneously exhibited at the Cohan and Harris Theatre.

Preceding the showing of the picture at the Selwyn Theatre, short addresses were delivered by William G. McAdoo, who acted as Chairman; Oscar Straus, George Creel and Miss Montague, all of whom said that the picture and story on which it was based were not partisan. Mr. McAdoo said the story, and its picture were made to "impress upon the people of the United States the need for making war impossible."

Mr. Straus said that the picture was "an allegory representing the idealism of democracy," which was "not a party question," and Miss Montague disclaimed any party feeling in writing the story. Its purpose, she said, was to express the idea of the League of Nations, and, more fundamentally, to impress upon all the ideas of atonement and resurrection. Mr. Creel said that the League of Nations was "bigger than politics."

The story of "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge" is about an old man of the West Virginia mountains who gives his son for the "war to end war." The son is killed in Europe, but "Uncle Sam," as he comes to be known, feels that he has been sacrificed in the cause of world peace. When word is received, however, that the treaty has been defeated, and when his neighbors show that they are more interested in their private affairs than in the adjustment of the world, "Uncle Sam" wraps himself in his flag and dies by his own hand, in atonement for the sins of his country. His spirit comes to life in those near him, and, especially in the girl his son loved, Roma Jones, who, in the story's look-ahead to 1935, becomes the delegate of the United States to the League of Nations.

The picture was produced for the Harry Levey Productions, under the direction of George A. Beranger. Its principal parts are played by George MacQuarrie, Wm. D. Corbett, Paul Kelly, Helen Flint, Eugene Keith, Leslie Hunt and Nicholas Burnham. Mlle. Etheldreda Avesne sang between the addresses and the exhibition of the film.

CONCERT IN SOUSA'S HONOR.

Musicians Join in Observing Leader's 28 Years' Service.

John Philip Sousa's twenty-eight years as the head of his own musical organization was commemorated last night with a concert by Sousa's Band at the Hippodrome, and the presence and participation of a number of the March King's fellow-musicians. It was on Sept. 26, 1892, that Sousa's Band gave its initial concert in Plainfield, and the intervening period marks the longest time that an organization of the kind has been conducted by a single individual.

Just before the playing of Mr. Sousa's march, "Semper Fidelis," last night, Walter Damrosch presented the composer with a wreath on behalf of the Musicians' Club of New York, and Geraldine Farrar, introduced by De Wolf Hopper, offered a wreath in the name of The Lambs. There were also other presentations by the Elks, the New York Athletic Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the members of Mr. Sousa's organization.

A group of composers took the stage for the playing of "Semper Fidelis," and temporarily joined Mr. Sousa's organization as pianists. They included Raymond Hubbell, Gustav Kerker, Rudolph Friml, Victor Jacobi, Silvio Hein, A. Baldwin Sloane, Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern and Paul Tietzens.

Mr. Sousa was welcomed by a crowd which filled the Hippodrome. His program included three marches played last night for the first time.

SCHIFF—At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, 92d St. and Lexington Av., held Sunday, Sept. 26, 1920, the following minute was adopted: The Young Men's Hebrew Association notes with profound sorrow the death of Jacob H. Schiff, the great American philanthropist, leader in finance and patriot, and the distinguished son of Israel, whose self-sacrificing loyalty to Judaism and whose great service to humanity have made his name immortal. We share the mourning of Jews all over the world. Our association herewith expresses its own poignant grief at the loss of its unforgettable friend and benefactor. His munificent generosity made possible the growth of our work, whose spirit and influence have spread over the land. By his gift of our building to house the many activities of the association he assured permanent success in this city for the efforts on behalf of the moral and spiritual welfare of Jewish young men. By his splendid virtues of Jewish piety, of a charity and social service that knew no distinctions of race or creed, of love of learning, education and culture, by his fine idealism and public spirit which made him the crown and glory of American Jewry, he has left an imperishable heritage which will be an inspiration to young men in all lands. We extend our heartfelt sympathy and condolence to his bereaved family and pray that the God of the fathers whom he so faithfully served may give them comfort and strength. Be it resolved, That this expression of sentiment be entered upon the records of the association and that an engrossed copy be presented to his loved ones, and that in honor of his memory the building of the association be draped in mourning for thirty days.

SCHIFF—The death of Jacob H. Schiff marks the ending of the career of one of our most illustrious and public-spirited citizens. His dignified and delightful personality, his kindness of heart, his wide, ever-continuing and unbounded philanthropy, his bigness of soul, his unostentatious and gentle demeanor, his broad vision, his unswerving integrity and sage judgment all combined to make him the dominant personality in the financial and philanthropic activities of our city, State and nation. A man of the loftiest ideals, an exemplary citizen, by nature a leader of men, he made his influence felt in every movement that tended to the amelioration and uplift of his people on both sides of the Atlantic. His broad sympathies, however, knew no bounds of race or creed. In life he radiated sunshine and happiness and in death he bequeathed to his fellow-men the priceless legacy of a resplendent example of the true and loyal stewardship of wealth and of rare, God-given powers.

The Directors of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society (Orphan Asylum), in special meeting assembled, do herewith express their profound sense of loss at the demise of their dear friend and generous benefactor, Jacob H. Schiff, and beg to express to his family their sincere and heartfelt condolence.

Resolved—That the Directors attend in a body the funeral of Mr. Schiff.

Resolved—That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Orphan Asylum and an engrossed copy tendered to the bereaved family.

SCHIFF—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Mount Sinai Hospital, announcement having been made of the death, on Sept. 25, of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, for many years a Trustee of the hospital, the members present resolved to express their sentiments in the following minute: We have heard, with the deepest sorrow, of the death of Jacob H. Schiff, who served our institution for many years as Trustee. His extraordinary keenness of perception, his broad-minded view of the present and of the future and his sound judgment were of incalculable value during his many years of service. As founder and President of our sister institution, the Montefiore Home, he displayed his creative genius in the direction of charitable endeavor, and his intense and intelligent interest in every field of charity made him a commanding and unique figure in Jewish communal life. His munificent gifts have been an inspiration to thousands to help their fellow men and his shining example will be sorely missed in our community. His name became world-famed in the field of finance and business and as a citizen of our city and of his adopted country his spoken word and his facile pen were ever wielded in behalf of the betterment of political and social conditions. To his bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their great loss. It was further resolved that the members of the Board attend the funeral service in a body, that the flag of the hospital be placed at half-mast until the funeral, and that an engrossed copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased.

SCHIFF—The officers and Directors of Beth Israel Hospital have assembled today to take action upon the death of a humanitarian leader of the world. Mr. Jacob H. Schiff has gone to his eternal reward. There is not in the history of our times a figure that impressed itself so deeply on the Jewish mind as that of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff. Mr. Schiff was found wherever there was work to do for the poor, the suffering and dependent. While all matters of interest to the Jews occupied his devoted and loyal consideration and attention, his activities in behalf of humanity had no limitations and transcend the power of speech to describe. His life bounded a universe of uses. Mr. Schiff applied to the service of his fellow-man the keen acumen, sound judgment, foresight, loyalty and devotion that marked his individual eminently successful business life. We, the Directors of Beth Israel Hospital, are assembled to record our deep sense of personal loss at the departure from this life of the leader and fountain source of inspiration and guidance, not only to the Directors of our institution, but to each and every worker in the cause of humanity throughout the world. He not only preached the doctrine of, but practiced personal service, and we are grateful to Mr. Jacob H. Schiff for the spirit of genuine personal service he inculcated in this community. His exemplary influence will have a lasting benefit for the good of Jewry throughout the world, and his everlasting memorial will be the life and growth of the seeds of the spirit of personal service he planted. We express our sincere sympathy and condolence to the family of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff in their great affliction. It is directed that the flag of the hospital be placed at half-mast for thirty days; that this minute be published in the daily press; that a copy of this minute be transmitted to the bereaved family; The Directors of the Beth Israel Hospital are requested to attend the funeral services in a body.

SCHIFF—At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hebrew Free Loan Society held on Sept. 26, 1920, the following sentiments were unanimously expressed, ordered spread upon the minutes, published and an engrossed copy thereof presented to the family of Jacob H. Schiff: In the death of Jacob H. Schiff the world, this country, our city, and especially the Jews, have sustained an irreparable loss. He was pre-eminent in so many directions that there is scarcely a phase in our civic, economic, philanthropic and religious life upon which he did not exert a most beneficent influence. The Hebrew Free Loan Society, but one of the very many beneficiaries of the numberless philanthropic agencies supported and patronized by him, has sustained a loss by his demise, not only of the largest and most liberal contributor, but also the one wise and great counselor who was always ready and did give of his time and person for its welfare and growth. Mr. Schiff was among the first to recognize the great usefulness and possibilities of this Institution, attended and addressed every one of its annual meetings and because of his friendship and patronage thousands of contributors were attracted to this Institution. The love and affection of the officers of the Hebrew Free Loan Society for Mr. Schiff were so great that no act of importance was ever taken without his counsel, which was always in the direction of greater usefulness and service to mankind. This Institution has lost its greatest friend and benefactor, but his memory will live forever and be cherished by all who knew him, and these are legion the world over. The sincerest and most heartfelt condolence and sympathy are felt and hereby expressed to his widow and his children, Mr. and Mrs. Felix M. Warburg and Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff. Upon motion it was decided that the several offices of the Hebrew Free Loan Society be closed on Tuesday, Sept. 28, the day of his funeral, and that the Board of Directors attend in a body.

Julius J. Dukas, President.

SCHIFF—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Emanu-El Congregation of the City of New York the following minute was adopted:

For more than half a century our departed brother, Jacob Henry Schiff, was affiliated with this congregation and a devout worshipper at its shrine. His presence on the Sabbath and on holy days was as a benediction. The well-being of Israel was to him at all times of the deepest concern. By precept and example he strove untiringly to stimulate and to develop the sense of loyalty to the faith of our fathers and to instill the spirit of the Prophets and of the Maccabees. The education of the Jewish soul and heart was his shining goal. The preservation of our grand traditions and the ennoblement of the individual were his passionate hope. To him Judaism meant not a mere cult, but a map of life, a chart by which the wayfarer might guide his step. He was indeed a leader and teacher in Israel whom it was happiness to follow and a privilege to greet as friend. Modestly, unselfishly, humbly he walked with God; earnestly, unceasingly and lovingly he wrought for his fellow man. Goodness and mercy followed him all the days of his life, and he shall, in truth, dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

SCHIFF—The Trustees of the Baron de Hirsch Fund have learned with profound grief of the passing away of their Revered Vice President, Jacob H. Schiff, designated over thirty years ago as one of the original Stewards of his endowment by the philanthropic founder of this trust, Jacob H. Schiff continued to render to it as Trustee and Vice President down to his death his untiring devotion and invaluable service.

The cause of the persecuted Jewish immigrants was always close to his heart. Instruction for them in handicraft and agriculture and education in the vernacular and in good citizenship were always strongly emphasized by him in order to make them most useful citizens of our beloved country. The evolved new and beneficent methods of distribution and instruction in self-helpfulness in their behalf he pleaded in trying times with prophetic fire. Earnestness and fearlessness in helping the unfortunate in their new land of promise, he found his greatest joy.

His example has been an inspiration to thousands and his precepts will ever be cherished in our midst.

May his bereaved family find solace in the consciousness of the good he wrought.

Eugene S. Benjamin, President.

DR. CANTOR'S FIANCEE MEMORIAL SPEAKER

Many of Free Synagogue Weep as She Tells of Murdered Rabbi's Work.

Brother Also Receives a Fellowship—To Honor Dr. Friedlander's Memory.

Miss Irma Abramowicz May of Lemberg, Galicia, fiancé of the late Dr. Bernard Cantor, spoke in Carnegie Hall before the congregation of the Free Synagogue yesterday morning, at a memorial service to the rabbi, who was murdered July 5, last, in the Ukraine by Bolsheviki. Rabbi Cantor was for several years an assistant to the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue. Many of the listeners wept at the pathetic recital of the suffering of Polish Jews and the story of Dr. Cantor's work and sacrifice.

The other speakers were Rabbi Wise, Judge Abram I. Elkus, President of the synagogue, and Captain Elkan Voorsanger of the Joint Distribution Committee, under whose auspices Dr. Cantor went to Russia.

Miss May said:

"Truly I must appear in a most unique situation, a stranger from distant Poland, coming here to speak of one who addressed audiences from the same pulpit. And yet it is altogether natural for me to come before you and tell you of the work of Dr. Bernard Cantor, the character of the people with whom he worked and for whom he died.

"A word about the Polish Jews is necessary for a clear understanding of the present situation. For years and years Polish Jewry has suffered beyond verbal description. To appreciate their poverty one must suffer their portion. World Jewry was unmindful of their lot. Their piercing plea for aid remained unheard and unheeded. Their moanings and wailings were echoed by shrieking of shell and roar of cannon. War-ridden and stricken, their cry sank to a whisper and their heads hung low because of utter hopelessness.

"When Dr. Cantor entered Poland his heart was filled with grief even as his eyes overflowed with tears. It is true that Dr. Cantor was the official representative of the Joint Distribution Committee. In his capacity he distributed funds. As disributor of funds he faced disappointment upon disappointment, but the smile never left his face. Dr. Cantor served best not as the official representative, but as Bernard Cantor, ununiformed and unknown. Where poverty and disease and misery dwelt he was to be found. Naturally the financial aid he brought with him was vitally necessary, but the spirit in which he offered help was life-sustaining.

"His enthusiasm was warmest, his love for his work deepest and his willingness to serve greatest when he started on his last, fatal trip. To the warnings of the Polish commandant and the admonitions of his friends he replied: 'I came to Poland not for my pleasure; I came to serve.'

"If his noble life of service and still nobler sacrifice of life will shape our characters so that we may learn better to live a life of love, then the spirit of Bernard Cantor will remain an imperishable heritage."

It was announced that the Executive Council of the synagogue had voted to call the religious school of the downtown branch, Clinton Street, the Bernard Cantor School of the Free Synagogue. It was also annouced that the synagogue had created the Bernard Cantor Fellowship, choosing Nathaniel Cantor, a brother of the martyred rabbi, a student at the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, as the first holder.

Organizations of young Jews are to unite in the Great Hall of City College on Oct. 24 to honor the memory of Dr. Israel Friedlander, slain by bandits in the Ukraine last July while on an errand of mercy, it was announced yesterday.

BOSTON POLICEMEN HELD FOR THEFT

Three Are Ousted from the Force and Will Be Tried for Burglary.

ALL HIRED SINCE STRIKE

Acting Chief Decides Publicity and Prosecution Are Needed as a Warning.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The arrest of three patrolmen on charges of breaking, entering and larceny and their discharge from the police force was announced in a formal statement by Captain Thomas C. Evans, Acting Superintendent of Police, tonight. The men are Alfred H. Webster, Ernest R. Martin and James A. Lohorne, all recruited since the police strike of a year ago.

Captain Evans, in his statement, said that the three men would be prosecuted "for thefts on their division," which were discovered by Captain Sullivan of Station 2, to which all three were attached. This station is in the heart of the downtown district. Much of the property found to have been stolen has been recovered, Captain Evans said, and in many cases shopkeepers were unaware that anything was missing until their goods were returned to them.

He said that the discovery of the alleged thievery on the part of the patrolmen was made in such a manner that it would have been easy to discharge them from the force without publicity or prosecution, but that officials of the Police Department felt that it was due to the public to prosecute the men.

"It would be well," said Captain Evans, "for every member of the force to realize that his uniform does not render him immune from prosecution when he breaks the law."

All three patrolmen have had excellent previous records and have figured in several affairs which tested their bravery.

DR. POTTER IN LEAGUE PLEA

Says American Opposition Is Due to Fear and Apathy.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Francis Potter, pastor of the West Side Unitarian Church, preaching yesterday morning at the last of a series of union Summer services of the Unitarian churches of New York, compared the unwillingness of Jonah to go to save the Ninevites with the apparent unwillingness of some Americans to join the League of Nations and help save the suffering peoples of the world. Dr. Potter preached on "Jonah and the League of Nations." The service was held in All Souls' Church, Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street.

Psycho-analysis of the American consciousness reveals, Dr. Potter said, as the reasons for not entering the League, fear, apathy and a petty conception of religious duty.

"European diplomats are bogey-men with which some seek to scare us," Dr. Potter said. "It may have worked when we were a baby nation, but our politicians cannot expect any longer to keep Uncle Sam in a short trouser foreign policy.

"At the present time we are, as one said of the Hebrews of the time when the Book of Jonah was written, 'a nation stumbling on the highest road nation was ever called on to tread.' Let us face our duty squarely, risk what we must, fear nothing, and unite with the nations of the earth for the good of the common people of the earth."

FIGHTS BANDITS, SAVES CASH

Hoboken Man in Hospital; Two Men in Jail.

Two armed bandits attacked Frank Jennie, Treasurer of Grand View Hall, Jersey City, early yesterday while he was counting up the Saturday night receipts. Jennie drove off his assailants, but was so badly beaten that he was taken to the Jersey City Hospital. Two men were arrested after the police had freely used their nightsticks. They were held on charges of assault and battery.

Jennie, who lives at 231 Garden Street, Hoboken, had before him about $1,000 when he looked up into the muzzles of two revolvers. He shouted for help. In the fight that followed Jennie was struck over the head with the butt of a revolver and he fell to the floor just as the police appeared.

Vincent Alloretta, 21, of 238 Jefferson Street, and Thomas Baggs, 23, of 360 Furst Street, both of Hoboken, the prisoners, received medical aid before they were taken to Headquarters.

HOLD PATIENT AS BIGAMIST.

Police Say Man Who Attempted Suicide Has Two Wives.

Harmon Benjamin Long, aged 28, was arrested yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital in Yonkers, where he had been taken after swallowing iodine, on a warrant charging bigamy.

Miss Georgia Donovan, aged 18, of 68 St. Joseph's Avenue, Yonkers, alleges that he married her knowing he had another wife. It was his attempt at suicide that made her suspicious and led to the alleged discovery that he had been leading a dual life.

Long told Dr. Louis Cassano, who took him to the hospital and saved his life, that "love affairs" had prompted him to swallow poison.

National Polish Home Opened.

The National Polish Home at 17-23 St. Mark's Place was opened last night with a housewarming and dance. The celebration began early in the day with a mass in St. Stanislaus's Church on East Seventh Street, followed by a parade. Among the guests last night were Stefan Grolowski, Polish Consul General in New York; Anton Roman, Vice Consul, and Richard Ordynski.

Exide
BATTERIES

How Big is a Battery?

You may think of a battery as the 45-pound black box that saves you muscle in cranking your car and gives current for your lights on the road. Or the smaller eight-pound Exide that lights a motorcycle. But to the men in the central power and lighting stations of our great cities, an Exide Battery is a huge thing that would fill an ordinary house, for each cell frequently weighs as much as three tons, and there are 150 cells to a battery. The submarine commander knows the Exide as the battery of 120 cells of 2600 pounds each, that propels his boat when under the sea.

Whether it be for current in telephone systems, lighting farm homes, or the propulsion of industrial vehicles, there is an Exide for every battery use. Only the Exide is made for every purpose. And into each Exide is built the experience of the oldest and largest manufacturers of storage batteries in the world.

AMERICAN BUSINESS HINDERED IN CHINA

Insistent Demand for a New Incorporation Law Governing Enterprises There.

WOULD ESCAPE OUR TAX

And Meet Competition of Other Nationals from an Equally Favorable Position.

BRITISH HAVE ADVANTAGE

Volume of Business for Home Manufactures an Offset to Loss in Revenue.

By JOHN FOORD.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 15.—At every stage of their progress through China the subject most urgently pressed on the attention of the American Congressional party has been the necessity for a Federal incorporation law, so that American corporations in China may be truly national corporations. Up to the present time there have been two ways of incorporating American companies to do business here—one under the law of some individual State, the other under the Hongkong ordinances. The latter method ceased to be available when by an Order in Council it was decreed that the responsible head of every company organized under these ordinances should be a British subject. The promulgation of the order naturally aroused some irritation, and to at least one of the great corporations of mixed British and American origin it caused not a little embarrassment. From the British point of view, however, the order was entirely defensible. An adventurous brood of poorly equipped Chinese concerns had taken advantage of the ordinances to give them a corporate standing to which they were hardly entitled, but when they got into difficulties the promoters refused to submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the British courts. There was also one notable case of a Brazilian, [illegible] prominent in a leading American business enterprise, who, as an officer of certain rubber companies organized under the Hongkong ordinances, refused to obey the citation of a British court and claimed the right to have his case tried before the Consular Court of his native country. It was to put an end to anomalies like these, and not with the slightest intention of obstructing American trade, that the order in Council was issued virtually restricting the benefit of the Hongkong ordinances to British subjects.

There remained the freedom to incorporate under State laws. But the laws under which State charters are framed and designed are not adopted to meet trade conditions existing in a country like China. Then a company organized, say, under the laws of the State of Delaware, has no attraction for a Chinese investor. He wants to put his money in an American company, and, knowing nothing of the protection he may enjoy under the law of Delaware, he looks askance at proposals to invest in a company organized under the charter of that or any individual State. The fact that an American company so incorporated is subject to the jurisdiction of the United States court in China does not sensibly alter the case, as the Chinaman regards it.

Profitable Investment Opportunities.

Now, nothing can be more certain than the boundless opportunities for highly profitable investment of combinations of American and Chinese capital in companies formed for the purpose of agricultural or industrial development here. But on the very threshold of such a possibility there is encountered the fatal obstacle to Chinese investment, namely, its liability to the full taxation of American capital—income tax, chargeable under our State laws against American corporations and the proportion of the excess profits tax under the same laws. Hence in laying before their Chinese friends a proposal to form a corporation under the existing law, Americans have to face the insuperable objection that all such taxation can be avoided by a corporation formed and operated under the laws pertaining to Chinese companies in force at Hongkong. Clearly unless a Federal incorporation law can be enacted permitting the combination of Chinese capital with American on a basis that will be fair to the Chinese investor, no progress can be made along the lines of joint Chinese and American enterprise for the material development of China.

Another and more immediate handicap on American commerce in China, due to the system of incorporation under State laws, relates to the curtailment of credit facilities. The question of credits with foreign banks is a vitally important one in doing business in China. Some of these banks hold so commanding a position that it is practically impossible for big business to be done without their frequent aid and support. This applies especially to exchange transactions. In order to obtain the best rates of the market for the conversion of gold credits into silver for the purchase of goods in China, or for the conversion of silver into gold for the payment of drafts drawn on them for imports into China, American merchants must be free to operate with all the leading banks. The largest banking institutions in the Far East are British, and it is the experience of most American firms of old standing here that no distinction has been drawn by such banks on the score of the nationality of their clients. The best-known American houses in this country have always found these banks ready to handle any reasonable amount of business they proposed.

With the advent, however, of a great many new American firms during recent years, these old-established banking institutions, with their branches and agencies in practically every trading centre in the Far East, have begun to question the status and responsibility of some of the American concerns doing business in the Orient. They have found peculiar and unsatisfactory features in the charters and methods of accounting, capitalization, &c., of firms working under various forms of American State charters. Rather than become involved in complications about which leading lawyers in some cases were unable to advise them, the foreign banks have simply curtailed credits, meanwhile extending all possible accommodation to concerns with whose standing and integrity they had been long familiar. Briefly, the discrimination against the extension of more or less open credit facilities to new American firms, even if heavily capitalized, is not based on any national prejudice on the part of the great foreign banks, but results from their lack of confidence in the system of State charters under which these companies have been organized.

Business Depends on Laws.

Thus, from whatever angle the subject is approached, the future of American trade in China depends on the provision of a Federal incorporation law for American companies doing business there. The fact must be clearly recognized, however, that no Federal incorporation law can be of much use which does not place American merchants on an equal footing with their competitors by providing for freedom from income tax and excess profits tax. Americans living in China and conducting business there are not deriving their income from sources within the United States, and they argue that it is iniquitous they should be taxed on the same basis as those living at home. In the natural course of events large incomes accruing to individuals through the formation of corporations in China under a special Federal corporation act would result in the Americans interested in these corporations paying to the Government a personal income tax. During the war American merchants in China earned unusually large profits because the United States of all nations was the only one able to export goods on a fairly large scale. In those days they were more than willing to contribute the taxes imposed by their Government to help to carry on the war to a successful issue. Now that normal conditions of trade are being rapidly established, the fact has to be recognized that European Governments, and especially that of Great Britain, are determined to help their nationals to win back their places in the markets of the world. Trade rivalry is bound to be increasingly keen, and to hold the trade which America has developed in the Far East during the last few years will require a more than usually strenuous effort.

The main requisite for holding our own in this competition is that we must be able to enter it on equal terms. Any handicap placed on the American merchant operating in the Orient means a handicap on the possibilities for the development of American export trade. For example, the British merchant in China operates under the Hongkong ordinances, free from income tax and excess profits taxes, while the American merchant is subject to all the burdens of taxation which apply to the United States. The successful merchant in the import and export trade carries on his business on a basis of averages covering a range of several years. He sets aside as a reserve in profitable years a sum adequate to cover the probable losses to be faced in the lean years. The British merchant is in a much better position to do this because of his freedom from home taxation. The American merchant, on the other hand, being heavily taxed under our income and excess profits tax laws finds his capacity for accumulating a reserve very much impaired. The theory under which Great Britain extends facilities to her merchants in China, in freeing them from liability to home taxation, is based on the idea that the risks of trade in the Orient are such that the average merchant cannot operate profitably under the same conditions as obtain in Great Britain and her dominions. Hence, the British merchant enjoys special facilities and a measure of protection not extended to his American competitor. Ample justification for this is found in the fact that the volume of business brought to British manufacturers by merchants in the Far East is so valuable a contribution to the sum of export trade that the taxes which might be collected from it are negligible.

To the argument that companies operating in America might try to make use of Federal incorporation for American companies in China in order to escape taxation by having nominal officers out here while actually doing their chief business in the United States, it is sufficient to reply that there need be no special difficulty in protecting the Government from any such abuse of the proposed law. The British Government has had no trouble in this connection under its Hongkong ordinances, and it may fairly be presumed that the American Government can readily devise methods of confining similar legislation to the purpose for which it is primarily intended.

Only Wine and Beer to Drink Since Swiss Town Lost Water

GENEVA, Sept. 26.—The inhabitants of the village of Martigny face the prospect of being able to drink only wine and beer for some time, the result of the town water works being washed away yesterday by a flood which swept through the Chamonix Valley, caused by the bursting of a glacier pocket.

The flood is now receding, but it will be many weeks before the water works can be rebuilt. The damage done through the valley amounts to many millions of francs, but no lives were lost.

VANGUARD OF LEGION ARRIVES IN CLEVELAND

Thousands of Delegates and Visitors Gather for Opening of Annual Convention Today.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26.—Thousands of delegates, visitors and former service men were arriving here tonight for the second annual convention of the American Legion, which opens tomorrow morning and continues for three days. The convention approaches in importance the national sessions of the big political parties.

All downtown Cleveland is lavishly decorated with flags, bunting and legion emblems in honor of the 25,000 former service men expected to attend the convention. Several entertainments were given today and tonight for the delegates and visitors.

The convention sessions will be held in the Hippodrome Theatre. Franklin D'Olier, National Commander, will call the convention to order tomorrow morning and present the Rev. Francis J. Kelley of Troy, N. Y., the Legion's spiritual leader, known as "the fighting chaplain," who will deliver the invocation. Mayor William S. Fitzgerald will then welcome the visitors on behalf of the city of Cleveland.

The report of the National Commander, naming of convention committees, selection by delegates of committee members and the reports of the National Adjutant and National Treasurer will follow. The session will adjourn about noon to prepare for the big parade, the feature event of the meeting, which is scheduled to start at 2:30 P. M., in which approximately 20,000 former soldiers, sailors and marines are expected to march.

The 37th (Buckeye) Division Veterans' Association held its first annual convention today, more than 500 members attending. A resolution was adopted asking the War Department and Congress to give the division due credit for the capture of Montfaucon, claim for which has been advanced also by the 79th Division of New York.

Colonel R. S. Bacon, who had been on special detail on the ground over which the battle was fought for several days after the Germans had retreated, presented a report which, he said, showed that the Ohio men were the first to enter the German dugouts.

General William McMaiken of Toledo was elected President of the Veterans' Association over a large field of candidates by a substantial majority. Toledo was selected for next year's reunion.

Franklin d'Olier, National Commander, who will retire at this convention, tonight addressed Congressional Medal of Honor men who have accepted the invitation to be the honored guests of the legion at the convention. Fourteen of the heroes, characterized by Commander d'Olier as "the bravest of the brave," reached here tonight. Thirty-nine of the 54 living holders of the highest military honors bestowed by Congress during the World War have accepted invitations and at least thirty are expected.

GERMANY PROPOSES MILD LABOR DRAFT

BRINGS UP NATIONALIZATION

Many Socialist Leaders Oppose Such Action Now—Levy on Capital to Be Carried Out.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—I am able to give the details of the project of "Industrial conscription" which is in contemplation by the German Government and of the ideas behind it.

The experience of the last two years has shown that under present methods the full working strength of the country cannot be employed. It is not intended that the scheme shall mean anything in the nature of conscription in a military sense. Its broad aim is to make the available labor much more fluid.

Though the Bulgarian scheme has been studied, under which men are called up for a year and women for six months, it is not thought anything quite so drastic will be necessary. A certain degree of compulsion, it is believed, will have to show to what extent it is necessary to go. There will certainly be no disturbance of labor already fruitfully employed for the scheme will mainly be directed toward utilizing labor in the more productive channels.

The State will have to undertake the cost of moving labor to the places where it can most suitably be employed. In towns and cities are many workers who would much more advantageously be employed on the land, but they do not know where to go. The mines require a great deal more labor which must be available somewhere and has become scattered outside the industrial regions. Again, there is much necessary public work which must be taken in hand after years of neglect.

An important part of the proposal will have for its aim the education of certain classes of workers. Naturally there were large numbers of young men drafted into the army before they learned a trade. They remained there four or five years. Indeed, many men objected to demobilization because they had no knowledge of any trade. Since demobilization large proportions have been either unemployed or engaged on odd jobs. The project will make provision for training such men in the most suitable work.

The announcement that such a scheme is in contemplation has caused a good deal of unrest among the workers and the Socialist press has expressed itself strongly against it, but I learn the greatest possible precautions will be taken to guard against the scheme being exploited for private ends. Wages, profits and working conditions will receive strict attention in industries where the scheme comes into operation.

It naturally has given added interest to the question of nationalization, which now is being much discussed. The socialization of coal mines has become a burning question, for naturally "industrial conscription" and nationalization have a considerable affinity.

The Government intends to proceed at once with the problem of nationalization of the mines. It is a curious thing that, while many of the largest employers of labor favor nationalization of big industries, many Socialist leaders express serious doubts regarding its advisability. Among them are such prominent leaders as Edward Bernstein, who declares it is a deceptive catchword; Otto Hue, the miners' leader, who thinks the present lean time not opportune, and Karl Kautsky, who believes the proletariat is better off under successful capitalism than under socialization, which does not insure sufficient production.

But it is certain that a great scheme of socialization will at least be begun. Hermann Müller, the ex-Prime Minister, has declared that the majority Socialist Party, which is stronger now than before, will work with the Government, and even with the Conservatives, if they will, only help in carrying out the schemes of nationalization, especially of the mines.

I learn further that the Government, which has overcome the waves of the crisis which recently have been beating against it, intends to proceed with a capital levy, as the other means of bringing in money, is not proving so successful as anticipated. The post and telegraphic services are being carefully watched for evidence of unauthorized export of capital.

COURT CHAMBERLAIN OF THE EX-KAISER DIES

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Lebrecht von Kotze, once the ex-Kaiser's Court Chamberlain, died yesterday in Berlin. Von Kotze, who was 70 years old, got world renown through the so-called Kotze letters about twenty-five years ago.

At that time the whole Berlin court was shocked by anonymous letters received even by members of the imperial family, in which the Hohenzollerns and the prominent men and women of their court were slandered infamously. The writer of these anonymous letters was evidently sought among those closest to the ex-Kaiser, as he possessed many secrets which in some letters were only hinted at, but in others were relentlessly revealed. Court intriguers directed the ex-Kaiser's suspicion against von Kotze, who, tried in court, was able to prove his innocence.

The anonymous letters continued during and after the trial, and the writer was never discovered. Kaiserin Friedrich probably was right when she said that the original letter writer had numerous imitators and that probably one-half the court members wrote anonymous letters.

Rickard Says $20,000,000 Is Needed to Relieve Starving Children.

The American Relief Administration announced yesterday the despatch of checks aggregating $605,194 to food administrators of central and eastern European Governments. This amount represents the difference between operating costs and money received under the food draft plan instituted by Herbert Hoover. It will be used to provide food for destitute children, of whom there are said to be 2,500,000 in Europe, dependent upon American aid to prevent starvation this winter.

"The amount mentioned is only a small part of what is needed," said Edgar Rickard, director of the American Relief Administration. "It will give one meal a day for one month to 605,194 children, but if all are to be provided for in the same way $20,000,000 will be required. It is only possible to make the money do this seemingly impossible feeding for a month because the nation aided is required to furnish transportation, guards for trains, laborers, warehouses and local produce necessary in making up the ration, which has been developed as the result of six years experience in child feeding."

Arrest an Olympic Sailor as a Jewel Thief; Had Mrs. Boomer's Ring, Miss Singer's Brooch

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 26.—The careful watch kept on transatlantic liners, owing to recent reports that passengers have been losing valuables, resulted today in the recovery of a $10,000 ring and a valuable brooch from a seaman of the Olympic when the liner arrived here.

Mrs. Boomer, wife of one of the owners of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, missed a ring from her stateroom. Investigation led the officers to believe that the thief had slipped his hand through a small opening leading to the stateroom and taken the ring while the occupant was absent. The suspect was brought before local officers who boarded the vessel in answer to wireless information. The officers say that he attempted to throw away the ring when questioned.

They found also on the man a brooch reported to have been stolen from Miss Singer of New York on the previous trip of the Olympic. The accused will have a preliminary hearing here tomorrow.

Mrs. Boomer sailed for England with her husband, Lucius M. Boomer, on Sept. 18. Announcement that he had married Mrs. J. Sloane and sailed on the Olympic for a honeymoon did not come out until five days after the White Star liner had cleared. No particulars of the marriage were obtainable at the duPont chain of hotels, of which Mr. Boomer is Managing Director, except that announcement of the wedding had been sent to Mr. Boomer's friends.

It was said last night at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel that no information concerning the theft of Mrs. Boomer's ring had been received here.

POINCARE SUPPORTS MILLERAND'S POWER

He Argues That French President Has Authority to Take Active Part in Government.

CAN GUIDE NATIONAL POLICY

The Ex-President Tells of Some of His Own Steps in Critical Days of the War.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—Former President Poincaré, in an article in the Temps today, strongly supports President Millerand in his contention that the President of France should take a more active part in governmental affairs.

M. Poincare declares that under the Constitution the President has all the authority President Millerand may wish to exercise. He cites the constitutional law of 1875 and argues that under them the President has the initiative in the making of laws, in the naming of all civil and military employes, in disposing the armed forces of the State, and "in negotiating and ratifying treaties."

M. Poincaré says that the French President has more powers than a king, but all the acts of the President of the Republic must be countersigned by a Minister.

"The Ministers are jointly responsible before the Chambers for the general policies of the Government, and individually for their personal acts," he added. "The President of the Republic is responsible only in the case of high treason."

M. Poincaré remarks that the American Constitutional system makes the President responsible only to the country and permits him to dismiss any Minister.

"But," he adds, "should the French President dismiss a Minister who has a majority in Parliament, Parliament can set itself against the President, and the President can dissolve the chamber only if the Senate consents and if the budget is voted."

M. Poincaré notes that former Presidents took an active part in the Government, citing Thiers, MacMahon, Carnot and Loubet, who, he says, made undisguised use of their influence. Speaking of his own administration, he continues:

"I can say that before and during the war the Government had recourse to the President's intervention, and several times this intervention was spontaneously offered. In 1913 a long conference took place in London between Sir Edward Grey, the French President and the French Foreign Minister.

"During the war conferences were held at the Presidential mansion with the French and allied Ministers. The President also attended conferences at Compiègne at which Lord Milner and General Haig were present when unity of command was discussed. The President of the republic on his side, asked the Premier to accompany him recently to Belgium to meet King Albert, M. Hymans, the Foreign Minister and M. Delacroix, the Premier, and he took part in the discussion at Ypres."

M. Poincaré deduces from these facts that President Millerand is perfectly justified in his attitude.

His Physician Denies That Ex-President Is Seriously Ill.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Former President Deschanel, who has entered a sanitorium at Reuil, five miles west of Paris, is not seriously ill, according to a statement of his physician, Dr. Trepsa, published by the Journal.

"What M. Deschanel needs is complete quiet, repose and calm for his overworked nerves," said Dr. Trepsa. "When his calm returns he will be cured. He is not isolated; his wife and children visit him daily."

M. Deschanel entered the sanitarium under the name of Duclos, and it was only after newspapers had published this fact that the personnel of the institution became aware of his identity.

25 DIE IN KOREAN RIOTS AGAINST THE JAPANESE

Students Damage Industrial Bank and Development Company Branches at Gensan.

GENSAN, Korea, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Twenty-five persons were killed in rioting here Thursday night, when Korean students attacked and destroyed or damaged branches of the Korean Industrial Bank and the Oriental Development Company and seven Japanese houses. The following night there was further shooting, resulting in additional casualties, the number of which has not been learned.

Arrests of alleged participants in the rioting are continuing and troops and armed civilians are searching the country for suspects.

Reports printed in Japanese newspapers allege that the mob was led by students from the Canadian Presbyterian Mission.

GERMAN PROPERTY NOT BEING RETURNED

Government Officials Deny Report from Europe of Impending Wholesale Restoration.

ONLY CONGRESS HAS POWER

Belongings of American Wives of Enemy Aliens and Neutrals Going Back.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Government officials tonight called ridiculous a statement by the Brussels correspondent of the Intransigeant, reproduced in a Paris dispatch to a New York paper this morning, that he had been assured by a high German personage at the financial conference being held there that the American Government would "in a few days" restore to Germans all the property in the United States sequestrated from them during the war, "amounting to about $800,000,000."

It was pointed out that the Trading with the Enemy law expressly provides that alien property taken over by the Alien Property Custodian shall be held pending orders from Congress as to its disposition. No such orders have been given except in the instance of the Esch-Nelson amendment of June 5, 1920, intended to turn back the money, stocks and bonds, property and other holdings of American women who had married alien enemies or neutrals and whose property was being held. The only property being turned back is that covered by this amendment.

This amounts to a total value of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000. These payments have been in progress some time, and the return of property in this particular category is being made by Francis P. Garvan, Alien Property Custodian, as rapidly as claims can be handled by his office in conjunction with the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department.

It is stated that after this return has been made there will remain in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian alien property seized during the war worth $350,000,000 to $400,000,000, and that this will be held subject to disposition as directed by Congress.

LECOINTE IS FAVORITE FOR BENNETT AIR RACE

Capt. Schroeder's Machine Impresses French Pilots and He Is the Second Choice.

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 26 (Associated Press).—Sadi Lecointe's masterful handling of his Nieuport airplane in today's contests to decide which three French aviators will compete in the James Gorden Bennett International Aviation Cup race next Tuesday, caused all the American fliers who witnessed his performance to congratulate him, but they are still confident that they will beat him.

The opinion of the Americans, as expressed today, is that the man who wins on Tuesday, if he defeats Lecointe, will know he has been in a stiff race.

Immediately after the conclusion of the French trials, Howard M. Rinehart, the American flier, who will pilot a Dayton-Wright machine, took the air and gave a splendid exhibition, apparently desiring to show that rumors that his machine has difficulty in making turns are groundless. His time over the short course was about 165 miles an hour. He made a perfect landing.

F. P. Raynham, the British flier, gave his Martinsyde a twenty-minute airing today. Harry G. Hawken, who was to fly a Sopwith machine, has been definitely scratched.

Captain R. W. Schroeder, the American aviator, tuned up his Verille-Packard, but did not leave the ground. French pilots standing nearby seemed greatly impressed by the roar of the motor, Lecointe exclaiming:

"I'll make sure not to be up at the same time as this fellow; he will use up all the air."

Lecointe is now an even money favorite, with Captain Schroeder second choice.

The Borel machine, piloted by Parault, gave the impression of much greater speed than the Spad. Parault, rounding the turn at La Mornagne, went very wide, losing several kilometres. He had a miraculous escape from death when his machine turned over as he landed.

While no records were broken today, Lecointe's time—174 miles an hour—taking the turn into consideration and the distance, is pronounced remarkable.

GIOLITTI PROPOSES TO DISARM ITALIANS

Introduces a Bill Which Would Prevent Workers Seizing and Retaining Weapons.

SENATE HITS STRIKE POLICY

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Sept. 26.—Though the exact result of the Italian metal workers' ballot is not yet known, in consequence of the bad weather and the delays in telegraphic transmission, about 72 per cent. of the replies which have been delivered to the Milan delegation at 2 o'clock this morning were substantially favorable to the Giolitti concordat.

With reference to the present condition of affairs in Italy Premier Giolitti has taken a resolute position on two vital problems. First of all, he has presented an urgency bill before the Senate, which aims at general disarmament of civilians. The urgency for such a measure is evidenced not only in the fact that about 80 per cent. of the male population, particularly in large towns, has acquired the dangerous habit of carrying knives and firearms on the pretext of personal defense, but also, inasmuch as a printed order from the syndicalist leagues directs factory defenders to save and conceal all stores of arms and ammunition in readiness for a future revolutionary movement before they yield up the workshops.

Giolitti's second stand concerns the bread problem. According to published statistics, the distribution of bread to the people under cost price, at 16 cents per kilo, had to the end of last year cost the Treasury 10,000,000,000 lire. This Summer's shortage in the home wheat crop of 8,000,000 quintals below the normal average creates a crisis, in view of the state of the world's markets and the prevailing high rates of exchange. The Senate wants to force the Premier to withdraw the subsidy and to raise the price of bread.

He, however, refuses to do so, knowing full well that in the present temper of the political parties it would be risking a national revolt.

What Giolitti proposes to do is to cover the subsidy largely by fresh luxury imposts and a further tax on wine. Recent inquiry showed that the average daily consumption per head among the workingmen of upper Italy amounts to three pints.

Senate Debates Strike.

ROME, Sept. 25.—The Senate tonight, in a long and heated debate, discussed the internal situation of the country. Senator Tanari, in the course of the debate, declared the Government must protect the right to work, which was as legitimate as the right to strike, and prevent the renewal of the excesses which had recently occurred, excesses which, he declared, would dishonor any political or economical struggle.

"Those who opposed the war are the same who today are trying to drag the country into civil war," he exclaimed. "In the Province of Bologna alone in the last few months there have been 200 cases of incendiarism and likewise disorders, persecutions and boycotts, with the loss of 50,000 tons of fodder and 60,000 tons of wheat."

Senator Spirito expressed regret that the Government had not intervened before it did in the recent metallurgic dispute and prevented excesses. He pointed to the reports showing bombs exploded, safes robbed, illegal tribunals instituted by workmen and other acts which offended the authority of the State, all without action by the judicial authorities, who, indeed, had arrested the anarchist Malatesta, but had released him the next day with apologies.

"It is impossible to admit neutrality when such conditions prevail," the Senator continued. "When the Government does not interfere between the violator of the laws and his victim it is not neutral, but sides with the former. What has the Government done when men arbitrarily and violently have occupied plants, kidnapped persons and formed a Red Guard which threatened, wounded, killed or disarmed soldiers and officers?"

Senator Spirito expressed the hope that the War Minister would court-martial ten officers who had been guilty of cowardice in allowing themselves to be disarmed by the Red Guards in Turin. War Minister Bonomi interrupted at this point, declaring that the reports were not exact.

Signor Ferraris, former Minister of Industries, said a report was in circulation, especially abroad, that the Government was preparing ground for the transfer of industries from capitalism to socialism. "All this," he said, "is grave, especially because the Government has not safeguarded the rights of all and has allowed crimes."

Signor Ferraris, continuing, said the masters had been imposed upon by all, by the Government and by the men. The situation was aggravated by the fact that the Government orders justified the Government's neutrality and confessed its impotence.

Dealing with the industrial situation in an interview in the Giornale D'Italia today, former Premier Orlando declared that on the face of the proposition he did not believe there was absolute incompatibility between the idea of private property and the fact of the workmen's control of the factories.

"It is not impossible," said Signor Orlando, "to form a company where one factor contributes work and another capital. If it is realized that mutual interest gives, in itself, the right of control, it is easy to deduce that the recent affirmation of the workingmen's rights may constitute a bold reform, but does not upset existing rights. Therefore if the establishment of control has the effect, on the one hand, of bringing about social peace, and, on the other, of causing increased production, it may be called advantageous.

"If the newly gained control increases the sense of responsibility in both the workmen and the employers, uniting these two essential elements of production in a common vision of the common interests, the national economy cannot fail to gain through it. In the present paradoxical situation in Italy this phenomenon, considered by itself, indicates the high grade of the political development of its people. Certainly the methods adopted clearly had a revolutionary character, but just for that reason is not the fact that a revolutionary movement has been overcome by the means of discussion and agreement a proof of power in a people?"

To Test State Search Law.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 26.—An action to test the validity of the State Search and Seizure law from a new angle will be heard before Judge Benjamin Baker in this city Tuesday. Acting under the State law, officers seized a quantity of alleged liquor on the premises of Eva Pallilen, and her attorney, Peter J. McManus, contends the seizure was without legal right or force because the Volstead law, which is supreme, does not provide for search and seizure.

War Veterans in Box Cars Travel to Legion Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—A score of World War veterans left here today in a box car for the national convention of the American Legion at Cleveland, traveling exactly as they did when they were soldiers in France. All are members of the Voiture Nationale la Société des 40 Hommes, 8 Chevaux, or the National Vehicle, the Society of 40 Men or 8 Horses, named after the signs appearing on the box cars in France, made to hold eight horses or forty men during the war. The car was attached to a regular Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train.

On the way to Cleveland the delegation will pick up other freight cars containing members of the organization in towns along the way. By the time the convention city is reached members of the party said they expected to have a good sized train of box cars filled with former soldiers.

AMERICANS FIGURE IN SCOTS' DRY FIGHT

Wets Bring Over Chicago Speakers to Combat "Pussyfoot" Johnson.

HOT CAMPAIGN IS WAGED

Wet Leader Says Apathy Brought Prohibition Here, and He Is Taking No Chances.

Copyright, 1920, By The Chicago Tribune Co.

EDINBURGH, Sept. 26.—America is destined to bear more than her share of the prohibition fight in Scotland. Whether Scotland goes dry, wet, or merely moist, Americans on either side will bear much of the responsibility.

On the dry side is "Pussyfoot" Johnson, who has just arrived in England, and is expected in Scotland in a week or ten days to take charge of the speaking campaign.

The wet side's star speakers are C. A. Windle, editor of Brann's Iconoclast, Chicago, and Mrs. Minona Jones, President of the Race Betterment League, Chicago. Both are speaking nightly all over Scotland, and the wets are trying to arrange a debate between "Pussyfoot" Johnson and Mr. Windle.

The wet campaign is in charge of H. Earnshaw, whose headquarters are in Edinburgh and who has organized the greatest campaign ever known in Scotland. At these headquarters I found complete confidence that there would be nothing worse than a reduction of the number of saloons in most Scottish districts.

The organizer told me that, of course, the Scottish women's vote was an incalculable factor, but he was making a special appeal to women. For instance, they have supplied grocers with 4,000,000 paper bags inscribed "Prohibition means higher cost of living," and pointing out the high price of sugar as a result of the extra consumption in dry America. Every whisky, beer, and wine bottle carries the label "Temperance is strength; Prohibition is slavery; vote no change."

Every blank wall in Scotland is covered with posters, some very clever, appealing against prohibition. One represents a kilted Scot kicking an ascetic Uncle Sam back to America. "Are you going to allow Yankee cranks to run our country? No. Send them home."

Fifty thousand posters of various sizes have been issued and 12,000,000 leaflets, millions of labels, tags, and cards for personal use. As far as publicity is concerned, the Wets are away ahead of the Drys, both in quality and quantity.

Every effort is concentrated on the women's vote. In Edinburgh alone, which has a population of about 350,000, the women's vote is 13,294 ahead of the men's vote. Women canvassers are being employed to go from house to house emphasizing the loss of work, higher cost of living, dearer food, etc., which are alleged to have been caused by prohibition in America, and a similar result would be sure in Scotland. As most grocers in Scotland do a bottle trade in liquor, they also are enlisted as wet propagandists.

"We realize," said Mr. Earnshaw this morning, "that the chief cause of the prohibition in America is apathy, and we are determined it will not happen here."

Dry headquarters is a contrast in inactivity. Glasgow headquarters yesterday was only half-staffed because of the holidays and the Edinburgh offices were closed today for the same reason.

Banker's Son Is Thrown and Then Dragged by Animal on Father's Estate.

BAY SHORE, L. I., Sept. 26.—Halcourt Hutton, 19 years old, son of Edward F. Hutton, senior member of the firm of E. F. Hutton & Co., bankers and brokers, of New York City, died this morning in the hospital of Dr. George S. King, in Bay Shore, of injuries he received last evening while riding a horse on his father's estate on Saxons Avenue between Bay Shore and Islip. The horse, which he was exercising, stumbled and fell on him and then got up and dragged him some distance, fracturing his skull. An operation was performed by Dr. King, assisted by Dr. Fred Tilney and Dr. George David Stewart, of New York City.

Hutton was to have entered Yale next month. His father has owned a country home here for many years, the estate being one of the largest and most attractive in this section.

CALIFORNIA ISSUE WORRIES JAPAN

OKUMA OPPOSES SECRECY

Minister Uchida Confers with Field Marshl Yamagata, Supreme Military Councilor.

SIBERIAN MASSACRE DENIED

American Commission Asserts Japanese Started Report to Excuse Seizure of Territory.

TOKIO, Sept. 26 (Associated Press).—Negotiations between the Japanese and United States Governments with reference to the immigration question are entering "the serious stage," Baron Sakatani, former Minister of Finance, has informed the Roseikai Party in the House of Peers, reporting an interview with Viscount Uchida, the Foreign Minister.

Asserting that this was the only statement concerning the negotiations which it was possible to disclose, Baron Sakatani quoted the Foreign Minister as saying that both Governments were making the utmost effort to arrive at an amicable settlement.

An attack against secrecy in connection with the California problem is made in a statement by Marquis Okuma, former Premier. He demands that the Government respond to national opinion, which should be awakened to the gravity of the issues.

The presence of 100,000 industrious Japanese is no menace to America, says the Marquis; the real menace is from the anarchists and Bolsheviki who are flocking into the United States from Europe.

After pointing out that many Japanese subscribed to the American Liberty Loans and made donations to the Red Cross and that some of them volunteered for service with the army, Marquis Okuma declares:

"We must appeal to the fair judgment of enlightened Americans, and if necessary, to the nations of the world. Moreover, there is ample ground for the Japanese to insist on their legal rights, so there is no need to jump at hasty conclusions and try high-handed measures."

The newspaper Yomi-Uri today quotes Viscount Shibusawa, President of the American-Japan Society, as admitting that the question of appointing a High Commission to deal with the problems between the two countries is being considered, but saying he would recommend to Premier Hara that the result of the referendum in California be awaited. In the event of its being unfavorable, he added, he thought that representative Japanese should go to America and discuss the problem with men like former President Taft and Frank W. Vanderlip.

Personally, Viscount Shibusawa is quoted as adding, he believed the extension of the naturalization privilege to the Japanese in California would be the best solution of the difficulty, as they and their posterity would thus escape "further persecution" by Americans.

Foreign Minister Uchida went to Odawara today and conferred with regard to the California question with Field Marshal Yamagata, Supreme Military Councilor and President of the Privy Council.

SIBERIAN MASSACRE DENIED.

Report Started by Japanese to Excuse Occupation, Says K. C. Official.

The version of an American eyewitness of what happened in the city of Vladivostok immediately after the withdrawal of the American Expeditionary Force was told yesterday by Garry McGarry, who for two years was the Director General and Commissioner to Siberia for the Knights of Columbus. His statement, backed by facts, he said, makes known for the first time "the truth about the Japanese moves following the so called massacde" at Nikolayevsk, and resulted in their occupying certain Russian territory.

Director McGarry, who returned Friday on ahe Mauretania, left Vladivostok June 30, 1920. At that time, he asserted, there was no change in the Japanese attitude concerning their military policy in the occupied territory.

"It will be recalled from reports already known that the Japanese commanders contended that they had acted in defense against an unexpected attack from Soviet forces, following the killing of Japanese at Nikolayevsk, which they referred to as a massacre. So far as we could learn there was no attack on the Japanese at that time at any point. The only 'massacre' was that we saw from my quarters, when innocent and inoffensive and unarmed persons were shot down in the street by Japanese soldiers.

"As to the happenings in our immediate quarter of Vladivostok, the Japanese claimed it had started from a revolution beginning with an attack on a military garage there. Up to the time of this alleged attack we had seen no armed forces of any kind, except the Japanese. The last unit of the American forces, under command of Major Gen. William S. Graves, had boarded the steamer Great Northern on April 1. All of the other allied commands had long before made their departures.

"Within ten minutes after the supposed attack on the garage, at 10 o'clock on the night of April 4, Japanese troops were out in force. They occupied all the principal streets from the railway station to and commanding approaches to public buildings within a radius of probably one mile, and afterward I heard that the Japanese military was spread over a much larger territory.

"The only persons we had seen on the streets previous to the Japanese fire were unarmed civilians. Some of them were shot down without a warning.

"The most significant feature connected with this military aggression by the Japanese was the sudden appearance of the Japanese flag on top of the same building in which were situated the American Consulate offices.

"Three American officers had remained behind to dispose of the final affairs of their departed command. They were Colonel Winterburn of the General Staff; Major Dixon, paymaster, and Captain O'Toole, Embarkation Officer. Colonel Winterburn sent for the Japanese Commander, Yamada, and demanded to know the reason for the attack, following so closely the evacuation by the American forces. The Japanese officer said they were defending themselves from a general attack, but the only evidence he could give for this was based on the alleged attack on the Japanese garage.

"As a matter of fact, all the armed Russians, warned by their leaders to give no excuse to the Japanese for seizing territory, had marched out of Vladivostok at the beginning of the shooting. My personal opinion and observation convince me that the whole move was engineered by the Japanese for the sole purpose of seizing Russian territory, a military and political move that was entirely successful."

THE SCREEN

Alexandre Bisson's "Madame X." as transferred to the screen, is, as might be expected, a work of many words, and many scenes meaningless without them. It is not so much a play in moving pictures as a printed play with animated illustrations. But it is probable that most of those who go to the Capitol Theatre this week will find it interesting, because its illustrations are good, well composed and competently directed by Frank Llyod, and excellently acted in by Pauline Frederick, William Courtleigh, Casson Ferguson, Sidney Ainsworth, Lionel Belmore, Willard Louis, Cesare Gravina, Maud George and the others of the cast.

Also, the story has something in its favor. Artificial as it is, unlikely as its people and situations are, it is, nevertheless, dramatic in its crises, and, as told, is persuasive. On the supposition that the story says, "If such things and such people could be, they would be thus," there will be few to disagree. This story, as many no doubt know, is about a woman who is turned from her home and child by a jealous husband, and so "driven," according to the accepted view of the case, into the obscurity of an underworld from which she emerges twenty years later as the murderer of a man who wished to injure her son. When brought to trial she is defended by the son, who learns that she is his mother only after he has obtained her acquittal by a fervid plea for mercy. And then the story wins its own hypothetical case by going resolutely to its only possible happy ending. In many movies the woman, who in twenty years had become a drug addict and lost all her ined instincts except those arising from the embers of love for her child, would have been miraculously restored to physical and moral health so that she might again become the wife of her husband and the mother of her son. But "Madame X" is truer than that to itself—and, appropriately and happily, the woman dies at the point where the future becomes impossible.

Pauline Frederick deserves credit twice for her impersonation of Madame X, first for undertaking to play at all a part offering so few of the "attractions" that interest most "stars," and second for the way she plays it. Whatever the story has of life, however persuasive it is, is due as much to her performance as to everything else combined. In makeup and acting she gives Madame X definiteness, and, by her restraint avoids the ever present danger of letting her become simply a burlesque tragedy queen. This characterization is one of the best pieces of work the talented Miss Frederick has done.

Also on the Capitol program this week is "Marimba Land," a Prizma scenic of Guatemala, and Hy Mayer's latest Travelaugh, "Such Is City Life In Summer."

James Oliver Curwood's "Nomads of the North," at the Strand this week, is a photoplay of the wide outdoors. This is always something to say for a picture. Its story may be as preposterous as most Western, and, after a prevailing fashion, Northwestern, melodramas are, but if it brings enough of mountain and plain, of forest and sea, to the little square of a city screen, it has done a service that must be acknowledged. And if, as in the present instance, its pictures are strikingly well made, if its scenes have been chosen and photographed with discrimination and skill, the service is acknowledged with more appreciation. So the first valid claim of "Nomads of the North" is based on its scenery, especially on its stirring pictures of a storm and a forest fire, and if some of its views of a settlement at night seem too obviously studio-made, they are brief and not disturbing among so much that compels assent to its reality.

The actors in the picture are suited to its story. All o fthem, at times overdo their parts, especially Betty Blythe and Lon Chaney in the leading roles, but these two, and the others, make amends for their strained and heavy scenes by sure and vivid acting in others. Among the principals of the cast are Lewis S. Stone (who never offends), Francis MacDonald, Melbourne MacDowell and Spottiswood Aitkin. Also to be included among the actors are a dog and a bear cub, whose performance is entertaining except in some scenes which, it seems, could not have been made without an unpleasant degree of cruelty to the animals. The production was directed by David M. Hartford.

Godowsky and Rosen at Lexington.

The second of the Sunday night concerts which the Musical Bureau of America is sponsoring at the Lexington took place at that theatre last night before anoher large audience. The artists were Leopold Godowsky and Max Rosen, who offered as the feature of the program their joint rendition of Cesar Franck's Sonata in A Major. Mr. Rosen played two of Mr. Godowsky's compositions in his final group. Both the pianist and the violinist were forced to respond to a number of unprogrammed encores. The concert next Sunday night will have Leo Ornstein and Helen Yorke as its artists.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Another Owen Davis Play.

MARRY THE POOR GIRL, a farce in three acts, by Owen Davis. At the Little Theatre.

Morgan	Wilbur Braun
Steve Ripley	William David
Tom Harrison	Frank Allworth
Kittie Porter	Frances Mann
Mrs. Paddington	Gertrude Maitland
Wallace Paddington	Halbert Brown
Julia Paddington	Isabelle Lowe
Jack Tanner	William Roselle
Bradley Littlefield	Harold de Becker
Ann Winsted	Ninita Bristow
Rev. Carlton Gibbs	Stapleton Kent
Rose Cary	Beatrice Noyes
Sara Grogan	Mrs. Anna O'Connor
The Boy	Raymond O'Connor
The Girl	Agnes O'Connor
The Baby	Still Another O'Connor

When it is remembered with what fine dreams Winthrop Ames built the Little Theatre a few years ago, it is curious and a little depressing to find it reopening for the season with such an ordinary and somewhat rowdy farce as "Marry the Poor Girl," the new Owen Davis play which was revealed there for the first time on Saturday night. It is a fair-to-middling piece of fooling, made to seem rather less than that by the helter-skelter production and hammer-and-tongs performance to which it has been subjected.

This play, which has come to the Little Theatre under the Morosco regime, is one of those house-party farces, where some one gets into the wrong room and sets all the gossips in the place a-gabbling. A forced marriage, several bogus wives brought in for his protection, elaborate collusion for divorce and similar didoes fill up the evening, with the lady in the case saying "I hate you, I hate you" between her prettily clenched teeth till eleven o'clock comes, and it's time for the audience to go home.

The man's role is agreeably played by William Roselle, and Isabelle Lowe carries on with spirit and humor as the compromised damsel. For most of the rest of the company, it is impossible to speak with great enthusiasm, though it was quite obvious at the first performance that they had all been badly directed, banging away at every point with incredible vigor. Here was almost an entire company acting away in the cosy Little Theatre for all the world as though they were under the impression that Mr. Morosco had booked the piece at the Manhattan Opera House. There was not a whimsy of the playwright or a nuance of the playing that would have been lost on some one sitting in the last row of the top gallery at the Manhattan.

It can scarcely be said that a masterpiece has thus been sacrificed, but it can be said that Mr. Davis's play deserved better treatment. As productions average in the run of a season nowadays, our playwrights expect and receive rather mire discerning and fastidious productions than that accorded "Marry the Poor Girl."

"Miss Brady is enormously interesting to watch and hear. She is graphic, sensitive, eloquent—an inevitably dramatic person—very fine acting indeed." Alexander Woollcott, Times.

"The very best work of her career—stamping herself as an artist of immense value with newly acquired charm that was perfectly irresistible—achieved positive glory in this play—will be a great dramatic force to be reckoned with—won nothing but sincerest admiration." Alan Dale, American.

"The memory of her as Anna, the ambitious young Syrian, will linger with theatregoers long after this dramatic season has melted away. Other stars must look to their laurels. Let them dust their wreaths of glory. Let them freshen them as best they can with the sweat of hard work, or she will soon outstrip them, for Miss Brady is ascending." Stephen Rathbun, Evening Sun.

"Alice Brady reaches another milestone in her remarkable career. 'Anna Ascends,' and Miss Brady ascends with her to greater heights as an artist in the theatre. In the intensity of her performance, in its rich variety, in its emotional power, her presentation of the role of Anna is the best thing she has done so far. The new play has scenes of genuine dramatic power." Robert G. Welch, Evening Telegram.

"The part of the heroine was well suited to Miss Brady. She has become an actress of unusual resource. If her admirers loved 'Forever After' for two years, there is no reason why they should not find pleasure in the new means of displaying her popular talents. She was always successful." Lawrence Reamer, Sun-Herald.

"Keep her on the speaking stage, which is badly in need of the fine talent that she has at her command." Louis V. De Foe, World.

"It gives Alice Brady a part to put her teeth into—acts with fine vividness." Kenneth McGowan, Globe.

"Sure of success—affords Miss Brady unlimited opportunities to display her skill as an emotional actress." Evening Journal.

"It was magnificent." S. Jay Kaufman, Globe.

It Is Wonderful Because It Is True

After all, truth is the most wonderful thing about art. Seeking truth, William Fox has drawn back the curtains of drama and let us see life itself. It passes before us on the screen, pulsing, throbbing, a living thing. Through smiles and tears we behold and wonder. Every man, woman and child, seeing, has praised it because it made him feel, made him alive.

Every critic in Greater New York has praised this thing and called it great, because it is true. This wonderful thing is a drama of love-divine, made from Will Carleton's poem.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Price Cuts Reveal Business Capitulation to Consumers' Attitude—Easing Money Situation.

One important result of last week's sharp reduction of wholesale and retail prices was the removal of all doubt about the current tendency of business. The manufacturer and wholesaler who clung through the Summer to the expectation of an improvement of consumption at going prices, or higher ones, during the Autumn, has had his hopes upset. The public, by steadily refraining from more purchases than necessity demanded, pointed the true path for the producer and distributor, beginning last May; but it remained for a concentration of price cuts of 17 to more than 25 per cent. in products of two motor car companies of 10, 20, and even 45 per cent. in offerings of leading mail order houses, and the marking down of one-third of old quotations by a prominent cotton goods company to show that consumers were seeking something more far reaching than casual declines of prices. Now that the price movement is clearly defined, after being in a rather hazy state for three months, the business tendency is to discover what the future holds forth. Mr. Ford, in lowering the price of his car, said frankly that materials bought at high levels would show a loss until they were worked up. There are scores and hundreds of manufacturers in the same situation as Mr. Ford. And whether or not they believe that the automobile maker took too drastic a step in his short cut to normal business conditions, the fact remains that they, like him, have one of two choices to make. Either they can maintain listed quotations, see production dull and overhead charges rise, or they can cut prices, work to stimulate sales and be content with moderate profits—perhaps no profits at all for a time—and witness a gradual reduction of costs as trade expands again. Generally speaking, reports from centres of manufacture and sale indicate that most producers of goods have a choice to make. The business reaction is not, however, spread about evenly; it would be surprising if it was, for there are shortages of goods in some lines, goods of an essential character, the demand for which militates against substantial price declines for some time to come. But the great task of industry at present is to find a price basis at which the public will abandon its "strike" against purchases, and the latest developments show that the hesitant, hoping against hope variety of price shading is rapidly being supplanted by a genuine effort to break away from the inflated business structure of 1919. From what may be gathered in financial and business circles, the heads of corporations, large and small, are trying to determine what the situation will be next Spring, believing that readjustments of prices and manufacturing schedules during the Winter will produce a stabilized basis for doing business.

The easier money rates of the last week might be too easily grasped as a sign that the strain of Autumn requirements is on the wane. There is small doubt but that reaction in business and the alteration of plans respecting future production has lessened the demand upon credit and money to an extent not expected two or three months ago. Speculation in commodities and securities has also been greatly reduced and the sharp declines of grain and cotton of late show that the process is still going on in some directions. In the view of not a few bankers, the efforts of themselves, in co-operation with Federal Reserve Bank officials, from last November through the Winter and Spring to restrain the undue use of credit, is having the desired result. It is generally believed now that the task of gathering the crops and of marketing them later will not impose any burdensome load upon the banks. The demand expected from borrowers in industry has not reached the extent looked for. Yet the fact that time loans have eased slightly in the last fortnight does not carry a guarantee that the tendency will prevail uninterruptedly until the average levels of last year have been arrived at, or even lower figures. The high point of the agricultural demand is reached in normal times in October. At present it is possible that the decline of call and time money quotations at New York has a close relationship with the Government operations of Sept. 15. The Treasury at that date paid off some $640,000,000 of 4½ per cent. certificates which were held in great part by banks throughout the country. The new offering of $450,000,000 of certificates payable coincident with the liquidation of the old issue bears 5¾ and 6 per cent., and these higher rates, it is understood, have aided in a wider distribution among investors than the preceding issue enjoyed. This would mean a lessened absorption of bank funds, while the fact that the latest offering was substantially smaller than the one retired indicates an increase of free money for lending on call or time. Should these funds be absorbed in commercial undertakings or be needed for crop purposes, it is conceivable that money for borrowing on securities as collateral will grow harder before there is an appreciable release of loans in the interior through the marketing of grain and cotton.

The bond market is laying stress upon the shading of money rates, and the scale of purchases for some days past denoted expectation of a growing ease of credit cost. During the later years of the war, and afterward, the course of bond prices appeared to be directed downward by the rising prices of commodities and by the absorption of credit in Government operations. Now that the movement of commodities is the other way and the Treasury has reduced its needs, it would be natural to find a real reflection of the change in bond market prices. Investors who were attracted by the large dividends paid by industrial stocks during the boom years are finding that such returns are more uncertain and in many cases reduced, with the result that funds are flowing into bonds which have a fixed return. Supplementing these influences of a sort to expand bond market activity is the speculative buying, reported on a growing scale, which is induced by the feeling that the cost of carrying good securities on credit is receding and also, in case of railroad issues, by thought of a strengthened position of railroad bonds due to the increased freight and passenger rates. Since May 1, when signs of business reaction became plainly noticeable, the average price of twenty-five railway bonds on the Stock Exchange has advanced from 63.38 to 69.49, more than half of this improvement of 6.11 points being produced in the last month.

Crude Oil Situation Serious

The United States is confronted with a most serious problem. For the nine months prior to May 1, 1920, the consumption of crude oil has exceeded production by 55,931 barrels daily. Requirements for 1921 indicate 50% increase for the U. S. Shipping Board; the automobile demands it is believed will be in excess of any figures yet attained.

The curtailment of credits in the oil fields by the banks is being reflected by many operators shutting down the drilling of wells. Well established companies who are in position to continue their drilling campaigns from now on will profit by these conditions, as any interference with the production of crude will likely show its effects in high prices.

PRICE RECESSION EXPECTED IN STEEL

MILLS CLEANING UP FAST

Better Car Service Enabling Rapid Removal of the Stock Accumulations of Many Months.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—There has been a greater improvement in railroad transportation conditions than seems to be generally realized. The large stocks of steel at mills have been reduced by two-thirds or more, some observers insisting that the stocks are practically all cleaned up. The great increase in deliveries is sufficient to account for the dullness that has prevailed of late in the market for steel for prompt shipment. Many consumers are receiving enough to meet their current requirements and at the same time build up some stocks. At the same time the situation is by no means entirely satisfactory. Mills still experience serious car shortages at times, while there have been various short time embargoes. There is some disappointment over the refusal of the authorities to modify the coal mine car preference order in the direction of releasing for general service flat bottom gondolas between thirty-eight and forty-two inches high. The steel interests estimated that about 25,000 gondolas would be released. As it is, the coal mine preference has been continued indefinitely, and the definition of what constitutes a "coal car" is unaltered.

The monthly report of the Bridge Builders' and Structural Society shows bookings of fabricated steel contracts in August equal to 40 per cent. of a month's fabricating capacity, this comparing with 50 per cent. for July and an average of 72 per cent. during the first six months of the year. It appears, however, that a larger proportion of the construction work is in reinforced concrete than formerly, with a smaller proportion in skeleton steel construction.

Cancellations of steel orders by the automobile trade and instructions to suspend shipments on contracts have now run nearly their full course, and the steel producers have made the little readjustments necessary. A great slowing down in automobile building means little in point of total steel demand. An outside estimate is that the automobile industry running full throughout could engage only about 7 per cent. of the steel making capacity. The steel mills, with scarcely an exception, are well filled with orders, even after the recent cancellations, some for the balance of this year, while the United States Steel Corporation is well booked into the new year.

There is no substantial activity in pig iron in any district, and in some places, including the local district, the market is absolutely stagnant. The universal view among consumers is that prices are marked for a substantial recession. It would be unprecedented for the pig iron market to continue advancing, when it has already had an advance amounting to about 75 per cent. The market remains quotably firm, but altogether nominal, at the following figures: Bessemer, $48.50; basic, $48.50; foundry, $50; malleable, $50.

Connellsville coke is less active than it was a few weeks ago, but the market for spot furnace coke holds up to $16.50 or $17. In the case of foundry coke some operators have their prices pegged at the old levels, but buyers have more opportunity to shop around and usually have been able to buy ordinary grades at $17.50.

There is absolutely nothing doing in the market for slabs. The matter of price may help to prevent possible consumers from being interested, but in general the condition is that of there being no demand for plates such as would be made from purchased slabs. Old quotations may be named as nominally representing the market, in the absence of anything better. The former quotations are $60 to $70, Pittsburgh. In the last few weeks there has been a very heavy movement of billets on old contracts, due chiefly to the improvement in transportation conditions, and it is believed that nearly all of the accumulations of billets have now been moved.

Small billets are not much in request, but would probably be difficult to obtain. There are a very few mills that make a regular range of sizes and particularly the 1½-inch, usually the one in greatest demand. Steel ingot capacity has increased 45 to 50 per cent. since the war started, but capacity to roll small billets does not seem to have increased at all, and with the heavy demand there has been right along for rods most of the makers of small billets consume more of their own product than they used to do, for more than half the mills able to roll small billets have rod mills also.

Sheet bars are in rather light demand just now, after the activity reported a week ago, while a number of mills are prepared to offer sheet bars. Sheet bars are still held at a considerable extra above billets, but, according to mill quotations, the average mill would much prefer to sell sheet bars rather than billets, the orders being much more convenient and affording good runs for the mill.

An outstanding feature in the scrap situation is the insistence of consumers on heavy deliveries against contracts. This applies not only to old contracts, but also to purchases just made. The Steel Corporation has again been in the heavy melting steel market this week, for the fourth time since the beginning of August. Purchases amount to over 25,000 tons and the price paid was $29.50. Some dealers estimate the total bought by the Steel Corporation for mills in the Monongahela Valley in the last six weeks at fully 150,000 tons. A sale of rerolling rails is reported at $42, delivered, but this price is considered exceptional. Still, the market can be quoted at $40 to $41, a dollar above last week's figures. Railroad malleable is quotable at $33 to $34. Cast borings are yielding a little, with sales this week at $20.

Demand for tubular goods shows no slackening whatever as regards requirements against contracts. This applies to oil country goods, standard pipe for jobbers and practically all tubular goods. As to new buying, the leading interest could sell a great deal more than it is doing, but this is naturally due to its prices being so much below those of the independents. The latter report a fair demand on an average, but not a great deal of buying pressure, except in the case of oil country goods. The demand for standard steel pipe has not declined, as expected by the trade owing to the decrease of building activity, and mills are still being urged to make deliveries against contracts on pipe.

There has been very little decline in demand for steel bars and it cannot be said that the market is yet placed on a really competitive basis. Mills are making quotations in accordance with their own individual position rather than with an eye on the market situation, as they are not in the position of needing additional business to keep in operation. The larger sizes of bars are readily obtained for early deliveries, while the smaller sizes are hard to get. Construction work in general is at a low ebb and is going still lower, according to the showing of fabricated steel contracts. When the steel bar market is quoted the reference is usually to the smaller sizes. This market may be quoted at 3c to 3.50c. The Steel Corporation price is, of course, at the old figure of 2.35c.

The outstanding feature of the sheet market is that the cancelations and suspensions by the automobile industry have not made sheets plentiful. The mills are producing at a higher rate than formerly, yet their own customers gladly take all the deliveries that can be made. Operations in the sheet industry may be safely estimated at approximately 85 per cent. of capacity. The leading interest is out of the market and will not be back until it opens books for first half contracts, unless it should take on a little conversion business against some mills that would otherwise be idle. The independents seem to be sold on an average not only through this year, but into January. However, some of them are willing to book orders for shipment to begin within a few weeks. On such business in black sheets prices average in the neighborhood of 7c, while on galvanized the price seems to be fairly uniform at 8.75c.

The independent tin plate mills have increased their operations somewhat this week and now show an 85 to 90 per cent. rate, with the leading interest doing a shade less than this. Demand for tin plate shows various conditions. There is a strong pressure for delivery against all contracts in force. As to new buying, this is a matter of price. Nearly all of the independents seem to feel that the market price is $9, at which there is not a particularly heavy demand, but the season price is really $7 and considerable tonnage could be sold at that figure with a small premium attached.

Big Demand for Generators.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has issued a statement to the effect that in the last three months it has received orders from various power companies for more than 500,000,000 horse power of turbine generators, the largest volume of business of this character ever placed with a single manufacturer by private interests. The company states that the production of these generators and their installation will go quite a distance in restoring the power production of the country to a normal condition.

COMMUNITY TRUST AIDING CHARITIES

It Will Care for Gifts and Disburse the Incomes for Public Purposes.

BANKERS ARE IN CHARGE

One United States Circuit Judge Sits with Distribution Committee.

The New York Community Trust, which has been functioning here for some time, has as its purpose the encouragement and promotion of gifts for charitable, benevolent and educational uses. Persons desiring to give for these purposes during life or under their wills may place their gifts in trust with a trust company or bank of their own choosing, provided only that the institution chosen is a member of the New York Community Trust.

Disbursement of the income from such gifts is controlled by a Distribution Committee of eleven residents of the community in which the trust functions, who have been chosen for their knowledge of the needs of the community. Six of them are chosen by the President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, the Mayor of New York, the President of the Association of the Bar, the President of the Academy of Medicine, the President of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the senior Circuit Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and five members are chosen by the Trustees' Committee.

Frank J. Parsons, Vice President of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, is Acting Director of the trust, and Alvin W. Krech, President of the Equitable Trust Company of New York, is Chairman of the Trustees' Committee. The Trustees include the Equitable, Columbia, New York, Metropolitan, Manufacturers, Kings County, Mercantile, Fidelity-International, American, Hamilton, Commercial, Hudson, United States Mortgage and Trust, Title Guarantee and Trust and Lawyers Title and Trust Companies, and the Irving, the American Exchange and Harriman National Banks and the Bank of America.

SAYS COAL FAMINE DANGER IS AVERTED

Coal Association Believes That an Adequate Winter Supply Is Assured.

OUTPUT BECOMING NORMAL

But Railroads Must Meet the Demands for Two Months to Realize the Officials' Hopes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—With improvement in the labor situation, the strikes having ended in the soft coal district and conditions becoming normal in the anthracite regions, there is every evidence that there will be no shortage of coal this Winter, either for manufacturing or domestic purposes. Indications are that the labor disturbances are over, and that if the railroads can supply sufficient cars in the next two months no section of the country need suffer from an inadequate supply of coal.

The production of soft coal for the week ended Sept. 18, according to a report issued today by the Geological Survey, was the largest, with one exception, since January. Because of the continued "vacation strike" in the hard coal region the production of hard and soft coal combined was much below the average of August. The output of soft coal for the week ended Sept. 18 was 11,614,000 net tons, while only 13,604 cars of hard coal was shipped in this week. There was a general resumption of mining in the hard coal fields, beginning last Monday.

The bituminous coal operators hope to attain a weekly output of 12,000,000 tons from now until Dec. 1, according to an announcement made today by the National Coal Association. If this can be reached and sufficient cars are available, it is believed that the entire country will be supplied with coal before the Winter begins.

"That the operators easily can attain an output of 12,000,000 tons a week, with sufficient car supply, is a demonstrated fact," says the National Coal Association statement. "During October of last year, preceding the miners' strike, production averaged 12,081,750 tons a week. In the week of Oct. 25 of that year 13,092,000 tons were produced. The highest production for any week during the present stringency was 11,813,000, during the week of Aug. 14. The average for the last two months has been approximately 10,100,000 tons a week.

"Through the co-operation of operators, the railroads and distributors, the New England situation has been cleared up so that danger of a coal famine this Winter no longer exists. Ample coal is at the disposal of New England distributors to supply the immediate wants of New England consumers. The outstanding difficulty with the New England situation at this time is lack of railroad fuel for storage for the Winter's use. This is now being straightened out."

Announcement

ABOUT OCTOBER 1, 1920, THE BUSINESS HERETOFORE CONDUCTED BY THE BOND DEPARTMENT OF THE GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK WILL BE TAKEN OVER BY THE

GUARANTY COMPANY OF NEW YORK

THIS SEPARATION of the activities of the Trust Company is one of corporate organization only. The Trust Company owns the entire capital stock of the Guaranty Company of New York, and in policy and management the new company will be the same as its predecessor, the Bond Department of the Guaranty Trust Company. The Guaranty Company will have the complete co-operation of the parent organization.

The Main Office of the Guaranty Company is at 140 Broadway, New York. It has branches in the other offices of the Guaranty Trust Company and in 28 cities throughout the country.

THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

Tax Refund in Pennsylvania and Tax Exempt in Michigan

A letter from the President of the Company, giving information regarding these Bonds, has been summarized by him as follows:

The Consumers Power Company, operating in lower Michigan, serves one of the most important and rapidly growing industrial sections of the entire country, with a present estimated population of 775,000.

The electric light and power business contributes more than 82% of the aggregate net earnings, the balance being derived principally from artificial gas operations.

The rated installed capacity of the electric generating stations in 202,000 horse-power, of which 101,000 horsepower is in water power plants. Over 54% of the past year's electrical output was delivered from hydro-electric stations.

The value of the property is very largely in excess of the outstanding bonds, which are followed by over $30,000,000 par value, debentures and dividend paying capital stocks.

General and Refunding Mortgage Bonds may be issued only for refunding purposes or for 75% of expenditures for additional property provided net earnings are at least twice the total annual mortgage bond interest charges, including interest on the Bonds then to be issued.

The General and Refunding Mortgage requires a large annual expenditure for maintenance, repairs, replacements and renewals, and in addition provides for a Sinking Fund of 1% per annum beginning in 1924.

Net earnings are over 2.2 times the annual interest charges on outstanding mortgage bonds including this issue.

Bonds are offered if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to authorization of issuance by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. It is anticipated that temporary Bonds will be ready for delivery on or about October 11, 1920

We recommend these Bonds for investment

The New York Community Trust

Created for the Encouragement and Promotion of Gifts for Charitable Benevolent or Educational Uses

Its Plan and Its Purposes

INDIVIDUALS desiring to give during their lifetime or under their will, any sum, large or small, to be devoted to charitable, benevolent or educational objects, either definitely determined in their own mind or without any well defined object, may place it in trust with a Trust Company or Bank of their own choosing, providing only it is a member of The New York Community Trust.

THE TRUST COMPANY OR BANK accepts the gift as trustee and becomes responsible for its investment and safe keeping. The disbursement of the income is controlled by a Distribution Committee of eleven citizens and residents of the community, selected for their knowledge of the educational, charitable or benevolent needs of the inhabitants of the community, six of the members being chosen one each by the President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, the Mayor of the City of New York, the President of the New York Academy of Medicine, the President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the President of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the senior Circuit Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and five members by the Trustees' Committee. Some of the members of the Distribution Committee pass out of office each year, so that the Committee is always representative of the current opinion of the times.

THE INCOME is distributed by the Trust Companies and Banks according to the directions of this Distribution Committee, either for the purposes designated by the respective donors, or if there be no designation, to such objects as the Committee may find to be most in harmony with the purposes of the Trust and the best interests of the Community.

THE PRINCIPAL ADVANTAGE in making charitable gifts through the Community Trust is that under the authority granted the Distribution Committee, the donors receive the assurance that if, by the lapse of years, the beneficiary charity has become obsolete, impracticable, or useless, the income from the gift will be devoted to some other object or purpose as nearly in line with their desires as possible, and this without unreasonable delay, expense or legal action.

THE NEW YORK COMMUNITY TRUST offers a new plan for the utilization of wealth and for its wise and efficient application to charitable, benevolent or educational purposes. A Booklet describing the Trust may be obtained from any of the Trustees or from the Acting Director.

The New Reduction in Prices of Commodities is additional evidence of the continued gradual return to a normal level of values.

Reductions in the unprecedented high yield for High Grade Investment Securities will follow and has not yet begun.

Now is the opportune time to carry this high income into a period when interest rates will undoubtedly be again normal, and values such as are described in our Letter W will no longer exist.

TELLS OF BIG PLANS OF U.S. STEEL ABROAD

London Writer Says It Is Combining with Foreign Interests to Get Europe's Trade.

AND BAR OUT THE BRITISH

Our Coal, Oil and Shipping Men Also Declared to be Scheming —Story Doubted Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The story of an alleged attempt by the United States Steel Corporation to control the supply of steel products to the Continent is published today by The Observer. It is displayed prominently, but printed with some reserve as "By a correspondent." Three important steps, the writer declares, have been taken recently toward establishing this control. He says:

"First, was the establishment in Germany of the 'Amstea,' which is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Products Corporation, the selling end of the United States Steel Trust. It is this new concern which has recently sold two lots of 40,000 tons and 35,000 tons of ship plates to German yards, and in course of time, will undoubtedly obtain further business from the same purchasers.

"But an even more important matter is the announcement of a combination of German, French and American intrests, having for its object the exclusion of British industry from the reconstruction of Europe. The parties concerned in this agreement are: In Germany, the Stinnes group, and Tyssen's, in France, the Schneider-Creusot interests and from America the United States Steel Corporation and National City Bank.

"Both these latter link up with the Standard Oil, which views with undisguised hostility attempts made by British industry to free itself from the Rockefeller ramifications. Connected with them again are powerful American coal interests which see in present conditions in Europe the opportunity of establishing permanent domination of these markets.

"The Standard Oil and Steel Trust are at the back of all this, and also of the Harriman-Dearborn-Hamburg American agreements.

"An example of what may happen is to be seen in negotiations which are reported from Reval to be in progress between representatives of the Amstea and the Esthonian Government. The latter has ordered from America a certain number of steel ships. American interests have now put a proposition before the Esthonian Government to purchase or lease one of the Reval shipbuilding yards to supply all the shipbuilding material required for these vessels and to build ships in Reval, where labor can be obtained substantially cheaper than in America.

"Not only, however, is this yard to become an American yard, or at least American controlled, but the intention is to make it the distributing centre for American steel products in the Baltic and an outpost of the American Bureau of Shipping. A further can tide to the proposed contract is the supplying of Esthonia with American coal for a period of years.

"It is only necessary to add that since the armistice French steel interests have invested very heavily in German iron and steel enterprises and acquired during the war considerable Spanish and Italian interests, all of which have been extended or are under extension now.

"Some while back, it is understood, British steel interests were invited to enter the international pool and declined. The arrangements now arrived at are presumably a reply to this independence."

Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, is in Europe and James A. Farrell, Presi- of the corporation was away from the city yesterday. In their absence, other officials declined to make any statement, although one of them said he did not place any credence in the story.

Other persons prominent in financial circles declared that they did not credit The Observer's story. One of them, a banker, asserted that he did not believe there was any basis for the report that the National City Bank was allied with the Steel Corporation in the deal, since the interests of the two had never been in the same channel.

HULBERT BRINGS DOCK PLAN

Says Systems in Europe Are Not Applicable to New York.

Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert returned from abroad Saturday night on the Red Star liner Finland after a sixty-day trip in England, France, Belgium and Germany to study port conditions. Twenty days of his trip were passed on the ocean and ten in traveling to the various countries by land, leaving him only two or three days in each port.

"My main reason," said Mr. Hulbert, "for going to Europe was to see how the cargoes were handled. The systems there deal with mechanical appliances, warehouses and open quays, with tidal docks which are built into the land. Geographical conditions in New York prevent us from following the European system.

"The Staten Island project, which is to be completed next Spring, is being constructed on lines similar to those in use in Europe. These piers will give the engineers the fullest opportunity of judging the best improvement over the old system in use along the North River front. This Staten Island development will be the largest project ever handled by the city and will help make New York one of the most modern ports in the world."

CURTISS EAGLE TRIES WINGS

Plane Carries 3,500 Pounds, Including Fuel, on Flight Over City.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 26.—The Eagle, a biplane owned by the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, built to carry ten passengers and 2,600 pounds of freight, today made its initial flight over New York after taking off at Curtiss Field. The plane, which has a 400-horsepower Liberty motor, carried five passengers, 1,164 pounds of sand, an amount of gasoline weighing 1,500 pounds, and oil weighing 80 pounds, the aggregate weight, including passengers, being about 3,500 pounds.

The plane, which was especially constructed for commercial or military transportation, is said by its owners to have a maximum lifting power, a speed of 105 miles an hour, and to carry enough fuel for a ten-hour flight.

No Government officials witnessed the flight today, but it was said that an effort would be made to have the Government use it for mail transportation.

URGES MORE HOUSES.

Reserve Board Recognizes the Need, Governor Tells Lumber Concern.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Federal Reserve Board recognizes "the urgent need for more houses for dwellings and business purposes," Governor Harding said in a letter to a lumber company which was made public by the Treasury tonight. Realizing that construction work now under way is not nearly great enough to fill requirements, he added, the Board has been careful not to place any restrictions on credit to the building industry.

"There can be no question that the production and distribution of the basic necessities of life, such as food, fuel and clothing, are essential," Mr. Harding said, "and it is obvious that shelter is also a fundamental necessity."

UPHOLDS NEW RENT LAWS.

Lockwood to Prepare Statement Explaining Their Purport.

Senator Charles C. Lockwood, Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing returned from Albany yesterday and said he had read with great interest the creticism of real estate interests and others directed against the work of the special session of the Legislature in passing the new rent relief bills. He said he would prepare a statement on the purport of the new laws.

A meeting of the Legislative Committee probably will be held later in the week, possibly Thursday. Plans will be made to take up at once the investigation into the alleged building material combine which is said to be fixing prices.

Municipal Court Justice Frederick Spiegelberg, who helped frame some of the bills enacted at the special session, said yesterday that the criticisms levelled at the Legislators were unjustified. He said that the Legislature was confronted with a critical situation wherein tenants were about to be evicted and it did its best in preventing such a condition.

Harold G. Aron, a realty lawyer, said the Legislature did a good piece of work in passing the rent emergency laws. He said the laws suggested by Mayor Hylan would have destroyed the city's credit.

The new rent laws will be discussed at two meetings tomorrow and Wednesday night by the residents of Inwood.

Transfer Foreign Razor Rights.

George L. Storm, Chairman of the Board of the American Safety Razor Corporation, announced yesterday that the Board of Directors had voted to transfer all of its foreign assets and rights to use automatic machinery, titles, trademarks and copyrights to the American Safety Razor Export Corporation, the entire capital stock of which is held by the first mentioned concern.

There is to be no commission or other compensation in any form payable to the Syndicate Underwriters.

3: The payment in cash upon the consummation of the Plan of one-third of unsecured claims and giving for the balance 7% notes of the New Company payable in one, two and three years in equal instalments.

4: The exchange of Class B stock of the New Company for existing stock deposited under the Plan at the following rates:

Maxwell	First Preferred	5 Shares Class B Stock
"	Second "	2½ " " " "
"	Common	1 " " " "
Chalmers	Preferred	6 " " " "
"	Common	1 " " " "

To accomplish the consummation of the Plan the cooperation of creditors and stockholders is necessary. To a large extent this has already been assured. Prompt action looking to the acceptance of the Plan by all concerned is most important.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement may be obtained from Central Union Trust Company of New York, Depositary, 80 Broadway, or from the members of the Committee or its secretary.

In order to obtain the benefits of the Plan, holders of stock of the various classes of the Maxwell Company and the Chalmers Company and of Trust Certificates representative thereof, and the holders of Notes of or claims against the Maxwell Company, must deposit their securities with CENTRAL UNION TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Depositary, at its office, 80 Broadway, New York City, before the close of business on OCTOBER 15, 1920. Stock and Trust Certificates must be endorsed in blank for transfer and bear all transfer stamps. Notes must be endorsed in blank without recourse. Claims must be accompanied by assignments thereof executed in the form prescribed by the Committee. Such forms of assignment may be obtained on application at the office of Central Union Trust Company of New York or from the secretary of the Committee. Certificates of Deposit will be issued against all deposits. Stock and Trust Certificates now on deposit under the Plan and Agreement of August 30, 1919, need not be redeposited as the same if not withdrawn within the time limited by that Plan and Agreement will be entitled to the benefits of the Plan and Agreement dated September 1, 1920, and will be irrevocably bound thereby.

In order to avail of the rights of purchase given to assenting stockholders under the Plan, holders of Certificates of deposit for stock or trust certificates must before the close of business on OCTOBER 15, 1920, present their certificates of deposit for proper stamping to Central Union Trust Company of New York as Depositary, at its office, 80 Broadway, New York City, and must make payment of 10% of the purchase price of the minimum amounts of Class A and Class B stock they are entitled to acquire under the Plan and which they elect to purchase. Upon such payment Subscription Warrants and Application Certificates will be issued as provided in the Plan. The following table gives the minimum rights of purchase under the Plan to depositing stockholders in respect of each share of stock deposited and the initial cash payment of 10% of the purchase price:

For 1 share of existing Stock Deposited		New Stock Class A	Class B	Cash Payment of 10% of Price
Maxwell	1st Preferred	.45	1.2	$4.50
"	2nd Preferred	.225	.6	2.25
"	Common	.09	.24	.90
Chalmers	Preferred	.54	1.44	5.40
"	Common	.09	.24	.90

Failure to so present certificates of deposit and to make said cash payment will forfeit all rights of depositing stockholders to make purchases of new stock under the Plan, but they will, notwithstanding any such failure, be entitled as and to the extent provided in the Plan to receive, upon its consummation, New Class B stock in exchange for existing stock.

Holders of certificates of deposit for stock or trust certificates stamped as assenting to the Plan who desire to purchase new stock in addition to the minimum rights of purchase given under the Plan, must file their application therefor on the form attached to the Application Certificates with Central Union Trust Company of New York, as Depositary, at its office, 80 Broadway, New York City, on or before the close of business on NOVEMBER 1, 1920. They may apply for any amount of stock at the specified price and in the fixed proportions as between Class A stock and Class B stock, but at the time of filing application must pay on account of the purchase price of Class A and Class B stock applied for, $10 in cash in respect of each and every share of Class A stock applied for. Any cash payment made on account of the purchase price of Class A and Class B stock applied for but not allotted, will be returned as provided in the Plan. It is expected that notice of allotment will be given on or about the 3rd day of November, 1920.

ROBERT LIVINGSTON

WHEN Livingston, then Chancellor of the State of New York, administered the oath of office to President Washington, at Federal Hall in 1789, he had already attained rank as one of the foremost statesmen of his time. In 1799, as one of the founders of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, he brought to its service that vision and grasp of affairs which later led him to urge and negotiate the great Louisiana Purchase. Throughout its 121 years of progress the service of the Bank to the business community has been a service not merely of resources but of vision and intimate understanding in putting its resources to work in developing the business of its customers.

EXPERTS EXCHANGE VIEWS AT BRUSSELS

GERMANS PRESENT DATA

Their Budget Estimates Show a Deficit of $39,000,000,000 Marks.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 26 (Associated Press).—German reports to the financial conference in progress here attribute the present financial condition of the country to the length of the war. Germany's decline in financial strength is shown clearly by the fact that the national debt of the empire proper, exclusive of debts of confederated States, has risen from 5,000,000,000 marks before the war to 240,000,000,000 marks. The Government's budget estimates for 1920 put receipts at 40,000,000,000 marks, opposed to estimated demands of 79,000,000,000 marks, thus leaving a deficit of 39,000,000,000 marks.

A table annexed to the report shows that the exports of Germany, including products furnished on account of reparations, exceeded imports by 600,000,000 marks in April and 1,000,000,000 marks in May. The balance of trade against Germany in 1919 was 22,000,000,000 marks.

The report explains that the increase in export figures is due essentially to the depreciation in the value of the mark.

The unfavorable situation of German finances also is reflected to some extent in the steadily growing paper circulation, which has risen from about 6,000,000,000 marks in 1914 to 72,000,000,000 marks in August, 1920.

While the budget needs fix the extent of Germany's own burden, the report continues, the fact that the amount of her obligations to her adversaries has not yet been fixed is most detrimental to any regular budget.

Thus far the German delegation has not indicated that it has any plan to submit for the consideration of the conference.

Though the public session of the financial conference has been characterized only by the presentation of an enormous mass of data and figures, the informal conferences in the lobbies of the Chamber of Representatives and the committee rooms have furnished occasion for the leading delegates to exchange views and pave the way for the real work of the conference, which will begin tomorrow, when the British Vice President, R. H. Brand, will open the debate on the general financial situation.

The exchange of views has not developed any tangible proposition, but has shown a tendency to settle the world's financial troubles through regular financial channels and no longer look for the various Governments to aid one another. The German delegates are among the most assiduous and attentive at the conference, though they are manifestly ill at ease.

The American representative, William Boyden, though necessarily taking a minor part of the conference, has had talks with a number of delegates, including Dr. Schueller, and has had occasion to suggest some practical ways or relieving economic distress, among others by breaking down the barriers that are obstructing trade at the newly-established frontiers of the Central European States. He has called attention to the fact that Hungary alone has fifty-seven points of entry where trade is being held up by vexatious customs regulations.

The outstanding features of the financial statements thus far presented are the optimism of the new States, which, without exception, see a bright future, provided the capital necessary for development can be obtained, and the pessimism of the European neutrals, which complain of trade restrictions and dwell upon increased debt and the need of capital at home. Such is the case particularly with Spain, which points out that a deficit of 900,000,000 pesetas in the budget affords great anxiety to Spanish statesmen, necessitating new taxes of 45 pesetas per capita.

AID ASKED FOR PRODUCE MEN

Public Service Board to Consider Suspending Washington Street Cars.

At the request of the Downtown League, the Public Service Commission will hold a hearing Wednesday on its application to suspend operation of the Washington Street surface line from Canal Street south between midnight and 6 A. M. Suspension of car traffic is desired to relieve congestion in Washington Street, much of the fruit and produce entering New York City being handled during these hours.

The Downtown League has asked Mayor Hylan to go back to the system under which the Street Cleaning Department handled the waste of business houses. Collection of such waste was discontinued by the city under the Mitchel administration, and since then the expense has been borne by individuals. Mayor Hylan has notified the league that he will bring their request to the attention of the Board of Estimate.

SPEECHES BY RADIO 'PHONE

Forty-two Cities Will Simultaneously Hear Engineer Addresses.

Transmission of set speeches simultaneously by radio telephone to forty-two widely scattered cities will be attempted on Nov. 5, when State branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers meet to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. Electrical and mechanical engineers have informed the Executive Committee of the society that the science of wireless telephony has progressed so rapidly in the last year that the feat will be entirely feasible.

The speeches will be scattered through the air from Boston on the Atlantic to San Francisco on the Pacific and two-score of intervening cities. Professor H. V. Bozell is aiding in the plans for the feat, and negotiations have progressed favorably for the use of the two great Government radio stations at Arlington and Fort Leavenworth.

Among the speakers whose remarks will be carried over the country by the invisible forces of the radio telephone are Herbert Hoover, President of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers; Arthur P. Davis, President of the American Society of Civil Engineers and chief engineer of the United States Reclamation Service; Arthur W. Berresford, head of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and Fred J. Miller, President of the Mechanical Engineers.

LAWES STOPS DRUG TRAFFIC

Sing Sing Smuggling Laid to Relative of a Convict.

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Warden Lawes today announced he had traced the source of the drug traffic that has been carried on in Sing Sing prison, and which led to seven of the inmates being transferred to Clinton prison, Dannemora, three of them to the hospital.

A relative of one of the inmates, is said to have been smuggling the drugs to the prisoners. Heroin was found hidden in the bushes outside the prison walls, and in a construction shack on the hill overlooking the institution.

Warden Lawes says he has put a stop to the traffic and asserts those responsible for it will be severely punished.

To Promote "Little Democracies."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The National Community Board, incorporated, according to its founders, to "act as attorney for the public," has opened headquarters here. Its immediate aims were announced as including "the development of local communities into little democracies, with schoolhouses as capitols, and to put into operation the nation's original and expanding ideals of justice and democracy."

FAIR WAGE URGED FOR PRISON SHOPS

Survey Committee Would Abolish 1½ Cents a Day Pay—Report to Governor.

GOMPERS IN FAVOR OF IT

Current Prices Would Be Paid, Convict's Keep Deducted and Balance Go to Dependents.

A recommendation that convicts in the State prisons receive a fair wage for their labor in prison shops, instead of the present rate of 1½ cents a day, is made to Governor Smith in a report of his Prison Survey Committee. The report was made public yesterday by Adolph Lewisohn, Chairman of the committee.

For the work done in prison shops the committee would have the State pay the wage current in similar shops outside the prison, deduct the cost of the prisoner-laborer's maintenance, and then place the sum to his credit or to that of his dependents. This plan has been approved also by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders who visited Sing Sing prison recently.

According to the report only about 2,000 of the 5,300 prisoners would be mentally and physically able to perform full-time productive work. The rate of pay would be based upon the efficiency of the shop, and if a prison shop were able to turn out only 75 pper cent. of the production of an outside shop, the prison workers would receive only 75 per cent. of the outside pay. Piece work would be paid for at standard rates prevalent in outside shops.

"Eighty per cent. of the prison population have mastered no skilled trade," says the report, "and the cause of the failure of these men's lives is that they never learned to work. Their imprisonment in no way has checked the easy current of their ways, for 91 per cent. have been dismissed on the expiration of their minimum sentence, their mastery of a trade playing no part in the consideration of their parole.

"For archaic methods, haphazard production and low efficiency, the committee would substitute modern equipment and processes, standardized productions concentrated on a few types and patterns in each industry and training under skilled foremen, coupled with vocational instruction. In rounding out its industrial program, the committee urges that the Department of Labor be authorized to make the same examination of prison shops as are made now of outside establishments, and that the Workman's Compensation law be extended to the prisons.

"Even though organized on the efficient lines," says the report, "prison labor would never become a menace to free labor nor to free industry, as its products can be sold only to State departments or institutions, or to those of political divisions of the State. Nevertheless, a considerable market exists for prison-made goods, as it is estimated that there is a yearly demand from the State and the cities of New York and Buffalo for over $20,000,000 worth of goods which could be made in prison shops.

"Besides Mr. Lewisohn, the chairman, the committee includes John S. Kennedy, also President of the Prison Commission; Helen Hartley Jenkins, Herbert S. Carpenter, Alexander M. Hadden, Ephraim Kaufmann, Adelbert Moot, John J. Munholland, and George W. Alger, counsel."

"MANAGEMENT EDUCATION."

New Course in Colleges to Provide Executives for Industry.

A course in "management education" to provide trained executives for industry is to be established in several hundred American colleges, according to an announcement made here yesterday by Dr. Hollis Godfrey, President of the Drexel Institute in Philadelphia and formerly member of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense. Dr. Godfrey said that through the Council of Management Education the plan had the backing of corporations representing a capitalization of $20,000,000,000.

Educators are now perfecting the plan which contemplates establishing practical courses in the schools, assisting undergraduates and others to choose their work, by placing several thousands of students and teachers in industry during the Summer months and by introducing extension courses for men now in industry. A fund of $100,000 has been provided to determine the field of service which each college can cover, and to provide the schools with all industrial data which may be utilized in forming undergraduate courses for men who contemplate entering industry and in reaching through extension courses the management men already in industry.

TO EXTRADITE LOU BETTS.

State Trooper to Bring Him from Virginia on Gambling Charge.

"Colonel" Lou Betts, indicted by the Nassau County Grand Jury on Sept. 4 as a common gambler, though his wife in divorce proceedings once described him as "king" of that profession, has been arrested in Lester Manor, Va., District Attorney Weeks of Mineola announced yesterday. Extradition papers have been sent to Governor Smith, and as soon as he signs them a State trooper will be sent to bring Betts back for trial. In the meantime he is at liberty on bail furnished to the Virginia court.

Betts is supposed to be the proprietor of "King's Cottage," in Hewletts, L. I. A raid there several years ago, it is said, resulted in the seizure of a large quantity of gambling paraphernalia. The indictment, however, resulted from John Doe proceedings conducted by Supreme Court Justice Scudder in an effort to drive gamblers from the Long Island county. Justice Scudder has charged openly that they have been able to operate only through collusion of some county authorities.

WITHERING DEMAND NO CRIMP TO MARKET

MANY LINES ARE OVERSOLD

Lumber and Brick Weakness Ascribed to Intratrade Strife—Inquiry Reviving.

Withering demand in an already oversold market has so far had no general price cutting effect in building materials, according to compilations made by The Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

Since August first, when the slackening in new construction activity first began to have a bearing upon the material demand, price reductions have occurred only in ten items out of forty-two basic building commodities reporting. Of the remainder sixteen report no price changes whatever and sixteen, on the other hand, actually record price advances. The items sub-divided according to price movements, covering delivered prices, except where noted, follow:

There is an over-sold condition in practically all the basic building material departments, with the possible exception of lumber. In some branches of this department certain lumbers are still hard to obtain and prices are firm. In the Portland cement section it is little realized by those demanding lower prices that there is only approximately a ten days' supply of this important building commodity in the nation's reserve bins, or about 40,000 barrels for each of the ninety-two companies.

In the common brick department a well-known manufacturer last week flatly refused to contract for 50,000,000 brick for Spring delivery at $25 a thousand although the market today is raggedly ranging between $15 and $18 for run of market brick. Everybody in the trade knows that fuel shortage has made it impossible to manufacture brick in anything like anticipatory quantities this year, and yet next year's demand, judging from options sought in the market today, will prove the present reserve to be inadequate before the brick manufacturing season of 1921 is fairly under way. The present price drop is due, not to panicky fear of threatened investigation of the industry, but to a legitimate desire on the part of manufacturers to unload brick barges that have been lying at docks for almost a quarter of a year, piling up demurrage, so that they can be sent back to the yards for reloading and further shipment before they disband their organization next week for the season.

In the lumber department the cuts that have occurred are due primarily to intratrade competition and differences and a struggle to determine within themselves who shall pay the recent freight rate increases, the consumer or the distributer. Price drops feature some departments of yellow pine, North Carolina pine and the hardwoods which affect flooring. Douglas fir flooring and dimension stock have dropped. The shortage of cars is still a great factor in causing the present ragged price conditions in the lumber market.

JEWS PLAN $3,500,000 DRIVE

100 Leaders to Make Forty Days' Tour for Jewish Education.

Headed by Mortimer L. Schiff of this city, Congressman Julius Kahn of San Francisco and Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, a "flying squadron" of 100 prominent Jews will make a forty days' tour of the principal cities of the United States to spread a message of rejuvenated Judaism as the first gun in a $3,500,000 drive launched by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for the support of Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, for the extension of synagogue activity and Jewish education throughout the country and for the protection of the Jews' civic rights.

The "squadron" will be composed of bankers, educators and philanthropists. It will start Nov. 4 and will hold mass meetings in 200 cities, representing every State in the Union. In December the "squadron" will visit Montreal.

The headquarters of the "flying squadron" are at 62 Duttenhofer Street, Cincinnati, and the President is J. Walter Freiberg. Rabbi George Zepin is Secretary.

A SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

In a recent decision, referring to the LAWYERS MORTGAGE COMPANY, said:

"The Corporation is a great financial institution organized for the purpose of guaranteeing real estate mortgages. It is one of the two or three largest and financially strongest institutions of its kind in the city, and, I believe, in the country. Its GUARANTEED MORTGAGE is a legal investment for Trustees, Trust Companies, and Savings Banks."

INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY
The Father of INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY and Author of MAN TO MAN
FOUNDERS

Talks with Executives.

HORSE POWER
VS.
MAN POWER

The greatest waste in your business is the unused brains of your employes, and therein lie your future profits.

YOU can't get the best good out of a man by using the whip and giving him enough oats to keep him merely in good physical condition.

¶ That kind of treatment develops horse power—not man power.

¶ If any man should claim that your organization contains sufficient clever and talented brains to double the business within one year, you would either pass the statement up as utterly foolish, or think — "Of course he means me."

¶ For thousands of years we did not even suspect the existence of electricity and, being ignorant—received no proft from its use.

¶ If we had not heard the music, we would say that it was merely the dream of an idiot to expect the most beautiful harmony of sound from a combination of wood, intestines of a dead cat, and hair from the tail of an old cab horse—but the violin plus the man who knows how, accomplishes the wonderful work.

¶ These illustrations are here merely to suggest dormant power and harmony of action that will produce most pleasing and profitable results.

¶ You have hundreds of thousands of men in your organization and they are the acme of all created things because of their vast capabilities.

¶ You may have one or two men in whom you have seen real talent—but how about the 99 or 999?—maybe the trouble is with your "eyesight."

¶ Active talent is the source of both quality and quantity of manufacture and sales, and that does not lie in money or merchandise—but in MEN—and is frequently misdirected.

¶ Every man has power and courage, but he does not always know it.

¶ And Lincoln came from a log cabin.

¶ Once in a while Mother Nature takes a particularly "raw" bit of material and shows us what is in it—it's a suggestion for us to do likewise—not with one, but with many.

EMPLOYE REPRESENTATION injects a mutual and co-operative interest into a "monotonous job."

¶ We will deliver to you no Aladdin's Lamp, for you have a thousand such lamps in your own place—they're in the office, factory and sales force, but so covered with dust that you don't recognize them—that's all.

RAPIERS MISSING; DUEL DECLARED OFF

Greenwich Village Artists Shake Hands Rather Than Fight with Fists.

SECONDS AVERT COMBAT

Neighbors Who Knew of Challenge Surprised to See Principals Return, Chatting Gayly.

Greenwich Village waited with bated breath until 10 o'clock yesterday morning for the result of the much-heralded duel with rapiers between Nikolas Muray, Macdougal Street photographer, and Jacques La Salle, Washington Square artist, an affair which all the village knew was to take place somewhere at sun-up. The folk of Sheridan and Washington Squares knew both men for good swordsmen. At 10 o'clock, however, when an automobile brought the principals and their seconds home from the Palisades, it was plain to be seen that there had been no bloodshed.

The principals, in fact, were chatting gayly, having forgotten their "misunderstanding." Muray referred all inquirers to his seconds, Willy Pogany of 61 Washington Square and M. A. Rasko, a portrait painter, of 200 West Fifty-seventh Street. Stowed away in Muray's rooms were the rapiers, a fencer's mask or two, a few newspaper clippings announcing the duel and his photographer's equipment.

"I cannot talk about it," the photographer said. "You will have to see my seconds. It is the European code that a principal may not discuss a duel."

Mr. Rasko, when reporters called on him at his studio, said:

"I will begin by saying that there was no duel. We seconds saw to that. The principals, you know, must do as the seconds dictate. I was once an officer in the Hungarian Army and have fought six duels and taken part in twenty-seven, and I know something of the European code. So, as I said, the seconds decided that the laws were not to be broken, and the rapiers did not turn up on the field of honor. Without weapons there could be no duel. And then the principals became convinced that there had been a misunderstanding, and that ended the affair."

Both sides journeyed to the Palisades at Englewood Heights in automobiles, arriving there at 6 o'clock. When the La Salle party got there they found Murray pacing up and down. It was cold and rather foggy, M. Rasko said.

The seconds begged and persuaded their principals not to take the field of honor over such a trivial matter—and finally, playing their trump card, informed both that if they wanted to fight a duel they could carry on with their fists for the rapiers were unmistakably absent. Neither auto had carried them.

So, both finally shook hands, and journeyed home together.
